Georgia U. Faces Closing Due To Integration Order

State Laws Provide For Funds Halt

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A ban on state funds for the University of Georgia seemed probable Saturday after a Negro student, backed by a U.S. Dist. Court order, appeared for admission at the all-white institution.

ENJOINS OFFICIALS

The university was enjoined Friday by U.S. Dist. Court Judge W. A. Bootle from discriminating against eligible Negro applicants. The jurist ordered enrollment of Holmes and Charlayne Hunter, 19, Atlanta, who has been attending Wayne University in Detroit.

Negroes have never attended the 175-year-old university which has 7,400 white students. Attorneys for Holmes and the Hunter girl pursued a lengthy legal fight to force their admission.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook quickly filed a notice of appeal with Clerk of Court John Cowart in U. S. District Court at Macon. Cook also filed a motion for a stay of the judge's injunction pending the appeal.

Bootle scheduled a hearing for 9:30 a.m. Monday at Macon on the motion for a stay.

Legal sources said that normally, as soon as both sides are heard, an application for a stay is ruled on immediately.

State officials hoped Bootle would grant the stay. But if he declines to do so, as seems probable, an automatic cutoff of funds could become effective.

State officials moved quickly to

Daniel Braddock, charge d'-affaires from Grand Rapids, Mich., was first off the plane reaching Miami at 5:30 p.m. EST after a three hour delay from scheduled takeoff time at Havana.

Braddock said he would go at once to Washington and confer with State Department officials. Asked whether he needed a rest after the strain of closing the embassy in the U.S.-Cuba diplomatic break, Braddock replied, "No, I have got to get to Washington."

As the Pan American World Airways plane touched down, its captain announced, "Here we are back in the Sunshine State and the land of the free." The unroutine statement drew a burst of applause from the passengers.

OTHER OFFICIALS

Accompanying Braddock were several other embassy officials, including Harvey Wellman, chief political officer from Coral Gables, Fla., and Perry, N.Y.; Joseph Floyd of Charleston, S.C., naval attache, and James Noel, political attache, San Diego, Calif.

Waiting to greet her husband, Hugh Kessler, a consul, was Isabel Kessler and their two children, Denny, 10, and John, 4. Kessler's mother is Mrs. Eugene Kessler of Tampa, Fla.

In addition to diplomatic personnel, the plane brought six American newsmen who had just been released from jail. They were Paul Schutzer and Norman Itter, correspondents for Life magazine, and four CBS newsmen — Bernard Eismann of Chicago, Robert Schanke of New York, and Bruce Hoertel and Andrew Willoner of Washington.

Donna Clift was at the airport although she knew her husband, George Clift Jr., was not aboard the plane. He was one of three Americans remaining behind until Swiss government employes could take over the U.S. business by agreement with departing U.S.

JFK Names 3 To White House Staff

Action Nearly Completes His Official Family

NEW YORK (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy virtually completed his White House official family Saturday night with the appointment of three staff members who will work closely with him during his administration.

Two have been members of Kennedy's staffs in the senate and the third was an active campaigner for Kennedy for the presidency.

APPOINTEES

The appointees were:

—Timothy J. Reardon Jr., 45, a Harvard graduate and administrative assistant to Kennedy for the last 14 years, who will serve as administrative assistant to the President.

—Ralph A. Dungan, 37, a Princeton graduate and former legislative assistant to Kennedy, who will be special assistant to the President with the duties of White House staff secretary.

—Frederick G. Dutton, 37, a graduate of the University of California and Stanford law school and former executive secretary to California Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, who will be special assistant to the President responsible for maintaining liaison with cabinet heads, government agencies, state governments and other levels of government.

The appointments brought to 11 the White House staff selections made by Kennedy. Press secretary Pierre Salinger said that the administrative roster now was about complete except for selection of a military aide and possibly one or two other posts.

Kennedy's staff will be "somewhat smaller" than that of President Eisenhower, he said.

Board Defends Rights Of LSU Staff Members

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors declared Saturday that the University is committed to academic freedom and faculty members have rights as citizens.

The board issued a statement after a closed meeting with LSU President Troy Middleton and other top university administrators.

The university's pronouncement of what a spokesman called "historic policy" came after the Louisiana Legislature launched an un-American activities investigation of LSU, and English Prof. Waldo McNeir resigned from the university after he wrote his state senator that the fight against integration was a national disgrace.

At the time the university's announcement was made, the LSU chapter of the American Association of University Professors expressed confidence the university had nothing to fear from the impending investigation.

"We feel that the continued silence by the university community on the matter of the impending legislative investigation of the universiry may create the impression that this investigation is

$400,000 Theft Suspect Nabbed

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—A Tampa man formerly employed by Rasdell Armored Car Service, Inc., was arrested Saturday night in connection with the theft of $400,000 from the Rasdell vaults here on Dec. 27.

The FBI and Tampa police said Jose Lino Alvarez, 42, was arrested at his home.

Alvarez was charged in a warrant with "...abetting other persons to take and carry away with intent to steal and purloin money exceeding $100 belonging to the Marine Bank and Trust Co., Tampa."

Money from the bank was among the funds taken from the armored car service vaults last month.

Castro's Foes Plan Invasion

CHICAGO (UPI) — The former commander of the Cuban Air Force Saturday said he doubted that Premier Fidel Castro would take action against the Guantanamo naval base because he fears the reaction of his people.

"Castro wouldn't be so foolish to move against the base," Maj. Luis Diaz Lanz said. "He's afraid of the reaction of the Cuban people."

Diaz Lanz spoke at a news conference a few hours after the Cuban Democratic Front (CDF) said it probably would invade Cuba within six months with an armed force of more than 10,000 men trained at secret camps outside the United States.

The group also estimated that about 100,000 Cubans, currently living on the island, would assist the invaders by immediately taking up arms against the Castro regime.

Accusing Castro of being a Communist, Diaz Lanz said Castro told him prior to the revolution that he wanted to set up a "system like Russia in Cuba.

"Castro was always a Communist," Diaz Lanz said. "Castro in two years has made more enemies than anyone else. He has killed and destroyed more than anyone else in the history of Cuba."

The bearded Cuban leader, Diaz Lanz added, also lives in fear of "his own imagination" and that "someone might kill him.

Diaz Lanz, whose father, brother and sister-in-law were seized by the Castro forces and held, shed little light on the CDF's invasion plans, which were disclosed as the

AFTER AIRDROPS

Arms From U.S. Seized In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Bolstering its claim that a U.S. invasion threatens, the Cuban government announced Saturday it has seized two airdrops of weapons originated in the United States and destined for insurgents here.

The invasion scare Prime Minister Fidel Castro started nine days ago is beginning to strain Cubans and their industries. The big sugar harvest is at hand, but the workers are busy at other things—putting on militia uniforms and manning the Soviet and Czech weapons that bristle everywhere on this Caribbean island.

A defense spokesman said Castro's militia grabbed one arms collection of pistols, rifles, machine guns, mortars and bazookas dropped west of Havana in Pinar del Rio Province.

Soldiers pounced on a second load of munitions and medicine parachuted from a plane in the Escambray Mountains of Las Villas Province, the government said.

If the report is true, insurgents still holed up in those areas suffered a severe blow by losing thousands of dollars worth of fighting equipment.

Ruptured Cuban-American relations became complete Saturday when the Swiss Embassy assumed protection of U.S. interests in Cuba and all but three U.S. Embassy officials flew home.

The breach that began with Cuba's order to shrink the size of the U.S. Embassy staff and was climaxed by President Eisenhower's formal break in relations now leaves several hundred Americans to continue life here with their own wits.

The powerful military concentrations in Cuba's cities dislodge normal business and industrial activity. But war games and total mobilization have deeper effects in the countryside.

Mansfield Asks Senate Action In Rules Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called Saturday for an early showdown in the Senate dispute over proposals to change the rules to make it easier to end filibusters.

He said he expects action of some sort by Tuesday.

Meanwhile, efforts at a compromise which would permit three-fifths of the senators voting to limit debate appeared to be gaining strength. Under present rules, the assent of two-thirds of those voting is needed to cut off extended debate. There are 100 senators in all.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., said "we are trying to get all those who favor a change in the rule under one tent."

Working with Anderson for the three-fifths proposal is Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The first test probably will come on proposals by Sens. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and numerous other senators for ending debate by a simple majority of the full Senate, or 51 senators.

Any senator could offer a motion to table this, a move which requires a vote without further talk.

If this succeeds, as most senators believe it will, then the Anderson - Morton proposal would arise.

CIVIL WAR OBSERVANCE

Ceremonies Today Launch Centennial

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE
Associated Press Staff Writer

At a revered spot on the upper West Side of Manhattan, in the early Sunday afternoon, hundreds of uniformed figures will stand solemnly at attention.

The scene will be Grant's Tomb on Riverside Drive, not far from Columbia University. At a fixed time, the heavy silence will be broken by the roll of a chorus of drums. Then a military band will play the Star Spangled Banner.

Meanwhile, several hundred miles to the south in Virginia, there will be a quiet ceremony at the Lexington tomb of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Then, throughout the nation, church bells will toll. Thus will begin the centennial observance of the Civil War. The observance will last four years.

President Eisenhower urged all Americans to join in the observance, and in a statement.

"This observance affords us a special opportunity to pay tribute to those Americans whose heroism and sacrifice, a century ago, comprise a part of our national heritage," said the President's statement.

"America then was a nation divided. Today she possesses a national and spiritual unity which has been nurtured and developed over the years — and sometimes defended at a great price. This unity provides a base for all that we do as a people."

The American Civil War — the war Between the States — actually broke out April 12, 1861, when

Third Party Threat Seen By Thurmond

Overhauling Of Present Major Parties Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., urged Republicans and Democrats Saturday to overhaul their parties "or face the threat of a third major force."

Thurmond, in an interview, called for re-alignment of the two parties on conservative and liberal lines without regard to names, labels, or symbols.

SEES DIFFICULTIES

"If they don't re-align," he declared, "a strong, conservative party will arise. It will eventually become one of the two major parties because the other two will merge."

The conservative South Carolinian conceded it would be difficult to re-organize the parties, mainly because "most political leaders are afraid to do anything that will hurt their party standing."

He declined to fix a timetable but said it would be possible for a third party to emerge before the 1964 elections.

In 1948, Thurmond was the presidential candidate on the States Rights ticket. He supported President Eisenhower in 1952 and this year refused to support President-elect John F. Kennedy.

"I'm not saying what role I would play" in the formation of a third party, Thurmond said, adding that he was not involved in any plans now and did not know of any.

He also made it clear that he would much prefer the present parties re - organized under new names.

"There are conservatives in both parties," Thurmond said, "but the people don't have a choice. The platforms are almost alike. I want to see parties with platforms the people believe in. If people want the left wing, they can have it. If people believe in more conservative government, which most

Parents Face Prosecution In School Boycott

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Parents of 98 children in the Harwood area were notified Saturday they face prosecution under the Pennsylvania compulsory attendance law for keeping the youngsters out of school.

The parents began a boycott last Tuesday when classes resumed after the holidays.

Their children formerly attended Harwood elementary school, which the Hazle Township School Board closed on grounds it was beyond repair. The board ordered the youngsters to attend Oakdale and Jaspan-Jeddo schools some 10 miles away. The parents, contending those schools were in no better repair than Harwood, refused.

Most said they still planned to keep their children out until the board holds a special meeting to consider reopening the Harwood school, reassigns students to schools closer home or considers an offer from the Hazleton city School Board to rent a building not far from Harwood.

Parents of children absent from school three days or more without excuse may be fined $2 for a first offense and $5 for any succeeding offense. If they fail to pay the fines they may be sentenced to five days in jail.

Hotel Fire Toll Climbs To 20

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The death toll reached 20 Saturday in the tragic Thomas Hotel fire which spread swiftly up the 47-year-old, five story Mission Street hotel's open stairway Friday.

There's an average of a mattress fire a day in the old brick and brownstone hotels crowding San Francisco's south of Market Street district, said Fire Chief William Murray.

One occurred Saturday in the Ford Hotel, only two doors from the Thomas. Damage was negligible.

The Thomas Hotel blaze started as a mattress fire in the room of Raymond Gorman, 61, World War I pensioner.

Gorman, who said he had been drinking so heavily he doesn't remember anything, was held in city prison on a booking of suspicion of manslaughter.

Cloudy And Dry Today's Outlook

The rains, so the weatherman says, will go away for today. But they didn't leave before dumping considerable moisture on the Twin Cities and the surrounding area.

Along with cloudy skies in today's prediction is a high temperature of 52. The low expected tonight is 40.

Saturday's high reached 54 and dipped only to a low of 52. In the rainfall department, 1.65 inches fell Saturday.

U.S. Gets New Radiation Data

Valuable information was radioed back from all eight experiments packed into the 392-pound payload.

The slender, 72-foot rocket, making its maiden flight performed perfectly as it scooted high over the Atlantic. All three stages fired in rapid succession and hurled the package 1,000 miles into space.

PAYLOAD FALLS

As the payload plunged back towards earth, a 90-pound instrument capsule popped out and parachuted into the Atlantic Ocean about 1,200 miles down range, landing northeast of the West Indies island of Antigua.

A Jc-54 search plane spotted the capsule in the water in late afternoon. The aircraft from the 6560th Operations Group at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., directed the ocean range vessel Coastal Crusader to the scene.

The Coastal Crusader was 200 miles away and was not expected to reach the capsule for a recovery attempt until Sunday morning. The capsule carried a miniature tape recorder to register velocity and payload temperatures during the 32-minute flight.

The Air Force said clear signals were received from the experiments, most of which took readings in the bottom edge of

Three Children In Stalled Car Killed By Train

BROOKSTON, Ind. (AP)—Three children on their way to a Sunday school skating party couldn't get out of a stalled car in time Saturday to escape death at a railroad crossing here.

The woman driver and two girls escaped and a fourth person was badly injured by the Monon passenger train speeding through Brookston en route from Chicago to Louisville, Ky.

The dead children were identified as Douglas Dearduff, 12; Marie Paugh, 13, and her sister, Karen, 8.

Roger Logan., 16, who was scrambling out of the back seat of the car when the train hit, was taken to a hospital in critical condition with possible fractured left leg and head injuries.

Mrs. Vernon Dearduff, mother of the dead boy, grabbed her daughter, Kathy, 2, and escaped unhurt from the front seat of the two-door sedan, along with Karen Logan, 14.

Mrs. Dearduff and the children were just starting out in Brookston to drive to a Lafayette roller skating rink for a skating party of Brookston Methodist church children.

She said she had been having trouble with the engine stalling in her car. It stalled again on the railroad crossing.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Goodwill Industry Meeting Set Here

An organizational meeting at which interested persons will discuss the possible establishment of a Goodwill Industries in this area will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in Monroe, according to George Harbuck, temporary chairman of the movement.

A district representative of Goodwill Industries, Inc., will be present at the meeting to show a short film and discuss "just what Goodwill Industries can do for a community," Harbuck said.

According to a preliminary survey, some 2,000 employable handicapped persons reside in the fifth district.

About 300 are in Ouachita Parish alone, according to the report released yesterday.

The Goodwill Industries plan, as explained here by proponents of the project, provides facilities to employ handicapped persons.

Of this number, 17 are female and 56 are military service veterans.

Harbuck said that several key citizens of the community have been invited to the Wednesday night meeting in hopes that they may be shown the need for a Goodwill Industries and also shown how they may be of assistance in establishing such an enterprise here.

Harbuck also pointed out that "anyone interested is heartily welcome."

West To Offer Plans For Laos Civil War End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers plan to propose to the Soviet Union early next week a formula for international action to halt the civil war in Laos and the danger of an expanding cold war battleground in Southeast Asia.

Britain will play the leading role in making the approach to the Moscow government. The heart of the formula is to revive an international control commission for Laos on the understanding that it would deal with, though not necessarily recognize formally, the present pro-American government of Premier Prince Boun Oum.

The United States, in a brief "white paper" on the Laotian crisis, charged Saturday that the Soviet Union has been expanding its airlift to the leftist and pro-Communist rebels fighting the Boun Oum government. But the statement also further opened the door to manuevers aimed at a peaceful solution.

The document was released by the State Department.

It said there are three ways the United States can contribute to a solution of the Laotian problem.

One way, it said, is "by joining with other free nations to support and maintain the independence of Laos through whatever measures seem most promising."

The other two points by current U. S. policy, the statement said, are to tell the world "the true nature of Communist intentions and actions in Laos," and to show that the United States itself does not seek to make Laos a Western military ally.

At a revered spot on the upper West Side of Manhattan, in the early Sunday afternoon, hundreds of uniformed figures will stand solemnly at attention.

The scene will be Grant's Tomb on Riverside Drive, not far from Columbia University. At a fixed time, the heavy silence will be broken by the roll of a chorus of drums. Then a military band will play the Star Spangled Banner.

Meanwhile, several hundred miles to the south in Virginia, there will be a quiet ceremony at the Lexington tomb of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Then, throughout the nation, church bells will toll. Thus will begin the centennial observance of the Civil War. The observance will last four years.

President Eisenhower urged all Americans to join in the observance, and in a statement.

"This observance affords us a special opportunity to pay tribute to those Americans whose heroism and sacrifice, a century ago, comprise a part of our national heritage," said the President's statement.

"America then was a nation divided. Today she possesses a national and spiritual unity which has been nurtured and developed over the years — and sometimes defended at a great price. This unity provides a base for all that we do as a people."

The American Civil War — the war Between the States — actually broke out April 12, 1861, when

Hotel Fire Toll Climbs To 20

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The death toll reached 20 Saturday in the tragic Thomas Hotel fire which spread swiftly up the 47-year-old, five story Mission Street hotel's open stairway Friday.

There's an average of a mattress fire a day in the old brick and brownstone hotels crowding San Francisco's south of Market Street district, said Fire Chief William Murray.

One occurred Saturday in the Ford Hotel, only two doors from the Thomas. Damage was negligible.

The Thomas Hotel blaze started as a mattress fire in the room of Raymond Gorman, 61, World War I pensioner.

Gorman, who said he had been drinking so heavily he doesn't remember anything, was held in city prison on a booking of suspicion of manslaughter.

Third Party Threat Seen By Thurmond

Overhauling Of Present Major Parties Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., urged Republicans and Democrats Saturday to overhaul their parties "or face the threat of a third major force."

Thurmond, in an interview, called for re-alignment of the two parties on conservative and liberal lines without regard to names, labels, or symbols.

SEES DIFFICULTIES

"If they don't re-align," he declared, "a strong, conservative party will arise. It will eventually become one of the two major parties because the other two will merge."

The conservative South Carolinian conceded it would be difficult to re-organize the parties, mainly because "most political leaders are afraid to do anything that will hurt their party standing."

He declined to fix a timetable but said it would be possible for a third party to emerge before the 1964 elections.

In 1948, Thurmond was the presidential candidate on the States Rights ticket. He supported President Eisenhower in 1952 and this year refused to support President-elect John F. Kennedy.

"I'm not saying what role I would play" in the formation of a third party, Thurmond said, adding that he was not involved in any plans now and did not know of any.

He also made it clear that he would much prefer the present parties re - organized under new names.

"There are conservatives in both parties," Thurmond said, "but the people don't have a choice. The platforms are almost alike. I want to see parties with platforms the people believe in. If people want the left wing, they can have it. If people believe in more conservative government, which most

Parents Face Prosecution In School Boycott

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Parents of 98 children in the Harwood area were notified Saturday they face prosecution under the Pennsylvania compulsory attendance law for keeping the youngsters out of school.

The parents began a boycott last Tuesday when classes resumed after the holidays.

Their children formerly attended Harwood elementary school, which the Hazle Township School Board closed on grounds it was beyond repair. The board ordered the youngsters to attend Oakdale and Jaspan-Jeddo schools some 10 miles away. The parents, contending those schools were in no better repair than Harwood, refused.

Most said they still planned to keep their children out until the board holds a special meeting to consider reopening the Harwood school, reassigns students to schools closer home or considers an offer from the Hazleton city School Board to rent a building not far from Harwood.

Parents of children absent from school three days or more without excuse may be fined $2 for a first offense and $5 for any succeeding offense. If they fail to pay the fines they may be sentenced to five days in jail.

Cloudy And Dry Today's Outlook

The rains, so the weatherman says, will go away for today. But they didn't leave before dumping considerable moisture on the Twin Cities and the surrounding area.

Along with cloudy skies in today's prediction is a high temperature of 52. The low expected tonight is 40.

Saturday's high reached 54 and dipped only to a low of 52. In the rainfall department, 1.65 inches fell Saturday.

U.S. Gets New Radiation Data

Valuable information was radioed back from all eight experiments packed into the 392-pound payload.

The slender, 72-foot rocket, making its maiden flight performed perfectly as it scooted high over the Atlantic. All three stages fired in rapid succession and hurled the package 1,000 miles into space.

PAYLOAD FALLS

As the payload plunged back towards earth, a 90-pound instrument capsule popped out and parachuted into the Atlantic Ocean about 1,200 miles down range, landing northeast of the West Indies island of Antigua.

A Jc-54 search plane spotted the capsule in the water in late afternoon. The aircraft from the 6560th Operations Group at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., directed the ocean range vessel Coastal Crusader to the scene.

The Coastal Crusader was 200 miles away and was not expected to reach the capsule for a recovery attempt until Sunday morning. The capsule carried a miniature tape recorder to register velocity and payload temperatures during the 32-minute flight.

The Air Force said clear signals were received from the experiments, most of which took readings in the bottom edge of

BROOKSTON, Ind. (AP)—Three children on their way to a Sunday school skating party couldn't get out of a stalled car in time Saturday to escape death at a railroad crossing here.

The woman driver and two girls escaped and a fourth person was badly injured by the Monon passenger train speeding through Brookston en route from Chicago to Louisville, Ky.

The dead children were identified as Douglas Dearduff, 12; Marie Paugh, 13, and her sister, Karen, 8.

Roger Logan,, 16, who was scrambling out of the back seat of the car when the train hit, was taken to a hospital in critical condition with possible fractured left leg and head injuries.

Mrs. Vernon Dearduff, mother of the dead boy, grabbed her daughter, Kathy, 2, and escaped unhurt from the front seat of the two-door sedan, along with Karen Logan, 14.

Mrs. Dearduff and the children were just starting out in Brookston to drive to a Lafayette roller skating rink for a skating party of Brookston Methodist church children.

She said she had been having trouble with the engine stalling in her car. It stalled again on the railroad crossing.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Goodwill Industry Meeting Set Here

An organizational meeting at which interested persons will discuss the possible establishment of a Goodwill Industries in this area will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in Monroe, according to George Harbuck, temporary chairman of the movement.

A district representative of Goodwill Industries, Inc., will be present at the meeting to show a short film and discuss "just what Goodwill Industries can do for a community," Harbuck said.

According to a preliminary survey, some 2,000 employable handicapped persons reside in the fifth district.

About 300 are in Ouachita Parish alone, according to the report released yesterday.

The Goodwill Industries plan, as explained here by proponents of the project, provides facilities to employ handicapped persons.

Of this number, 17 are female and 56 are military service veterans.

Harbuck said that several key citizens of the community have been invited to the Wednesday night meeting in hopes that they may be shown the need for a Goodwill Industries and also shown how they may be of assistance in establishing such an enterprise here.

Harbuck also pointed out that "anyone interested is heartily welcome."

State Laws Provide For Funds Halt

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A ban on state funds for the University of Georgia seemed probable Saturday after a Negro student, backed by a U.S. Dist. Court order, appeared for admission at the all-white institution.

ENJOINS OFFICIALS

The university was enjoined Friday by U.S. Dist. Court Judge W. A. Bootle from discriminating against eligible Negro applicants. The jurist ordered enrollment of Holmes and Charlayne Hunter, 19, Atlanta, who has been attending Wayne University in Detroit.

Negroes have never attended the 175-year-old university which has 7,400 white students. Attorneys for Holmes and the Hunter girl pursued a lengthy legal fight to force their admission.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook quickly filed a notice of appeal with Clerk of Court John Cowart in U. S. District Court at Macon. Cook also filed a motion for a stay of the judge's injunction pending the appeal.

Bootle scheduled a hearing for 9:30 a.m. Monday at Macon on the motion for a stay.

Legal sources said that normally, as soon as both sides are heard, an application for a stay is ruled on immediately.

State officials hoped Bootle would grant the stay. But if he declines to do so, as seems probable, an automatic cutoff of funds could become effective.

State officials moved quickly to

West To Offer Plans For Laos Civil War End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers plan to propose to the Soviet Union early next week a formula for international action to halt the civil war in Laos and the danger of an expanding cold war battleground in Southeast Asia.

Britain will play the leading role in making the approach to the Moscow government. The heart of the formula is to revive an international control commission for Laos on the understanding that it would deal with, though not necessarily recognize formally, the present pro-American government of Premier Prince Boun Oum.

The United States, in a brief "white paper" on the Laotian crisis, charged Saturday that the Soviet Union has been expanding its airlift to the leftist and pro-Communist rebels fighting the Boun Oum government. But the statement also further opened the door to manuevers aimed at a peaceful solution.

The document was released by the State Department.

It said there are three ways the United States can contribute to a solution of the Laotian problem.

One way, it said, is "by joining with other free nations to support and maintain the independence of Laos through whatever measures seem most promising."

The other two points by current U. S. policy, the statement said, are to tell the world "the true nature of Communist intentions and actions in Laos," and to show that the United States itself does not seek to make Laos a Western military ally.

Braddock said revolutionary militia units still were on guard outside the embassy building when he left.

"I said goodbye to them," he added.

In a formal statement Braddock told newsmen that "prior to my departure from Havana, I relinquished possession of United States' properties in Cuba to the Hon. Walter Bossi, ambassador from Switzerland to Cuba.

"Ambassador Bossi and his staff have assumed responsibility for the protection of the United States' interests, including protection and welfare functions in behalf of American citizens remaining in Cuba.

"I have the utmost confidence in the Swiss government in its discharge of these responsibilities. It will, I am sure, take all possible steps to provide services and protection to our citizens remaining in Cuba."

Monroyan Booked For Drunk Driving

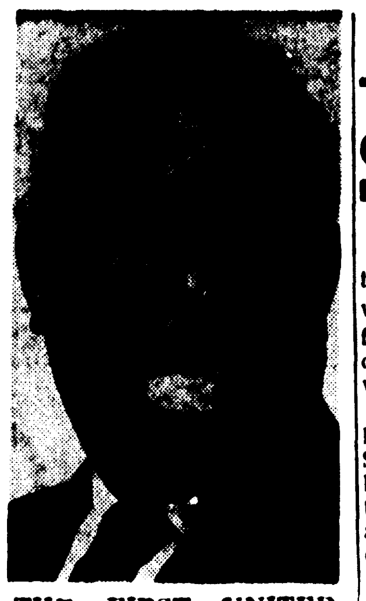
He was picked up at 1704 Emerson St. in Monroe.



THE FIRST UNITED Pentecostal Church in West Monroe will begin the new year in a new modern brick structure on Montgomery Avenue under the pastorate of the Rev. E. W. Caughron. The Rev. Caughron has pastored the church off and on for a total of 10 years.

appeal Bootle's decision. They hoped Bootle also would grant a stay in the order pending the appeal. But if Bootle declines to grant a stay, as seems probable, an automatic cutoff of state funds would become effective.

In Atlanta Gov. Ernest Vandiver said Bootle's sweeping edict placed the university in jeopardy of closing.

"If these plaintiffs enter the university on Monday morning, Jan. 9, or at any time thereafter at their convenience, under the terms of Section 8 of the Appropriations Act of 1956, the effect of Judge Bootle's order would be to automatically bring into force the provision that no further funds shall be used or expended from such apportionment and the unexpended portion thereof shall be retained in the treasury," Vandiver said.

"I have directed the attorney general to file an immediate appeal and to seek a stay pending the appeal and to take all other measures that may be necessary to protect the University of Georgia.

"In view of the emergency presented, I have summoned a meeting of legislative leaders, members of the State Board of Regents, the chancellor, the president of the university, the attorney general and special counsel to meet in the board of regents' office at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Vandiver and legislative leaders also are confronted with the problem of maintaining public schools in the face of an earlier court ruling for desegregation of Atlanta schools next fall. State law also prohibits use of state funds for public schools that admit Negroes.

The Georgia Legislature opens a 40-day session Monday and the university and public school integration problems overshadow customary issues.

President O. C. Aderhold of the university said he hoped state leaders would find a way for the institution to remain open.

Holmes was accompanied to the registrar's office by his father, Albert Holmes, Dr. Samuel Williams, a Morehouse professor who is head of the Atlanta chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Julian Bond, a school friend, and by his attorney, D. L. Hollowell.

The Hunter girl is expected to arrive from Detroit Sunday and Hollowell said she also would apply for immediate admission.

traditional time for maximum harvesting work. But thousands of field workers and mill hands are out parading, waiting for an invasion that has not come.

The semiofficial newspaper Revolucion admitted this problem Saturday. The newspaper published a full-page article saying that wives, sisters and children are taking up the workers' tasks cutting and delivering cane to the mills while their men serve in Castro's militia.

"Substitution of the sons, wives and sisters of militiamen has been ideal," Revolucion said. "In the efficiency of their (the family's) work no differences can be noted to all."

Many experts doubt, however, that women and children can effectively make up in the harvest for their missing men. The nation's future depends on a fast and efficient sugar harvest.

Ceremonies Today Launch Centennial

Confederate Gen. P.G.T. Beauregard shelled Fort Sumter at Charleston, S.C.

But an earlier event, which foreshadowed the dark days to come, was responsible for President Eisenhower's proclamation setting Jan. 8 as the official opening date for the Centennial.

This was the "Star of the West" incident, also at Fort Sumter, on Jan. 8, 1861.

The "Star of the West" was a Union supply ship. It was en route to the fort with supplies.

Rebel forces fired warning rounds from their artillery—and the "Star of the West" changed its course and went home.

In Annapolis, Md., this event will be simulated Sunday by the U.S. Military Academy. A cannon, an authentic reproduction of Civil War artillery, will fire 17 rounds.

The cannon will be manned by members of the First Maryland Artillery in full Confederate uniform.

Back in New York at the tomb of Gen. Ulysses Simpson Grant, a wreath will be placed by Maj. Gen. U.S. Grant III, chairman of the National Civil War Centennial Commission and a grandson of America's 18th president.

It was Gen. Grant, the man later to become president, who on April 9, 1865, accepted the surrender of Confederate troops by Gen. Robert E. Lee at Appomattox, Va., to end the war.

The theme of the Centennial opening today will be: "Peace, good will and binding faith."

Other centennial observances also will be held in other parts of the nation Sunday. Still others will be held at later dates.

Virginia's real part in the observance will not start until April 23—the date Lee accepted command of the Virginia armed forces. That day a parade will be held in Richmond honoring units that took part in the war.

In Boston Monday, National Guard guns will boom on the Common to mark the official opening of Massachusetts' participation. Gov. John A. Volpe and Mayor John E. Collins will speak at ceremonies at the Soldiers and Sailors Monument.

In Springfield, Ill., Sunday radio listeners will hear the same church bell that called the family of Abraham Lincoln to worship at First Presbyterian Church a century ago. The bell and the Lincoln family pew were moved from the old church building when the present edifice was built in 1868.

In Little Rock, Ark., local chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will hold a memorial service at the grave of David O. Dodd, "the boy martyr of the Confederacy." At 17 he was hanged as a spy by Union forces occupying Little Rock on Jan. 8, 1864. He is buried in Mount Holy Cemetery there.

In Fitzgerald, Ga., a south Georgia city colonized in 1895 by Union and Confederate veterans, the start of the Centennial will begin with dedication of a museum housing relics of the North-South conflict.

In Ohio, the first event will be the dedication Feb. 13 of a plaque at the State House commemorating Lincoln's address before the Legislature.

In Montgomery, Ala., the celebration begins Feb. 12 with a week-long pageant to be climaxed with a reenactment of Jefferson Davis' inauguration as president of the Confederacy.

Mississippi's observance begins March 28 in the restored old Capitol. That day in Jackson the secession session of the Mississippi Legislature will be reenacted. But the 100th anniversary of the passage of the Act of Secession will be observed Monday with a brief ceremony in the old Capitol.

nounced shortly after Kennedy arrived here by airplane from Washington for conferences with persons who will be associated with him during his administration.

Sunday night, Kennedy flies to Boston, where he will address the Massachusetts state legislature Monday and attend a meeting of the Harvard Board of Overseers. He is scheduled to return to New York Monday evening and fly to Washington Tuesday for a few hours before returning for a final visit to Palm Beach, Fla., before the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Before leaving Washington, Kennedy received special task force recommendations for "new frontier" programs to meet low-cost housing needs at home and to help fight poverty abroad.

He also held a series of policy discussions with key advisers and Democratic Party officials.

people do, they should have their party."

He said it was senseless for him and Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-a., and Barry Goldwater, Ariz. to be in different parties.

Just as senseless, he added, was for liberals like Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to be in different parties.

Thurmond said parties have been overhauled and new parties have arisen to replace others throughout the history of the country and the time has come for another such transition.

He said the northern and southern wings of the Democratic Party had nothing in common and that "no man could be elected on that platform to Congress" from the South.

He said the creation of a conservative and liberal party would produce a two-party system in the South and added that the conservative party would be dominant in Dixie but that the liberals would have a sizable minority.

group launched a drive to recruit about 600 Cubans in the Chicago area for its military force.

Dr. Florentine Martinez, head of the CDF's Chicago office, predicted the government of Premier Fidel Castro would collapse within a matter of hours after a task force lands.

Martinez and his aides implied the attack would be from the sea and air. Exact date of the invasion, he said, was set by Dr. Manuel de Varona, the CDF's coordinator and a former prime minister of Cuba.

Meanwhile, Martinez said, CDF saboteurs and guerrilla fighters already were on the island, provoking and harassing the Castro regime.

Martinez said army recruits were sent by the organization to Miami CDF headquarters, from where they received transportation to the army's training sites.

Martinez refused to pin-point the training areas but indicated they were close enough for the task force to get to Cuba "in a hurry" when the invasion date arrives.

Police Holding Negroes During Probe Of Thefts

Monroe police said yesterday they are holding two local Negroes in connection with investigation of thefts in Monroe recently.

Bastrop Man Injured In Auto Crash

BASTROP (Special) — A Bastrop man, Joe Turpin, was reported in serious condition late yesterday in the Bastrop General Hospital suffering injuries he received when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a curve north of Monroe and crashed into a bridge abutment.

The unidentified Negro driver of the car was charged with reckless driving and negligent injury, the state police said.

Neither of the men owned the car, troopers said, but declined to identify the owner — a woman.

Turpin, a victim of polio, is in his thirties, according to police. The accident occurred about eight miles north of Monroe on the old Bastrop Highway.

The car was traveling north when it went out of control.

Workmen at the scene of the accident worked nearly an hour to free Turpin before he could be moved to the hospital.

On the way the ambulance driver recognized a Bastrop physician driving along the highway on his way hunting and after stopping him he returned to Bastrop with the victim.

Burglars Hit Service Station

Monroe police are investigating a burglary reported by the manager of a service station on Winnsboro Road yesterday, officials said.

According to the manager's report, someone entered the station through a broken window between 12 midnight Friday and 6 a.m. yesterday and took from $40 to $45 from the cash register.

The upper section of the window would not close tightly, the manager said, allowing the burglars to unlock the lower section and enter the building.

The cannon will be manned by members of the First Maryland Artillery in full Confederate uniform.

Back in New York at the tomb of Gen. Ulysses Simpson Grant, a wreath will be placed by Maj. Gen. U.S. Grant III, chairman of the National Civil War Centennial Commission and a grandson of America's 18th president.

It was Gen. Grant, the man later to become president, who on April 9, 1865, accepted the surrender of Confederate troops by Gen. Robert E. Lee at Appomattox, Va., to end the war.

The theme of the Centennial opening today will be: "Peace, good will and binding faith."

Other centennial observances also will be held in other parts of the nation Sunday. Still others will be held at later dates.

Virginia's real part in the observance will not start until April 23—the date Lee accepted command of the Virginia armed forces. That day a parade will be held in Richmond honoring units that took part in the war.

In Boston Monday, National Guard guns will boom on the Common to mark the official opening of Massachusetts' participation. Gov. John A. Volpe and Mayor John E. Collins will speak at ceremonies at the Soldiers and Sailors Monument.

In Springfield, Ill., Sunday radio listeners will hear the same church bell that called the family of Abraham Lincoln to worship at First Presbyterian Church a century ago. The bell and the Lincoln family pew were moved from the old church building when the present edifice was built in 1868.

In Little Rock, Ark., local chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will hold a memorial service at the grave of David O. Dodd, "the boy martyr of the Confederacy." At 17 he was hanged as a spy by Union forces occupying Little Rock on Jan. 8, 1864. He is buried in Mount Holly Cemetery there.

In Fitzgerald, Ga., a south Georgia city colonized in 1895 by Union and Confederate veterans, the start of the Centennial will begin with dedication of a museum housing relics of the North-South conflict.

In Ohio, the first event will be the dedication Feb. 13 of a plaque at the State House commemorating Lincoln's address before the Legislature.

In Montgomery, Ala., the celebration begins Feb. 12 with a week-long pageant to be climaxed with a reenactment of Jefferson Davis' inauguration as president of the Confederacy.

Mississippi's observance begins March 28 in the restored old Capitol. That day in Jackson the secession session of the Mississippi Legislature will be reenacted. But the 100th anniversary of the passage of the Act of Secession will be observed Monday with a brief ceremony in the old Capitol.

Bastrop Man Injured In Auto Crash

BASTROP (Special) — A Bastrop man, Joe Turpin, was reported in serious condition late yesterday in the Bastrop General Hospital suffering injuries he received when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a curve north of Monroe and crashed into a bridge abuttment.

The unidentified Negro driver of the car was charged with reckless driving and negligent injury, the state police said.

Neither of the men owned the car, troopers said, but declined to identify the owner — a woman.

Turpin, a victim of polio, is in his thirties, according to police. The accident occurred about eight miles north of Monroe on the old Bastrop Highway.

The car was traveling north when it went out of control.

Workmen at the scene of the accident worked nearly an hour to free Turpin before he could be moved to the hospital.

On the way the ambulance driver recognized a Bastrop physician driving along the highway on his way hunting and after stopping him he returned to Bastrop with the victim.

Burglars Hit Service Station

Monroe police are investigating a burglary reported by the manager of a service station on Winnsboro Road yesterday, officials said.

According to the manager's report, someone entered the station through a broken window between 12 midnight Friday and 6 a.m. yesterday and took from $40 to $45 from the cash register.

The upper section of the window would not close tightly, the manager said, allowing the burglars to unlock the lower section and enter the building.

JFK Names 3 To White House Staff

nounced shortly after Kennedy arrived here by airplane from Washington for conferences with persons who will be associated with him during his administration.

Sunday night, Kennedy flies to Boston, where he will address the Massachusetts state legislature Monday and attend a meeting of the Harvard Board of Overseers. He is scheduled to return to New York Monday evening and fly to Washington Tuesday for a few hours before returning for a final visit to Palm Beach, Fla., before the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Before leaving Washington, Kennedy received special task force recommendations for "new frontier" programs to meet low-cost housing needs at home and to help fight poverty abroad.

He also held a series of policy discussions with key advisers and Democratic Party officials.

Third Party Threat Seen By Thurmond

He said it was senseless for him and Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-a., and Barry Goldwater, Ariz. to be in different parties.

Just as senseless, he added, was for liberals like Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to be in different parties.

Thurmond said parties have been overhauled and new parties have arisen to replace others throughout the history of the country and the time has come for another such transition.

He said the northern and southern wings of the Democratic Party had nothing in common and that "no man could be elected on that platform to Congress" from the South.

He said the creation of a conservative and liberal party would produce a two-party system in the South and added that the conservative party would be dominant in Dixie but that the liberals would have a sizable minority.

Castro's Foes Plan Invasion

group launched a drive to recruit about 600 Cubans in the Chicago area for its military force.

Dr. Florentine Martinez, head of the CDF's Chicago office, predicted the government of Premier Fidel Castro would collapse within a matter of hours after a task force lands.

Martinez and his aides implied the attack would be from the sea and air. Exact date of the invasion, he said, was set by Dr. Manuel de Varona, the CDF's coordinator and a former prime minister of Cuba.

Meanwhile, Martinez said, CDF saboteurs and guerrilla fighters already were on the island, provoking and harassing the Castro regime.

Martinez said army recruits were sent by the organization to Miami CDF headquarters, from where they received transportation to the army's training sites.

Martinez refused to pin-point the training areas but indicated they were close enough for the task force to get to Cuba "in a hurry" when the invasion date arrives.

Police Holding Negroes During Probe Of Thefts

Monroe police said yesterday they are holding two local Negroes in connection with investigation of thefts in Monroe recently.

Carl Edward Poole, 19, 711 Layton St., and Clifford Miller, 21, 615 Calypso St., were booked at city hall about 9 a.m. yesterday.

General Romulo To Speak Here

GEN. CARLOS ROMULO

General Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines Republic, an internationally famous statesman, best selling author, and lecturer, will appear in Monroe as a feature attraction of the Northeast State Concerts Association at Neville High auditorium, Tuesday Feb. 7, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

General Romulo is currently the Philippine Ambassador to the United Nations and president of the Fourth General Assembly of the U.N. He is rated as "one of the most dramatic orators of our time."

A recipient of 36 honorary degrees from many of the world's great institutions of higher learning, Romulo has held numerous high governmental positions.

From 1944-46, he was resident commissioner of the Philippines to the United States; chief of the Philippine Mission to the United Nations from 1945-54; president of the Fourth General Assembly of the United Nations, 1949-50; secretary of foreign affairs in President Elpidio Quirino's cabinet from 1950-52; ambassador to the United States from 1952 and was later appointed special and personal envoy with the rank of Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the president of the Philippines to the United States in 1954.

During the 2nd World War, he served as General MacArthur's aide-de-camp on Bataan, Corregidor and Australia. He accompanied General MacArthur and the liberating forces in the invasion of Leyte and later in the recapture of Manila.

He has received many decorations including the Philippine Congressional Gold Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Star of the Philippines; Gold Cross; Silver Star; Purple Heart, and the Presidential Citation with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

Romulo has headed many international conferences during the past ten years. Pulitzer prize winning author he has written such bestsellers as "I Saw the Fall of the Philippines," "Mother America," "My Brother Americans," "I See the Philippines Rise," "The United" (a novel) "Crusade in Asia," "The Meaning of Bandung," "The Magsaysay Story," and "Friend to Friend."

On March 9, Bryon Janis, the famed concert pianist, will appear in a recital and on April 25 the U. S. Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants will present an evening of music. Three additional attractions will be announced at a later date.

Inquiries concerning the availability of tickets to the Romulo lecture and other attractions may be directed to the dean's office, division of fine arts, Northeast State College.

Morton Rules Out Nixon Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton ruled out Saturday any political game of musical chairs by which Vice President Richard M. Nixon might run in 1962 for the Senate seat now held by Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif.

Morton's statement was made at a news conference after the Republican National Committee wound up a two-day session with a report it is $400,000 in debt after Nixon's losing campaign for the presidency.

He announced President Eisenhower and Nixon have agreed after their retirement to give advice and help to Republican policy makers in Congress. Morton said this disposed of a plan by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., to set up a 35-member party policy council.

Jaycees Set January 26 Banquet Date

Dates were set yesterday by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce for its upcoming Distinguished Sevice Award and Bosses Night banquet.

The annual affair will be held on January 26 on the Frances Hotel Roof at 7:30 p.m.

The Distinguished Service Award has been presented in the past to the outstanding young man, 21 through 35, who has contributed the most to the community during the year.

To select the winner, the local chapter will canvass churches, businesses, clubs and other organizations.

Anyone wishing to nominate someone for the honor can do so by calling Marion Lewis at FA 5-6871 or FA 5-8813, or writing to him at Post Office Box 1633.

The DSA winner will be entered in the state contest, with the winners in turn being entered in national competition, for selection of the nation's 10 outstanding young men.

Coupled with the DSA program will be Bosses Night feature. The event is an annual affair to Jaycees throughout the nation. It is dedicated to the bosses who support the Jaycees.

This year, a "Boss of the Year," will be chosen and presented with a certificate.

Africa Leaders For Lumumba

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—Africa's major anti-Western neutralist leaders called Saturday for a new start in the Congo by bringing Patrice Lumumba back as premier.

They wound up a "summit meeting" held at the invitation of King Mohammed V of Morrocco. Others attending were Presidents Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, Kwam Nkrumah of Ghana, Sekou Tour of Guinea and Modibo Keita of Mali.

Representing one-fourth of the continent's population, they issued a call for African unity but coupled it with a series of measures that could produce a lasting split with the moderate pro-Western African nations.

After lengthy and heated discussions leaders of the five states urged the United Nations to disarm and disband "the lawless bands" of the Congolese military leader, Col. Joseph Mobutu; release Lumumba from jail, and call Parliament back into session.

They backed this up with a renewed threat to withdraw their 6,500 troops from the 20,000-man U.N. Command in the Congo.

Study Course Set

The Victory Baptist Church, South 10th and Pecan Streets, Monroe, will conduct study course nightly at 7, Monday through Friday, it was announced by the Rev. Estus Pirgle, pastor. The study will deal with First Corinthians.

Stonewall Lodge Installation Set

New officers of the Stonewall Lodge No. Eight of Knights of Pythias will be installed at a meeting Thursday night at Castle Hall.

Ceremonies at Castle Hall located at 127½ St. John St., will get underway with a chili supper in the dining hall on the second floor at 7 p.m. New officers will be installed at 8 p.m., Chancellor Commander Angelo Kanelos stated.

Davis Holds Big Weapon In Tax Fight

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, still fighting school integration after months of setbacks, fretted Saturday over legislative barriers to a $28-million sales tax raise he claims will finance a private school system.

As money conservatives in the Senate blocked final legislative passage of his one-cent tax raise and hurled charges of scandal and political fraud, a big weapon remained in the ballad-singing governor's hand.

An aggressive administration in Louisiana always can get a second chance to pass such a bill. Davis used that weapon in the House and smashed through a 69-1 victory after defeat on the first attempt.

The technique is to drive for a first vote within a few of the two-thirds margin required constitutionally. Then the governor can turn the full blast of his power on enough legislators and cause them to change their vote to his wishes.

Davis hasn't even called up the first vote in the Senate, although the tax raise bill is ready for final action. He sent the senators home, as he did when the bill was first defeated in the House, and told them to talk to constituents.

Negro Injured In Hunt Mishap In Wham Brake

The Ouachita Parish sheriff's office yesterday reported that a Monroe Negro was slightly injured in a hunting accident about 4 p.m. when a companion fired a shotgun into a clump of briers in Wham Brake and struck him in the left leg.

The victim was identified as Herbert Nash, 49, 507 McClendon St., Monroe. He and his companion, Willis Carter, 32, were rabbit hunting at the time, Carter told deputies.

The two men were in positions on opposite sides of the thicket when a rabbit ran out. Carter fired at the rabbit and hit Nash twice in the leg.

SOS President Assails Davis' Schools Stand

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mrs. Mary Sand, president of Save Our Schools, Inc., charged Saturday "that the present state administration has embarked on a course that may well lead to the closing of all public schools in the state, possibly in the very near future."

The SOS group stands for open public schools, even if they are integrated.

The statement quoted legislative leaders as saying that if any attempt was made to secure federal injunctions against New Orleans Parish school board being created by the legislature, the legislature would be unable to assure payment of New Orleans teachers.

Burgoyne To Attend Meet On The Aging

The assistant administrator of St. Francis hospital, S. E. Burgoyne, will represent the state association at the White House Conference on Aging in Washington, D.C. Monday through Thursday.

Burgoyne, who is chairman of the committee on the aging of the Louisiana Hospital Association is past president of the state association.

He will attend the conference along with some 1740 delegates who have been appointed by the governors of the states, 32 delegates going from Louisiana.

The conference, the first of its kind in the nation's history, has been called to study the problems of some 15 millions of our citizens who have passed their 65th birthday.

The act of Congress calling the conference provides "that the federal government shall work jointly with the states and their citizens to develop recommendations and plans for action," concerned with economic security, preservation of health, adequate housing and productive living.

Preliminary conferences have been held on a local and state level during the past year and the results of these meetings will be presented to the national conference.

CELEBRATING THEIR Golden Wedding anniversary recently with an open house in Oak Grove were the Rev. and Mrs. I. J. Blackmon. Four generations were represented at the function hostessed by the couple's two daughters, Mrs. O. K. Reynolds of Oak Grove and Mrs. R. C. Rose of Pioneer, assisted by two granddaughters, Barbara and Martha Rose.

Local Group Will Attend Council Meet

A three - man delegation from Ouachita Parish will attend a regional meeting of the National Cotton Council in Greenville, S.C. this week.

Two of them, County Agent J. J. Joyce Jr., and Rankin Earle, police juror and Parish Farm Bureau president, will be attending under sponsorship of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

They will leave by car today for the convention.

Purpose of the session which gets under way Monday and will end Friday, is to study research on cotton growing from California to the southern states, aimed at producing a better staple at less cost.

Ways to promote the cotton industry in general will also be discussed.

Among others from the area who plan to attend the meeting are Basil Doles, Richland Parish county agent; Joe Milby, Concordia Parish county agent; Jesse Peterson, West Carroll Parish county agent; C. A. Rose, East Carroll Parish county agent, and Exell Hankins, East Carroll associate county agent.

A. C. Smith, Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service program specialist from Baton Rouge, also will attend.

In a Greenwood, Miss., stopover Sunday night, the three Ouachita Parish delegates will visit with officials of the cotton cooperative there, and study their methods of marketing and pricing.

Co-Author Of Article On College Faculty

Dr. William K. Easley, chairman of the department of chemistry at Northeast Louisiana State College, co-authored an article entitled "Halogenated Aminobebzaldehydes and Aminostyrylquinolines" which appeared in a recent issue of the Journal of Organic Chemistry.

Easley stated that the article reports a synthesis and identification of 14 new organic compounds of interest in the study of anti-cancer activity.

The research involving this report was done by a group of workers at Carson - Newman College in Tennessee under the directorship of Dr. Carl Tabb Bahner of that institution.

Dr. Easley worked in close liason with this group from 1957-59 and served as acting research director while Dr. Bahner was in Europe.

Woman, Pets Fire Victims

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Fire swept a pet shop and an apartment above it early Saturday, killing a woman occupant of the apartment and destroying a large quantity of pets, including an estimated 150 dogs.

Margaret Hanlon Barker, 67, a widow, apparently suffocated just before firemen groped their way through dense smoke to her bedside.

The first two firemen who tried to enter her apartment were turned back by the smoke. A third, Richard Kage, was overcome and was carried from the building.

Firemen blamed the $10,000 blaze on defective wiring.

John Koplin, who operates the pet shop, said other pets that perished included three myna birds, two cockateels, and a number of other birds. A black spider monkey was missing.

New Currency Due

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—The Katanga government will issue new currency Monday. All existing Congo bank notes will be withdrawn. The new notes will be on a par with the Belgian franc, which is valued at two cents. The move constitutes a new step toward the independence proclaimed by President Moise Tshombe.

Negro Woman Arrested In Stabbing Case

A 24-year-old Negro woman was booked at city hall by Monroe police yesterday after a 16-year-old Negro boy implicated her in the stabbing which sent him to a local hospital with a shoulder wound late Friday.

Officers said that Annie Louise Bates, 1714 Adams St., Monroe, was charged with aggravated battery and using a dangerous weapon.

The boy, Donald Riley, 1712 Adams St., earlier told police that he did not know the identity of his assailant but later admitted under questioning that he was stabbed by the woman during an altercation.

The Bates woman is being held under a $360 bond at city jail. She was booked into jail at about 2:30 a.m. yesterday.

Police records show the stabbing occurred in the 1600 block of Adams Street. The Riley youth was taken to E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for treatment of a knife wound in the upper extreme part of his right shoulder. He was released from the hospital after emergency treatment.

Police said the woman told them she and the boy had had trouble earlier and that he came to her house Friday night and started an argument. She was quoted as saying she stabbed the youth after he kicked her.

The boy's parents were notified of the incident and given custody of the boy. He had earlier maintained to police that he was stabbed from behind as he ran down a narrow alley between two buildings on Adams Street.

Deaths

Castro Spy Network In U.S. Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Cuban military attache said Saturday Prime Minister Fidel Castro has a network of 2,000 agents and spies in the United States, centered in New York, Miami and Chicago.

Former Capt. Angel Saavedra, who quietly left the embassy here last February, made the charge at a news conference.

He exhibited a letter which he said he received while still in his post, ordering him to provide Cuban intelligence headquarters in Havana with details of U.S. military and aerial activities and plans.

He said he had no personal knowledge whether the Soviet Union received any of the information.

The letter, dated July 10, 1959 and signed by a Maj. Ramiro Valdes Menendez, also purportedly instructed Saavedra to establish close relations with natives and Cubans who could be useful in this work.

Saavedra, who as a sergeant in the embassy here had provided secret information to Castro prior to the success of the Cuban revolution, said the agents in the network reported to Cuban consulates, the embassy and to Prensa Latina, a Cuban-backed news agency.

Asked whether he had submitted the letter to U.S. authorities, he said no. He declined to say whether he had other documents or whether he had given them to U.S. officials. He did not give—although asked—specific details of the functioning of the "spy network."

Saavedra, who now works for a textile firm in Paterson, N.J., said that when he had reported in person to intelligence headquarters in Havana, he was interviewed by a Czech.

Shortly after his accession to the post of military attache in Washington, he said he was approached at a party by a Soviet military attache who had all the details on him personally.

Asked why he had delayed nearly a year — between the time of his departure from the post here and the present — in making public is letter of instructions. Saavedra said it had been on his conscience.

If he had done so when he quit, he contended, Castro would have alleged that he had been bought by American imperialists.

Negro Is Booked In Forgery Case

Monroe police yesterday morning booked a 23-year-old Monroe Negro into city jail where he is being held for forgery.

He was identified as John Saucier Jr. and gave his address as 1711 Bayou, Monroe.

2 Baton Rouge Men Booked In Felony Theft

Two Baton Rouge men were booked at Monroe city hall yesterday for felony theft after they were picked up in West Monroe by officers of the state police and the West Monroe police department.

Monroe police said Thomas O. Miller, 28, and Robert M. Collins, 24, were being held in the city jail in connection with an investigation of thefts by bogus credit cards here during the week.

Officers said the pair also admitted using a credit card made out to Harold R. Gibson to purchase two tires in Bunkie before coming to Monroe.

They are charged with using the card to buy 20 gallons of gasoline and two white sidewall tires from a local service station. The merchandise was valued at $109.31.

Gibson reported the card lost some time ago, officers said, and the company which issued it notified police after it received bills from stations for its use.

Bond had not been set for the two men late last night.

Negro Woman Arrested In Stabbing Case

A 24-year-old Negro woman was booked at city hall by Monroe police yesterday after a 16-year-old Negro boy implicated her in the stabbing which sent him to a local hospital with a shoulder wound late Friday.

Officers said that Annie Louise Bates, 1714 Adams St., Monroe, was charged with aggravated battery and using a dangerous weapon.

The boy, Donald Riley, 1712, Adams St., earlier told police that he did not know the identity of his assailant but later admitted under questioning that he was stabbed by the woman during an altercation.

The Bates woman is being held under a $360 bond at city jail. She was booked into jail at about 2:30 a.m. yesterday.

Police records show the stabbing occurred in the 1600 block of Adams Street. The Riley youth was taken to E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for treatment of a knife wound in the upper extreme part of his right shoulder. He was released from the hospital after emergency treatment.

Police said the woman told them she and the boy had had trouble earlier and that he came to her house Friday night and started an argument. She was quoted as saying she stabbed the youth after he kicked her.

The boy's parents were notified of the incident and given custody of the boy. He had earlier maintained to police that he was stabbed from behind as he ran down a narrow alley between two buildings on Adams Street.

Board Defends Rights Of LSU Staff Members

warranted," the university professors' unit said in a statement.

But it said the group "expressed its confidence that the university had nothing to fear from the impending investigation."

The LSU board, in open session, approved its resolution standing by academic freedom. New Orleans member Tom Dutton of... ved the motion and all but one member seconded it.

C. J. (Bobby) Dugas, Donaldsonville, explained he was voting "yes" on the resolution but objected to one word, "ordinary" before a reference to the right American citizens.

Dugas told a newsman later he believed there is no such thing as ordinary or extraordinary rights, only rights of a citizen.

The LSU board resolution said "the college or university teacher is a citizen . . . When he speaks or writes as a citizen, he should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but his special position in the community imposes special obligations."

Earlier, 117 professors at the university protested to the legislature what they called the "atmosphere of fear.'

Rapides Jurors Slate Meeting To Set Budget

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — The Rapides Parish Police Jury is scheduled to meet Tuesday on issues ranging from money to regulation of utility poles.

The January agenda finds the 1961 budget — a record $378,000 — up for adoption.

Also due is a special subcommittee's report on an explosive utility pole dispute between Alpine Cable TV Inc. and Southern Bell Telephone Co.

The subcommittee, headed by Ward 1 Juror David George, is to decide whether to let Alpine install poles in a subdivision where Southern Bell already has poles.

But a recently-adopted police jury ordinance aimed at curtailing the number of poles on parish rights of way is blocking Alpine's patch.

The jury's decision could decide the fate of the ordinance and whether it will be enforced in the future.

The proposed 1961 budget would represent an increase in parish spending of about $8,000 over the 1960 budget. The latter spending schedule called for $370,420.

A financial statement accompanying the budget shows the jury has spent $330,051.04 at the time the budget was prepared in November.

Heavy Rainfall Hits Alexandria

Woodlawn subdivision just west of Alexandria was so badly flooded that residents were sandbagging the area after water started coming into homes before noon Saturday.

A spokesman from the Sheriff's Department said several houses in the area west of town had water in them and considerable damage would result if the water continued to rise in the lower areas.

LSU Associate Professor Dies

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dr. J. Leon Clark, 64, associate professor of sociology at Louisiana State University, died at his home early Saturday after a heart attack.

Clark, also a counselor in the junior division, served as president of Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond eight years during his career in education.

A graduate of Louisiana College, Dr. Clark taught in elementary and secondary schools in Louisiana for several years. He received his masters and doctorate degrees from the University of North Carolina.

He is listed in "Who's Who in America" and other listings of noted persons.

Survivors include his widow, mother, Mrs. Mary Ellen Cooper Clark of Walters, La., three brothers and three sisters.

He was a native of Walters.

the lower Van Allen belt, one of two doughnut-shaped bands of radiation which surround the earth.

These potentially deadly bands, extending from 500 to about 50,000 miles above the earth, could be a major barrier to manned space flight.

Officials reported data was relayed back on neutrons, electrons, protons and other properties in a heavily charged area which scientists suspect has a strong influence on the makeup of the lower belt.

Other devices aboard the Blue Scout I payload measured micrometeorite punctures and electrical signals above and below the ionosphere, a series of electrically charged layers which bounce radio waves back to earth and affect communications.

The Air Force and other officials were more pleased with the performance of the rocket than with the information transmitted back. An official said before launching that collection of radiation data and recovery of the instrument capsule were secondary objectives.

Blue Scout I is one of a family of rockets the Air Force is developing as low-cost, all-purpose vehicles for launching scientific probes and satellites to gather vital information for military space missions.

A smaller rocket, the 40-foot Blue Scout Jr., had two test flights last fall, one successful. Blue Scout II and Air Force Scout, two other members of the family, are slated for tests in the next few months.

Services Today For Marion Wreck Victim

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Funeral services will be held today for Woody D. Day, 71-year-old retired Marion gasoline worker who was killed in a head-on collision west of Sterlington Friday afternoon.

Day died from multiple injuries of the head and left chest at the scene when his 1950 model pickup truck, traveling east on Highway 143 hit a pulpwood truck driven by Sidney Johnson of Bernice. Day's wife sustained multiple lacerations and bruises and Johnson was uninjured.

The accident occurred at 4:10 p.m. Friday 2.7 miles west of Sterlington in Union Parish at the intersection of Louisiana Highway 143 and Louisiana Highway 2. Witnesses said that Day pulled into the right front fender of the pulpwood truck.

The services will be held at Dean Baptist Church in Marion at 2 p.m. Sunday, with the Revs. J. W. Peters and J. Duff Smith officiating. Burial will be in Dean Cemetery near Marion under the direction of Kilpatrick's Funeral Home of Farmerville.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lula Day of Marion; four daughters, Mrs. Robert Graves, Bastrop, Mrs. Walter Harper, Sterlington, Mrs. Tommy Kelly, Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Wilburn Ellis of Marion; one brother, O. H. Day, Marion; one sister, Mrs. John Shadic, Marion; and 18 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

All leaders and co-leaders as well as any adult interested in Girl Scouts in Ruston are urged to attend. Mrs. Richard Potter, district director of Pelican Council, assisted by Mrs. A. F. Hall Sr., will provide the training. Participants are asked to bring a lunch. Nursery facilities will be provided for pre-school children.

Businesses Of Parish Increase

FERRIDAY (Special) — There are 74 more business concerns operating in Concordia parish today than were ten years ago, according to Clyde L. Houk, District Manager of the New Orleans office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Basing his facts upon a physical count of the January, 1961 edition of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book, Houk points out that in 1960, 169 businesses were listed in Concordia Parish and today 243 businesses are listed — an increase of 44 per cent.

Alexandria Fire Losses Heavy

ALEXANDRIA (Special)—Fire Chief Pearly Bonnette revealed today that the 1960 fire loss for the city of Alexandria was slightly more than one half million dollars.

The department answered a total of 476 alarms during the year. Six persons were injured but no fire deaths resulted.

The biggest fire loss came on Feb. 13 when the AFCO Manufacturing Firm was burned with a total loss of $236,385.

One Point Of View

NEW YORK (UPI) — The hole in the doughnut will be a quarter of an inch larger in 1961. The Donut Institute, which considers this phenomenon to be an economic weathervane, said the larger hole "is a sign of good times to come."

These potentially deadly bands, extending from 500 to about 50,000 miles above the earth, could be a major barrier to manned space flight.

Officials reported data was relayed back on neutrons, electrons, protons and other properties in a heavily charged area which scientists suspect has a strong influence on the makeup of the lower belt.

Other gauges aboard the Blue Scout I payload measured micrometeorite punctures and electrical signals above and below the ionosphere, a series of electrically charged layers which bounce radio waves back to earth and affect communications.

The Air Force and other officials were more pleased with the performance of the rocket than with the information transmitted back. An official said before launching that collection of radiation data and recovery of the instrument capsule were secondary objectives.

Blue Scout I is one of a family of rockets the Air Force is developing as low-cost, all-purpose vehicles for launching scientific probes and satellites to gather vital information for military space missions.

A smaller rocket, the 40-foot Blue Scout Jr., had two test flights last fall, one successful. Blue Scout II and Air Force Scout, two other members of the family, are slated for tests in the next few months.

Services Today For Marion Wreck Victim

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Funeral services will be held today for Woody D. Day, 71-year-old retired Marion gasoline worker who was killed in a head-on collision west of Sterlington Friday afternoon.

Day died from multiple injuries of the head and left chest at the scene when his 1950 model pickup truck, traveling east on Highway 143 hit a pulpwood truck driven by Sidney Johnson of Bernice. Day's wife sustained multiple lacerations and bruises and Johnson was uninjured.

The accident occurred at 4:10 p.m. Friday 2.7 miles west of Sterlington in Union Parish at the intersection of Louisiana Highway 143 and Louisiana Highway 2. Witnesses said that Day pulled into the right front fender of the pulpwood truck.

The services will be held at Dean Baptist Church in Marion at 2 p.m. Sunday, with the Revs. J. W. Peters and J. Duff Smith officiating. Burial will be in Dean Cemetery near Marion under the direction of Kilpatrick's Funeral Home of Farmerville.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lula Day of Marion; four daughters, Mrs. Robert Graves, Bastrop, Mrs. Walter Harper, Sterlington, Mrs. Tommy Kelly, Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Wilburn Ellis of Marion; one brother, O. H. Day, Marion; one sister, Mrs. John Shadic, Marion; and 18 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Course Slated In Leadership

RUSTON (Special) — A Basic Group Leadership course for Lincoln Neighborhood Association of Girl Scouts will be offered at the Girl Scout Center on Wednesdays and Thursdays, January 11, 12, 18 and 19 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

All leaders and co-leaders as well as any adult interested in Girl Scouts in Ruston are urged to attend. Mrs. Richard Potter, district director of Pelican Council, assisted by Mrs. A. F. Hall Sr., will provide the training. Participants are asked to bring a lunch. Nursery facilities will be provided for pre-school children.

Businesses Of Parish Increase

FERRIDAY (Special) — There are 74 more business concerns operating in Concordia parish today than were ten years ago, according to Clyde L. Houk, District Manager of the New Orleans office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Basing his facts upon a physical count of the January, 1961 edition of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book, Houk points out that in 1960, 169 businesses were listed in Concordia Parish and today 243 businesses are listed — an increase of 44 per cent.

Alexandria Fire Losses Heavy

ALEXANDRIA (Special)—Fire Chief Pearly Bonnette revealed today that the 1960 fire loss for the city of Alexandria was slightly more than one half million dollars.

The department answered a total of 476 alarms during the year. Six persons were injured but no fire deaths resulted.

The biggest fire loss came on Feb. 13 when the AFCO Manufacturing Firm was burned with a total loss of $236,385.

One Point Of View

NEW YORK (UPI) — The hole in the doughnut will be a quarter of an inch larger in 1961. The Donut Institute, which considers this phenomenon to be an economic weathervane, said the larger hole "is a sign of good times to come."

Rapides Jurors Slate Meeting To Set Budget

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — The Rapides Parish Police Jury is scheduled to meet Tuesday on issues ranging from money to regulation of utility poles.

The January agenda finds the 1961 budget — a record $378,000 — up for adoption.

Also due is a special subcommittee's report on an explosive utility pole dispute between Alpine Cable TV Inc. and Southern Bell Telephone Co.

The subcommittee, headed by Ward 1 Juror David George, is to decide whether to let Alpine install poles in a subdivision where Southern Bell already has poles.

But a recently-adopted police jury ordinance aimed at curtailing the number of poles on parish rights of way is blocking Alpine's patch.

The jury's decision could decide the fate of the ordinance and whether it will be enforced in the future.

The proposed 1961 budget would represent an increase in parish spending of about $8,000 over the 1960 budget. The latter spending schedule called for $370,420.

A financial statement accompanying the budget shows the jury has spent $330,051.04 at the time the budget was prepared in November.

Heavy Rainfall Hits Alexandria

Woodlawn subdivision just west of Alexandria was so badly flooded that residents were sandbagging the area after water started coming into homes before noon Saturday.

A spokesman from the Sheriff's Department said several houses in the area west of town had water in them and considerable damage would result if the water continued to rise in the lower areas.

LSU Associate Professor Dies

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dr. J. Leon Clark, 64, associate professor of sociology at Louisiana State University, died at his home early Saturday after a heart attack.

Clark, also a counselor in the junior division, served as president of Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond eight years during his career in education.

A graduate of Louisiana College, Dr. Clark taught in elementary and secondary schools in Louisiana for several years. He received his masters and doctorate degrees from the University of North Carolina.

He is listed in "Who's Who in America" and other listings of noted persons.

Survivors include his widow, mother, Mrs. Mary Ellen Cooper Clark of Walters, La., three brothers and three sisters.

He was a native of Walters.

Rebels Advance On Laos Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Pro-Communist rebel forces were reported advancing Saturday on Luang Prabang, but most indications were that the royal capital is not immediately threatened.

King Savang Vathana apparently held to this view by flying back to Luang Prabang after several earlier delays. He had spent several days in Vientiane, 110 miles south of the royal city, for the formal installation of Premier Prince Bou Oum's new anti-Communist government.

The king's departure indicated rebel attacks in the Luang Prabang area are isolated clashes between guerrilla units of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao and patrols of the royal Laotian army.

A Pathet Lao column was reported advancing on Luang Prabang. French military sources in Vientiane indicated the city was being increasingly threatened. Other Western military men placed the column at [illegible] 60 miles north of the city.

(Radio Peiping, quoting a Laotian rebel broadcast, claimed the military post of Nam Pac on the Hou River southeast of Luang Prabang, fell to the rebels Wednesday.

On the military front farther south, Information Minister Bouavan Norasing claimed the rebel base of Vang Vieng, 65 miles north of Vientiane, was captured by government forces Thursday.

Vang Vieng has been a major receiving point for Soviet airdrops to the rebels. Soldiers under Capt. Kong Le, a Laotian paratroop commander, retreated to the mountain-ringed Vang Vieng Valley Dec. 15 after Bou Oum's men drove them from Vientiane. Kong Le later was reported to have moved northward with his forces and joined in the major rebel offensive that seized and now holds the strategic central Plaine des Jarres.

VFW District Meet Set Today

Senior Vice Commander Alfred L. Keith urges all 13th District members to attend this meeting. He added that refreshments will be served.

PARTICIPATING IN the Fifth Congressional District Civil Defense Meeting of the Louisiana police Jury Association being held in Bastrop Wednesday are (left to right) Leroy Duplechian, chairman of the CD committee of the association and police juror of Allen Parish; Walter Abbott, CD director of Allen Parish and W. A. Breedlove, executive secretary of the Police Jury Association. The meeting will be held in the Agricultural Auditorium in Bastrop at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Eager Questioner

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The City Council was considering proposed changes in regulations on bee keeping when Mayor Don Hummel asked if there were "any questions about the birds and bees?"

James Kirk's hand went up.

"Later," said the mayor.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The average 1961 model car will use 22 pounds of plastics or two pounds more than 1960 models and double the 1954 amount.

Husband Shot After Training Wife To Shoot

CONSETT, England (AP) — Sgt. Maj. William Collins went to court Friday and explained that after he taught his young wife to shoot she shot him.

Now Teresa Collins, 23, faces trial on a charge of attempted murder.

Her husband said he trained Teresa until she became a crack shot. Then one night they had a quarrel.

Mrs. Collins walked up to him with a rifle and fired at pointblank range, Collins testified.

"I don't know which of us was more surprised," he said. "I am convinced the rifle went off prematurely. If she intended to murder me there is no doubt I would not be here now."

Interest In Nigeria

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nigeria's first ambassador to the United States told President Eisenhower Friday he would be welcome in the African nation after he leaves office Jan. 20.

Ambassador Julius Momo Udochi said Eisenhower expressed an interest in visiting Nigeria some day.

Boy Quizzed In Slaying Of Parents

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The parents of two adopted teen-age boys were shot and killed Saturday in the family's home, and police arrested the older of the boys.

Authorities said the .22 caliber automatic rifle from which the shots were fired was found under the seat of a family car in which the older boy was picked up about two hours after the shooting.

The youth's younger brother telephoned police and sobbed out a story of the killings. He said his brother had fled in the family car.

The bullet-riddled bodies of H. Malone Dresbach, 47, a Washington lawyer, and his wife, Shirley, 46, were found in separate rooms of the red brick house near the shore of Chesapeake Bay, about 15 miles south of here.

Police Capt. Elmer F. Hagner said Dresbach and his wife both had been shot in the back. Dresbach's body was sprawled on the kitchen floor. His wife was dead in a bedroom when police arrived.

Hagner indicated the double shooting may have been the aftermath of a reprimand the couple had given the older boy after he came home late from a high school basketball game Friday night.

Held without charge was Wayne Dresbach, 15, a freshman member of the wrestling team at Southern High School at nearby Loathian.

Hagner described the boy as "outwardly calm but inwardly he's rather shook up. He's very pale and was perspiring most of the time we talked to him."

The police captain said the best he could determine was that the boy returned home about 11:30 p.m. Friday and received a "tongue-lashing" from his parents for not being home earlier.

Dresbach had been an attorney for many years in Washington coming to this area in 1933 from Kansas. He was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the Maryland House of Delegates in 1956 and the state Senate in 1958.

Cubans Release U.S. Newsmen

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban military intelligence agents Saturday released six American newsmen — four from the Columbia Broadcasting System and two from Life magazine —and apparently ordered them deported.

The four CBS men, picked up Friday on undisclosed charges, are Bernard Eismann of Chicago, Robert Schakne of New York and Bruce Hoertel and Andrew Willoner of Washington.

They had just finished shooting a television film on recent activities around the U.S. Embassy here when they were seized.

RECREATION DIRECTOR JACK HESKETH REVIEWS PROGRESS
(Staff Photo By Ben Bradford)

In Recreation Work

Major Gains Cited

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

Fifteen years ago, with a budget chopped to the bone, Jack Hesketh took over the director's post of the Monroe Recreation Department and set about planning diversions for the city in that barely post - war year.

Hesketh had come to Monroe from Rhode Island four years previously, in 1942, as the local captain with the Salvation Army.

For several years, he kept the recreation department going on a mere $10,000 budget a year. It is now about $45,000, Hesketh pointed out.

MORE INTEREST

Year by year, the director has watched interest in the program grow. "However, I still wish more citizens would take advantage of this free recreation," he commented. "Many are passing up an opportunity for some good, clean fun."

Except during the Christmas season, the department concentrates solely on providing various types of recreation for Monroe residents. During the Yuletide period, the department's forces are centered around the Goodfellows program.

Goodfellows provides food, clothing and toys for the needy of the area. The rest of the year, the recreation department refers the needy to the Salvation Army for help.

Among the many facilities provided by the department are a variety of games, dancing classes, athletics art classes, and a Senior Citizens program for the older residents. In addition, the department operates 12 playgrounds throughout the city in the summertime for a period of eight weeks.

Two directors are on duty at each playground, Hesketh said, and each site averages 400 to 450 participants a week.

Basketball draws a lot of interest, the director noted, with 117 teams playing at the present time. Baseball has also drawn many participants, growing from 16 teams five years ago to 45 teams now.

PARTICIPATION

Money to keep the department operating comes from the city's general fund.

When Hesketh took over the post in 1946, there were no organized recreational facilities in Monroe. There had been at one time but during the war years the program was dropped, Hesketh explained.

Hesketh's assistant director is Jackie Neal, and Vernon Greenlee is center director. Teenager workers include Mrs. Reece Major and Mrs. Hilda Colbert. Mrs. Ivy Oliver directs art activities and Mrs. Peggy Garnett is in charge of handicrafts.

Hesketh is looking forward to the biggest stride in department improvements yet when the contract for the new recreation buildings is let Feb. 28.

The contract calls for one new structure in the Parkview subdivision, another near the college area, and two for Negroes, one just off Berg Jones Lane and the other across from Carroll High School.

"We anticipate that about a year from now we'll be moving into these new buildings," Hesketh forecast.

MANY FACILITIES

Included in the many facilities in the new structures will be one swimming pool for whites and one for Negroes, gymnasiums, game rooms, club rooms, kitchens, arts and craft facilities and photography laboratories.

"In addition, the buildings will be available for various types of club meetings and similar type gatherings," Hesketh added.

"One crying need at the moment is more planned activities for girls," the director said. He added that this will be taken care of once the move to the new buildings is effected.

Due to the large amount of interest in athletics, the department will have to continue using some school gymnasiums for its activities, even after the new buildings are in use, Hesketh noted. "We have more and more interest in athletics each year and, of course, that is something we really like to see," the director added.

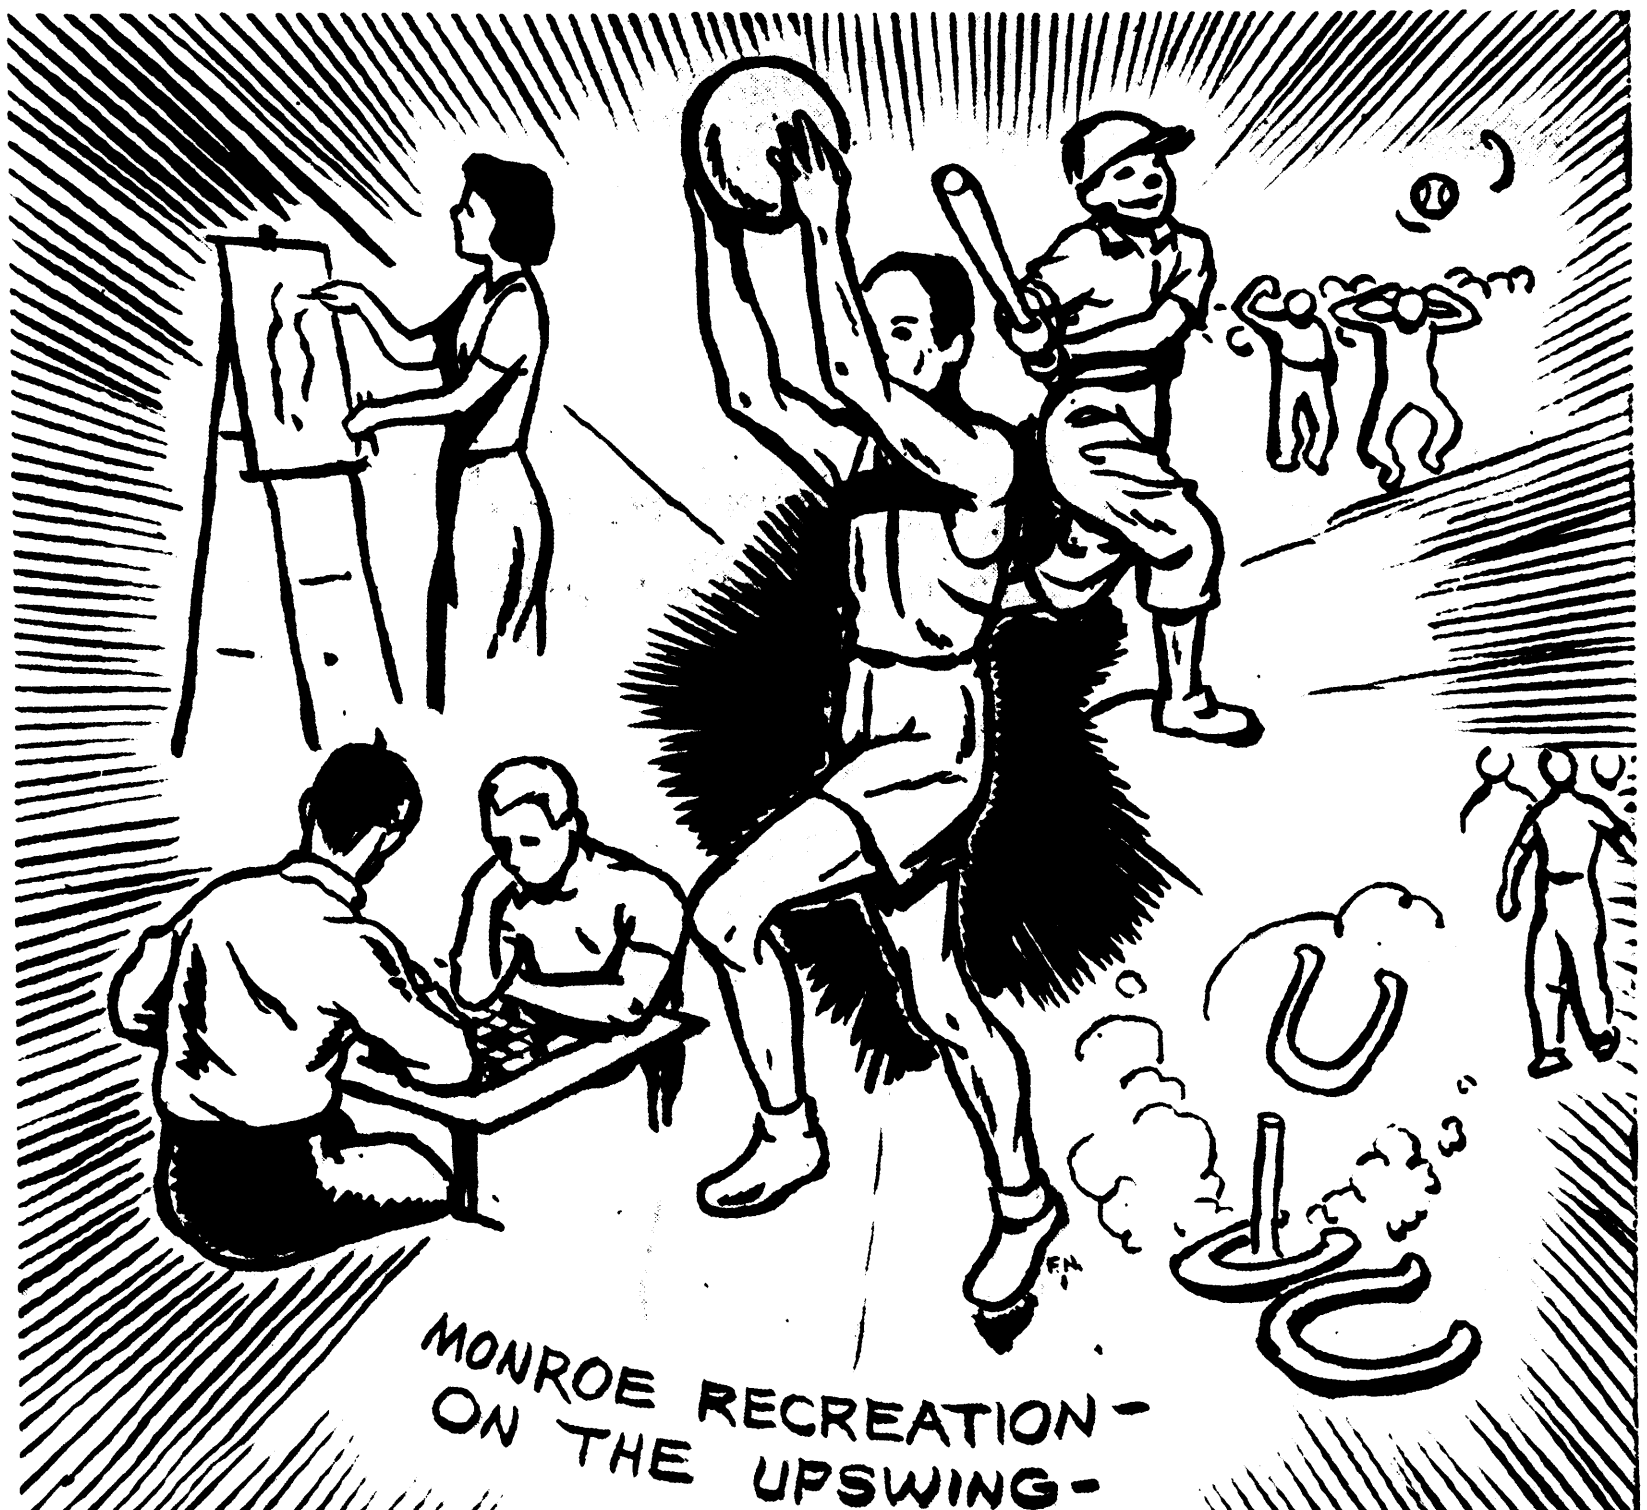
When Hesketh first became director, the recreation department occupied a building now used by a soft drink bottling plant. Later in that same year, 1946, the department moved its headquarters to its present location on Catalpa Street.

"Ever since, we've been hoping for some fine new facilities," Hesketh said. "And now it looks like they will finally be a reality."

"Planned, free recreation of this type definitely meets a need of the community," Hesketh stressed. "It is good for the youngsters who need a little guidance with their leisure hours and it's good for the older people who need to develop new interests."

Hesketh admitted that keeping so many different types of recreation going, with so many participants, is not an easy job. "But that doesn't keep me from wishing even more people would take part," he smiled.

"A city's recreation program is there to be taken advantage of by its residents," he concluded. "I hope interest will continue to grow in the next 15 years even faster than it has since 1946."



Ex-Monroyan Serves In

Superstition Land

A former Monroe area businessman who spent several years in the Congo as a missionary, will return this month to that center of strife where many natives worship spirits and disease is a constant peril.

He is 40-year-old Rev. Barton Browning who came to the Twin Cities from Dallas, Texas, in [illegible], and engaged in sales work until [illegible].

In the early part of June, 1960, shortly before outbreaks of strife accompanying the gaining of independence by the Congo, he left for the U.S. after completing a three and one half year tour of duty. He was accompanied by his family, including his wife, and four children. The three daughters are [illegible], 13 and eight years of age respectively, and the boy is five.

Because of the peril in the Congo, Rev. Browning this time will leave his family in Chattanooga, Tenn., where he headquartered recently. Returning to the Congo with him, will be three other Baptist missionaries.

He is sponsored by several Baptist churches and represents the Baptist International Mission.

'GREAT STRIDES'

"We feel we have made great strides in bringing Christianity to the Congo," said Rev. Browning in a recent visit here. "We have many strong groups of Christians in the area."

But, there are many obstacles to spreading Christianity in the primitive tropical area, which is [illegible] the equator.

"We sometimes run into trouble when we try to overcome tribal customs," said the missionary. "When a native is unable to stand up to tribal chiefs and families in opposing evil customs, we would have to stand up for him."

He continued:

"They have devil worship. They make wooden idols and worship them. They are animists (believing that all objects have life and [illegible] have indwelling souls). That means they worship spirits. Their dark spirits enter into inanimate objects like wood, caves and rivers. They have appeasing ceremonies, dancing and playing weird musical instruments to appease the evil spirits. These ceremonies usually end in drunken orgies."

Superstition and fear are imposing elements which weigh against those who wish to shift from evil tribal customs.

Said the Rev. Browning:

"They have a fear of the witch doctors and the powers they have. Witch doctors make many types of threats like curses on a village where women can't have children."

What would cause a businessman to leave the comforts of a modern city to endure the hardships of the Congo?

"I felt the Lord called me to go into missionary work. I had been interested in it for a long time," explained Rev. Browning.

From 1953 through 1956, he studied for missionary work at Tennessee Temple Schools, Chattanooga. In December, 1956, he left for assignment in the Congo.

He and his family headquartered at a mission station, Kintshua, which is near Idiofo, which "is sort of like a county seat of the Territory of Idiofo," he said.

Shortly after Rev. Browning and his family left the Congo to return to the United States, the Congo gained status as an independent nation, and violence erupted.

The small nation still is a point of violence and civil strife over leadership of the country. But, even before this stormy period arrived, the life of a missionary was filled with difficulties, Rev. Browning explained.

"Living conditions were very primitive. There were no utilities. There were kerosene lamps. We had a kerosene type refrigerator. We could get kerosene from traders who came and got commodities from the natives.

NATIVES FARM

"The natives are farming type people, not the roving type. Agricultural products are palm nut (used for oil, shortening, oleo, cosmetics, soap), corn, and hemp, these are the major things. Peanuts are grown, but there is no big market for them.

"In spots there are large jungle areas, in some open land, prairie land and large rivers. The soil is burned up, poor. Natives have to cut down forests to get ground to raise their crops. They use it for about two years, and then have to cut down more trees. They only use leaf mold to enrich the soil, no fertilizer."

Clothing generally is as primitive as living conditions.

"The primitive people wear loin cloth," related the missionary. Some of the more educated men wear shirts, shorts, and sometimes tennis shoes, when they can get them. The women have a native dress with about 4½ yards of cloth. It is a wrap-around dress.

"Very few people have large families because of the large death rate. Until a few years ago nine out of 10 infants died before reaching the age of one year. Since increasing use of medicine, sanitation training and showing mothers how to take care of children better, this situation has improved.

"There is much malaria from mosquitos. They have the tsetse fly which spreads sleeping sickness. They have pretty well wiped out sleeping sickness and have inoculated natives against it. There is some elephantitis and skin ulcers. But natives don't worry about anything, and I never heard about any of them having stomach ulcers."

About 200 persons lived at the mission station where Rev. Browning was headquarters. During the last school term he was there 238 native children attended school. They ranged in age from seven to 16 years. All of them were boys since there were no facilities for training girls.

Students must supply their own food. Those whose homes were near generally met their parents at some half-way point to obtain food supplies. Others purchased food. They resided at the school during the nine-month term.

Besides the day school at the mission station, there was a chapel for worship, and a small clinic where first aid could be administered and standard medicines dispensed. The nearest hospital was 32 miles away.

There were two Congolese ordained ministers at the station, and native teachers were used in the schools.

Illiteracy in the land of superstition runs high, especially among women and older people, said Rev. Browning.

Besides regular school studies, students at the mission received spiritual training. There were many cases where students returned home with religious ideas that influenced parents and friends to turn to Christianity.

The missionaries held services at the mission every weekday morning at 7, and on Sundays went to a village either near or far away to hold morning services. About 25 local Baptist churches had been organized in villages in that area.

"In every place we went we had good attendance, maybe because we were there," said Rev. Browning. Sometimes churches were filled and some people were standing outside looking in at the windows. Buildings were made of mud and poles. There were palm fronds on the roofs. Fronds were woven into a matting. A new covering was placed over the old about every three years."

Some one room churches would accomodate from 50 to 75 persons. Others were larger and would hold 200 or 300 persons.

"They had no closing doors in the churches, maybe just gates to keep out goats," he said. "They have no glass in the windows. In the homes there are mats over doors and windows to keep out rain. The rainy season lasts nine months out of a year."

When he resided in the Twin Cities, the Rev. Browning had membership affiliations in two churches, College Place Baptist Church, and Ridge Avenue Baptist Church. He was Sunday school teacher at the latter.

Civil War Memories Leave Gulf That Widens With Time

Editor's Note — It took the Union armies four long years to fight down the bloody road from Washington to Richmond. Now you can drive the distance in less than two hours. But the memories of those Civil War battles of long ago seem to have left a gulf that grows wider, not narrower, as the decades pass by.

There is a symbolism in the view northward from the porch of Robert E. Lee's mansion on the heights of Arlington, Va.

It has focus: Tall white pillars, unwavering files of soldier dead in Arlington Cemetary, the Potomac River and just across it, out of Virginia, the Lincoln Memorial. It compresses the Civil War into a single glance.

Southward from the rear of Lincoln Memorial the symbolism is unapparent, lost in a vista much too broad.

And that's how it is with Richmond and Washington, capitals of the ghostly Confederacy and the lively Union. The outlook of one includes the war. The outlook of the other does not.

SUMTER FELL

It is 100 years since that April 14 when Fort Sumter fell; since that April 15 when Lincoln called for volunteers to defend the Union, since that May 21 when Richmond became capital of the Confederate States of America.

In mood and personality and consciousness, Richmond remembers. Washington does not. Richmond's past and future are one. The iridiscent yesterday shines through, mingling with the filmy today to color the whole fabric, much as the tulle overshirt of a Confederate lady's ball gown revealed nebulously the bonnie blue satin beneath.

Washington is a city of transient history-makers, a city doting on the administration of tomorrow. Yesterday is a page in a closed history book, and the time of "a house divided against itself" but a few of those yellowing pages.

"People born in Richmond usually die in Richmond," says Louis H. Manarin, a young historian who was reared in Washington and migrated to Richmond. "These people take pride in what their families did.

"Washington is influenced by people from all over the nation and the world. The man of the street has no consciousness of the city's history."

Washington's leading citizens are the nation's lawmakers, concerned with finding solutions to the problems of the moment.

ZENITH

Richmond's historic star reached its zenith in the four war years; Washington's, barely over the horizon then, is still on the rise.

Richmond was old when the war began. "It had been a quiet city of 37,000 people when madness had seized the country, a place of peace and pleasantness," runs the description of Douglas Southall Freeman in his Lee biography. "On picturesque hills, that followed a wide bend in the river, successful merchants had reared ample homes...

"Richmond was the heart of Virginia, financially and economically. Most of all she was rich in her people. None of them had a mighty fortune; few of them were very poor, but nearly all of them had lived long in the town..."

War came close to these people at Seven Pines and Cold Harbor. They heard the cannon and nursed the wounded. They lived through seige, worshipped at St. Paul's Episcopal Church with Jeff Davis. They saw their defenders retreat, setting warehouse fires that spread through the city.

They watched as—the ashes of 700 buildings still warm—an uncommonly tall, sad-faced man in a high silk hat walked through their streets. "Every window was crowded with heads," Lincoln's bodyguard said later. "But it was a silent crowd. There was something oppressive in those thousands of watchers without a sound, either of welcome or hatred. I think he would have welcomed a yell of defiance."

They cheered a few days later, and wept, too, when a young-old man in threadbare grey on a dusty grey horse rode through the streets to the small house where his family waited. Robert E. Lee was home from the war and would advise his despairing people.

"You can work for Virginia, to build her up again, to make her great again. You can teach your children to love and cherish her."

PHOENIX RISEN

In the Richmond of today, a Phoenix risen from the ashes, their children's children remember.

It is apparent in their familiarity with the sculptured heroes of Monument Avenue, Stuart, Lee, Davis, Jackson; the fresh garlands of flowers at the base of the Davis Memorial; in the lecture given by the little woman of St. Paul's as she points out the pews and memorial windows of Davis and Lee; the Confederate flag flying on holidays; in the very fear of some that others are forgetting their Civil War heritage.

Not long ago a man chose as a gift for a Richmond couple an authentic Confederate broadside suitable for framing—a list of regimental deserters which had been posted in Richmond during the war. Later he saw the wife and found her decidedly cool. She didn't even mention the gift.

When he saw her husband, however, the man thanked him profusely.

"I'm glad you liked it," he said. "Your wife didn't even mention it."

"No wonder," her husband chuckled. "Her grandfather's name was on the list."

"When the victory parades were over in Washington, the war was over," says Civil War novelist-historian Clifford Dowdey. "But it was just beginning in Richmond."

LONG RECOVERY

Richmond, and indeed the South, didn't fully recover from the effects of the Civil War until World War II, says Dowdey.

Economically, Richmond is now a flourishing city. But its people remain conservative. They shun ostentation and they mind their Civil War traditions without show without flag waving. True, Dr. Freeman tipped his hat each morning as he passed Lee's statue on the way to his office. "But most people," says Dowdey, "thought Dr. Freeman was overdoing it a bit."

Even so, a substantial portion of Richmond's population can still say, as Dowdey does: "I have no memory of life without the Confederacy."

One hundred miles north is Washington, the ugly duckling that grew into a graceful swan.

Flocks of geese wandered along the broken cobble pavement of Pennsylvania Avenue, pigs wallowed on Capitol Hill around a Capitol without a dome, the Eighth Massachusetts bivouacked in the Capitol rotunda, the Army baked bread in the Capitol basement, and 5,000 prostitutes walked the streets.

Says Miss Lucy Turnbill, a church secretary who has lived in Washington eight years but considers Richmond home: "We are so occupied with the present that we haven't any time to be concerned with the past."

RECREATION DIRECTOR JACK HESKETH REVIEWS PROGRESS

In Recreation Work

Major Gains Cited

By LYNN GARRETT
Staff Writer

Fifteen years ago, with a budget chopped to the bone, Jack Hesketh took over the director's post of the Monroe Recreation Department and set about planning diversions for the city in that barely post - war year.

Hesketh had come to Monroe from Rhode Island four years previously, in 1942, as the local captain with the Salvation Army.

For several years, he kept the recreation department going on a mere $10,000 budget a year. It is now about $45,000, Hesketh pointed out.

MORE INTEREST

Year by year, the director has watched interest in the program grow. "However, I still wish more citizens would take advantage of this free recreation," he commented. "Many are passing up an opportunity for some good, clean fun."

Except during the Christmas season, the department concentrates solely on providing various types of recreation for Monroe residents. During the Yuletide period, the department's forces are centered around the Goodfellows program.

Goodfellows provides food, clothing and toys for the needy of the area. The rest of the year, the recreation department refers the needy to the Salvation Army for help.

Among the many facilities provided by the department are a variety of games, dancing classes, athletics art classes, and a Senior Citizens program for the older residents. In addition, the department operates 12 playgrounds throughout the city in the summertime for a period of eight weeks.

Two directors are on duty at each playground, Hesketh said, and each site averages 400 to 450 participants a week.

Basketball draws a lot of interest, the director noted, with 117 teams playing at the present time. Baseball has also drawn many participants, growing from 16 teams five years ago to 45 teams now.

PARTICIPATION

Money to keep the department operating comes from the city's general fund.

When Hesketh took over the post in 1946, there were no organized recreational facilities in Monroe. There had been at one time but during the war years the program was dropped, Hesketh explained.

Hesketh's assistant director is Jackie Neal, and Vernon Greenlee is center director. Teenager workers include Mrs. Reece Major and Mrs. Hilda Colbert. Mrs. Ivy Oliver directs art activities and Mrs. Peggy Garnett is in charge of handicrafts.

Hesketh is looking forward to the biggest stride in department improvements yet when the contract for the new recreation buildings is let Feb. 28.

The contract calls for one new structure in the Parkview subdivision, another near the college area, and two for Negroes, one just off Berg Jones Lane and the other across from Carroll High School.

"We anticipate that about a year from now we'll be moving into these new buildings," Hesketh forecast.

MANY FACILITIES

Included in the many facilities in the new structures will be one swimming pool for whites and one for Negroes, gymnasiums, game rooms, club rooms, kitchens, arts and craft facilities and photography laboratories.

"In addition, the buildings will be available for various types of club meetings and similar type gatherings," Hesketh added.

"One crying need at the moment is more planned activities for girls," the director said. He added that this will be taken care of once the move to the new buildings is effected.

Due to the large amount of interest in athletics, the department will have to continue using some school gymnasiums for its activities, even after the new buildings are in use, Hesketh noted. "We have more and more interest in athletics each year and, of course, that is something we really like to see," the director added.

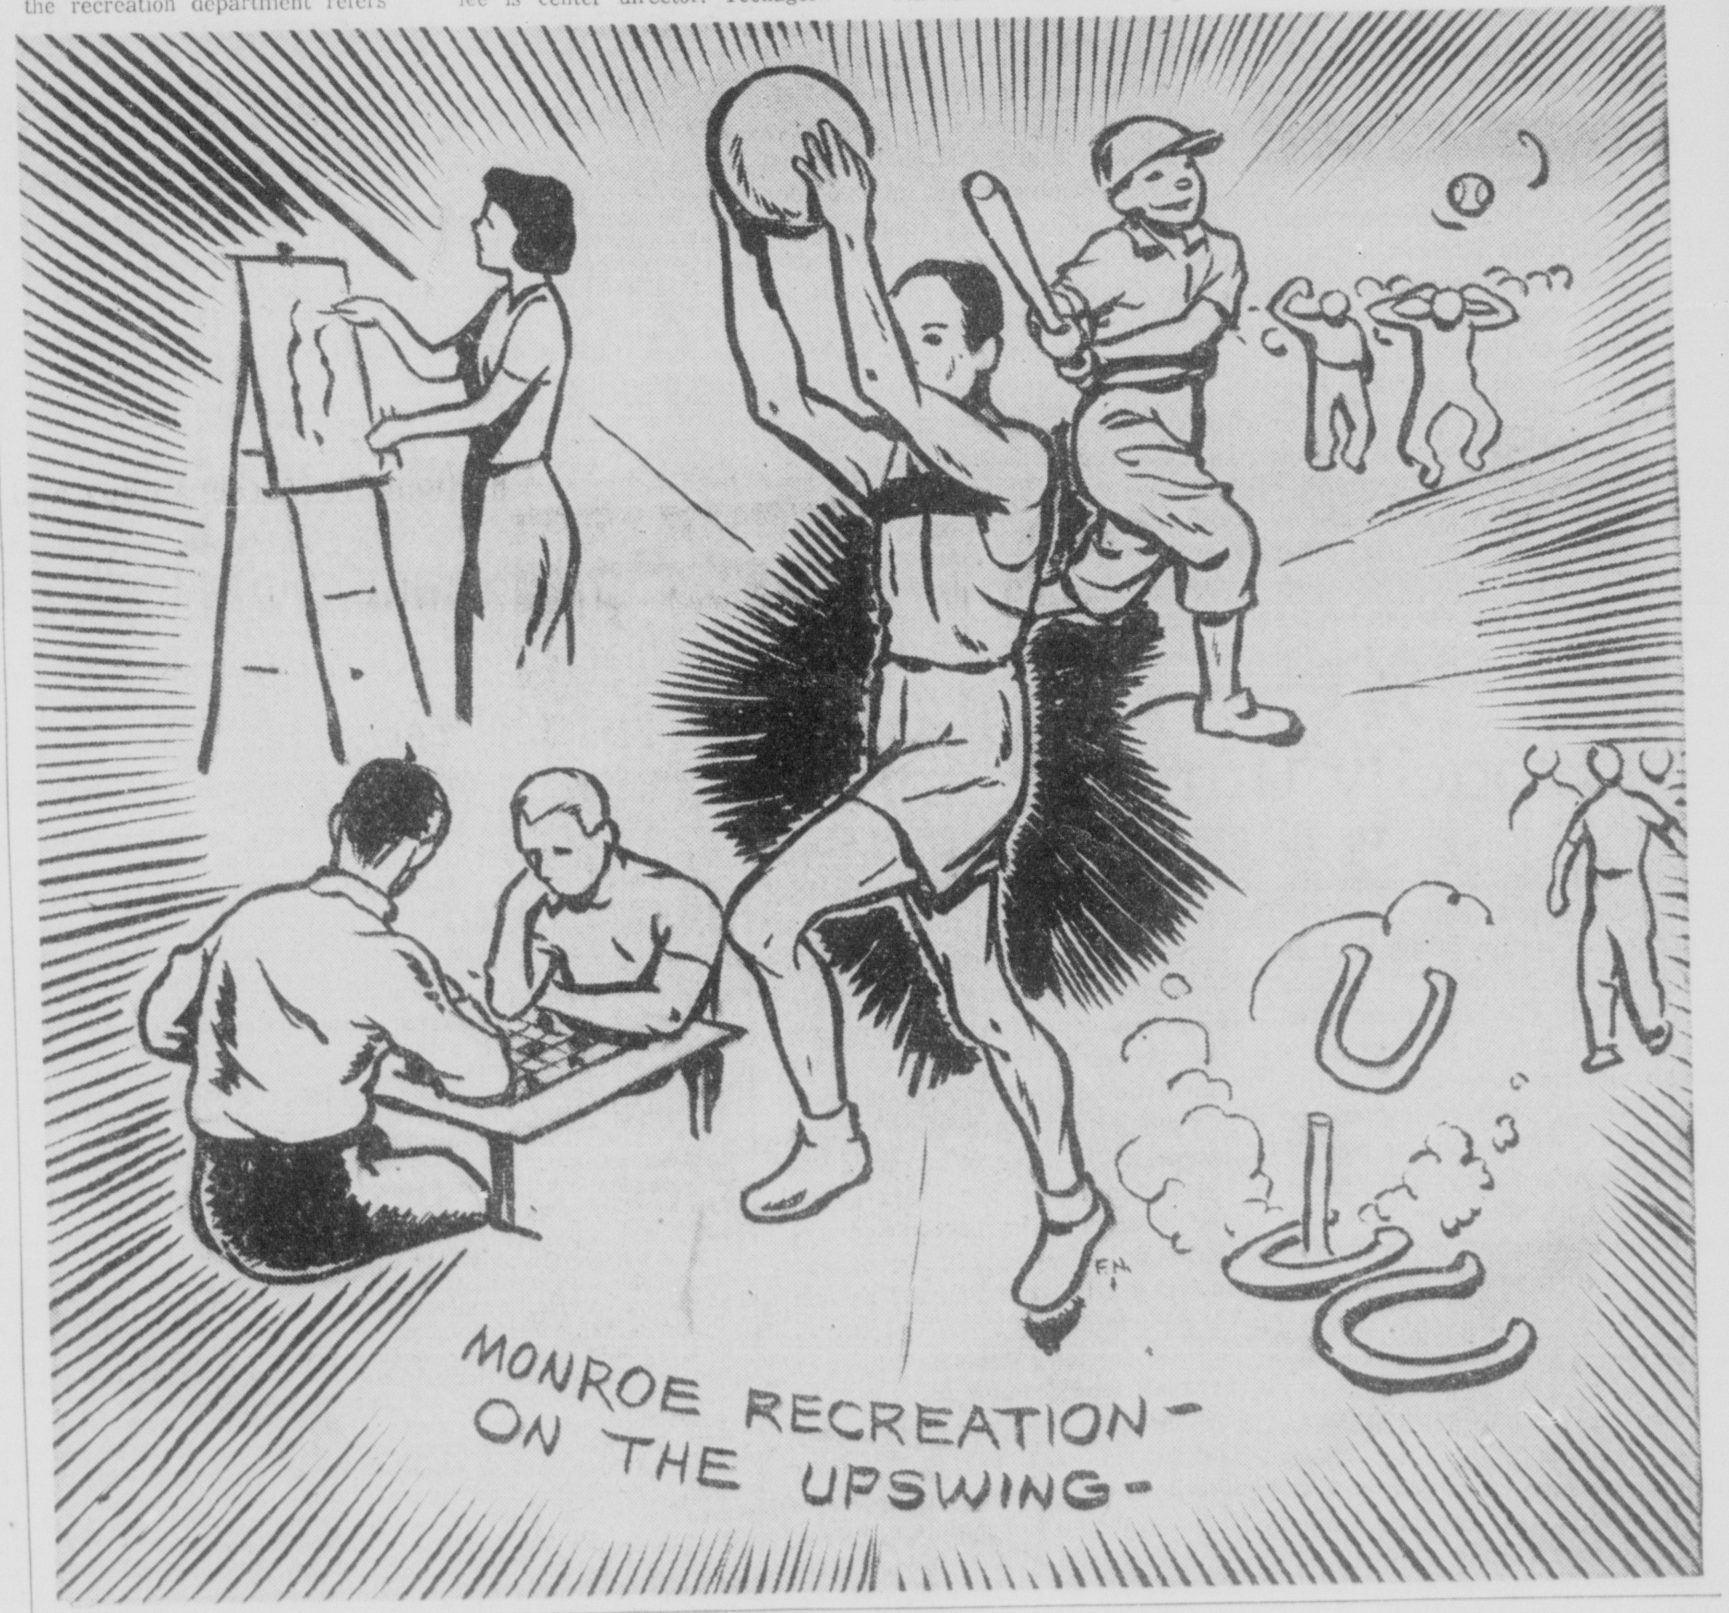
When Hesketh first became director, the recreation department occupied a building now used by a soft drink bottling plant. Later in that same year, 1946, the department moved its headquarters to its present location on Catalpa Street.

"Ever since, we've been hoping for some fine new facilities," Hesketh said. "And now it looks like they will finally be a reality."

"Planned, free recreation of this type definitely meets a need of the community," Hesketh stressed. "It is good for the youngsters who need a little guidance with their leisure hours and it's good for the older people who need to develop new interests."

Hesketh admitted that keeping so many different types of recreation going, with so many participants, is not an easy job. "But that doesn't keep me from wishing even more people would take part," he smiled.

"A city's recreation program is there to be taken advantage of by its residents," he concluded. "I hope interest will continue to grow in the next 15 years even faster than it has since 1946."



Ex-Monroyan Serves In

Superstition Land

A former Monroe area businessman who spent several years in the Congo as a missionary, will return this month to that center of strife where many natives worship spirits and disease is a contant peril.

He is 40-year-old Rev. Barton Browning who came to the Twin Cities from Dallas, Texas in 1949, and engaged in sales work until 1953.

In the early part of June, 1960, shortly before outbreak of strife accompanying gaining of independence by the Congo, he left for the U. S. after completing a three and one-half year tour of duty. Gold From Tourists

One of the best ways to help reverse our unfavorable trade balance would be to spend some of the money we spend on foreign aid on attracting tourists from other nations to this country. There can be little doubt if we spent one-fourth as much federal money to attract visitors as we spend on foreign aid of questionable value tourists would start pouring into this country at an unprecedented rate.

Who is responsible for causing the supply of American gold to drop to a dangerous level? What single thing has done most to bring about our unfavorable trade balance. The answers to these questions are that the federal government is chiefly responsible and that foreign aid to so-called underprivileged countries has been the biggest drain on our gold resources.

When all the excitement started about the gold depletion the blame was first placed on foreign investments by United States firms. American tourist spending abroad and spending by American armed service men and their dependents. To this was added also the foreign aid but it was minimized and the foreign investments by American businessmen caused them to be made sort of whipping boys for the whole trouble.

Since then it has become clear that foreign aid is what keeps us in the red in the international trade balance. Except for the gifts and so-called loans (which are actually donations to an extremely large proportion of the approximately 90 nations in the world, our trade balance would still be favorable.

It is true that we may need to give some assistance to other countries in order to keep their friendship but we should be far more careful in passing out the donations and should make more effort to see that they are appreciated and fruitful when we do give them.

Much was made of the administration plan to cut down drastically on the cost of maintaining the dependents of military men abroad but the program has been modified and postponed. It is likely to be a good while before many dollars are saved that way and the amount probably never will be as much as forecast. As a mattre of fact, if the armed services intend to maintain troops in other countries it appears reasonable that they also maintain the families of these men abroad or that they accept only unmarried men for foreign service. It is unnatural state for any married man to live apart from his family and not many of them want to do it.

Statisticians have cast the accounts on American investment abroad and found that there is a net balance of payments in our favor from this source. We have been investing an average of $2 million annually abroad and getting back $2.5 million.

American citizens would be reluctant to see a ceiling placed on the amount our tourists may spend abroad. It would be far better to induce more foreigners to come here and spend their money.

This not only would improve our trade balance but undoubtedly would do far more toward creating friendship for this country than does most of the money spent on foreign aid.

If we want to invest government money abroad for the sake of creating friendship we might as well get a little return from it in more ways than one. Spending money to attract tourists to this country not only would go a long way toward building friendship but would start some of the gold flowing back this way.

Capacity Unnecessary

Announcement by the steel industry of its intention to drop the reporting of its operating rate as a percentage of capacity recalls to mind that President-elect Kennedy made much of the fact, during his election campaign, that the steel industry was working at only "half capacity." It also has caused something of a flurry. The flurry is entirely uncalled for and the Kennedy statements were worth nothing more than campaign propaganda.

The fact is that if the steel mills continued to work at full capacity and continued to improve and modernize their equipment as they have done for many years the country would soon have a greater surplus of steel than it does of farm products. The idea that any industry has to work all of the time at full capacity is highly erroneous. In reality, every business and every industry should have some surplus capacity—a cushion at all times except during emergencies.

If the industry had operated at 50 per cent capacity in 1960 it would have produced 71 million tons of steel. The same rate in 1950 would have produced 50 million tons and in 1940 it would have produced only 40 million tons, according to figures submitted by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

It is clear that the industry would never "normally" operate at full capacity, since this would entail heavy overtime and use of obsolete equipment, just as it would in any other business or industry.

No business or industrial worker ordinarily operates at full capacity and neither does any other worker. If any worker worked to his utmost capacity he would soon exhaust himself and his capacity would decline.

At least once before the steel industry announced plans for dropping the capacity percentage report. When it tried this two years ago economists went on projecting capacity, if they were enough interested to do so. When production began rising the industry itself resumed its percentage reports, but to no advantage except to the statisticians, as far as can be determined.

Half capacity for the industry in 1960 would have produced 74 million tons. Presumably, however, the 100 million tons that was produced was all that was needed. At full capacity, the amount would have been 148 million tons, which would have given us a surplus of 48 million tons. What would we have done with that?

In reality, our capacity potential above actual needs of ordinary times is the bulwark upon which we can rely for added strength in time of war or other emergencies. Capacity above production is latent power.

Latest statistics available indicate that slightly more than 460 millions tons of high grade, direct shipment iron ore remains in northern Minnesota.

Farm Worker Minimum Pay

Attempt Will Be Made To Pass Law Setting Lowest Rate That Can Be Paid To Migrant Laborers

For a group of people who are virtually voiceless in the arena of Government, the migrant workers of America have won some powerful friends.

In 1961, for the first time in many years, there will be a concerted drive in Congress to pass new legislation to impose a wage floor for the people who pick America's fruits and vegetables. The drive will run into determined opposition and raise some serious questions about how far the Federal Government should go in enforcing labor standards.

Help for the migrants, who in the harvest season number more than a million, is a promise embedded in the Democratic platform. It was strongly endorsed in the Eisenhower Administration by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell, whose successor, Arthur Goldberg, is expected to be no less enthusiastic. The AFL-CIO is supporting legislation for migrants, and the National Catholic Welfare Conference is fighting abuses in the program of importing Mexican laborers.

Farm groups, principally the American Farm Bureau Federation, view the proposals with serious misgivings. The Bureau has opposed the extension of labor controls to farm labor of any kind. Behind Federal controls, they contend, lurks the possibility of union organization of farm workers with its threat of disastrous strikes at harvest time.

Another question involved in the issue is whether housewives would pay higher prices at the produce counter if migrants' wages are raised. There is serious shortage of accurate information on this aspect of the problem.

According to the President's Commission on migrant labor, about half a million adult American citizens live on what they earn traveling from place to place to work in the fields. With them are more than 230,000 dependents, many of whom help supplement their parents' income.

Normally, another 400,000 Mexicans enter the U. S. each year to work as migrants, mostly in the Southwest and California. This number dropped to 300,000 in 1960 when the Labor Department tightened enforcement of regulations governing employment of these braceros.

The migrants' income is not much. Best estimates are that the average migrant works 140 days a year, takes in $710 in cash and receives another $100 in free housing or other fringe benefits.

The average for full-time farm workers is nearly $3,000 a year, including the extra benefits.

Previous efforts to attack the wage level problem have generally foundered on their aim of making farm wage rates equal to those of industrial workers.

Senator Pat McNamara (D) Mich., introduced a bill in the last Congressional session establishing an immediate floor of 75 cents an hour for farm workers on all but the smallest farms, with the rate gradually increasing to the national standard of $1 an hour.

The bill died in committee, mainly because of its failure to deal with the fact that most migratory workers are paid in a piece-work basis and its lack of recognition of regional differences in prevailing wages.

A much more complex bill designed to meet those objections is due for introduction early in the 87th Congress, possibly by Senator Harrison Williams (D) N.J., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on migrant labor.

Science Knowledge

What Is Known Of Red China's Science Could Cause Alarm

NEW YORK CITY—Our knowledge of science in Red China in 1960 is about what our knowledge of Russian science was in 1950.

This could be cause for alarm if we allow the same errors to flow from our ignorance. Working behind the Iron Curtain, while we laughed at their periodic boasts of superiority, the Russians gave us one shocker after another — from swift nuclear development to pioneering Space shots. The two-day Symposium on Science in Red China held last week gave abundant evidence that Asian Communism is capable of springing equal surprises—unless we stay abreast of developments.

This will be difficult — but not impossible. It is worth doing—but not worth doing at all costs. Some of the President - elect's New Frontiersmen want us to "accept" the Chinese Revolution, which inevitably means to aid and promote by our approval. They will use the arguments of scientific "freedom" to advance their previously - taken positions.

But this is an example of paying too much. There are other ways, better and cheaper, of keeping ourselves informed. One way, already undertaken, is for public and private scientific institutions to increase the amount of Chinese - into - English translations. Another is to hold frequent gatherings such as the one just finished. Indirect and remote methods are not as good as on-the-spot examinations but in this case they seem adequate. There is no basic research of much account in continental China. We have little to learn from the Chinese in fundamentals. The application and development of scientific principles are what should be watched, both to guard against surprise and to learn for our own uses. This almost comes down to spying on an enemy — which is what Red China is.

Moreover, the idea that we are isolating Red China by non-recognition is specious. We no more fenced in China than we built Stalin's Iron Curtain. The Chinese mainland is self - isolated. The Closed Door of last century has been reinstated, double - barred and padlocked. There is no chance that the Mao Government will open up unless it stands to gain more than we can afford to give.

Sino - isolationism in science takes the form of excluding all except disloyal Americans, and of sending cadres of students to Moscow, instead of to West Europe, where they could go except for Chinese policy. It consists of accompanying even the most practical lectures in the uses of physics and mathematics with political diatribes against America and the West. It is true that we can change these things, just as we can win Communist smiles everywhere, but only at the price of becoming pro-Communist ourselves.

While the Chinese effort in science and scientific education is immense, it is also crude and, unless we mistakenly give it a lift, will be crude for many years. The effort is following the well-known Communist line of mass statistics. Many more children are going to primary schools, and many more youth to secondary schools — but the teaching is so poor that the educational level of these pupils is thought to be going down rather than up. College enrollment is up (from 440,000 to 660,000 in the sample year of 1958), but the colleges are becoming diploma mills and specialized cram schools. Medical school enrollment is up, so that 40,000 graduate students took degrees in the 1950's, against only 500 the previous decade. But the doctors, like most of the teachers and many of the technicians, are trained, rather than educated.

Science is all the rage in China. It is a mammoth movement, not to be ignored. But it is not to be viewed with panic, or promoted in a frenzy of "do something — do anything" either.

Daily Meditation

Give unto your servants that which is just and equal; knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven. — Col. 4:1.

Nearly all of us are masters, in some degree of one or more people. Through the ballot, we have power over civic and educational matters, with impact upon thousands. In our daily business contacts, we often deal with those who are less fortunate than we ourselves mentally and educationally. We must be fair, therefore, not only in dealing with others, but in giving inspiration, encouragement and help where these things are needed.

Gracious God, our Father, help us to know, understand and accept responsibilities to our fellowmen and to perform them willingly and justly. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

Defends Two Citizens

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Recently a letter from Pioneer, Louisiana, was printed condemning Dr. Ben Oliphint and Mr. R. C. White, Jr. for expressing their belief that individual citizens should have the right to act according to their own volition. This writer stated that we had best "look around to see who we're standing next to."

Now, sir, this sort of inflammatory statement says in effect "I don't agree with you and therefore you must be wrong." Has this gentleman from Pioneer so completely missed or misunderstood freedom's most precious gift . . . the right to free expression in a free society? Must we now poll the town to see if all agree before we make any expression of opinion? I may completely disagree with Dr. Oliphint and Mr. White, but will defend stoutly their right to express their feelings. Actually I am quite sure all these gentlemen ask is that we approach the integration problem with equanimity and intelligence instead of unbridled, unthinking emotion and this seems reasonable to me.

And as for standing next to these two gentlemen? Dr. Oliphint is one of the finest, most sincere and most intelligent theologists I have ever had the pleasure to hear. He is a tireless worker for the good and decent things we all want in our community . . . not someone to create trouble. Mr. White's work as a public servant and his enviable record as a member of the armed service make it quite hard for me to believe that he would uphold anything not in the public interest. Mr. Editor, I would be proud to stand next to either one of the gentlemen and at least have the courtesy to listen to what they believe.

In this very trying and stressful time, it seems to me that we would do better to stick to discussions of the issues involved. Condemning individuals is meaningless and completely unfair. Perhaps the gentleman from Pioneer would benefit from a little introspective thought into his own feelings. If then, he wishes to state his convictions regarding the segregation issue, I believe this would be more in line with the American principle of free expression [illegible]

Warns Of Thin Ice

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Be careful, Mike, John, J. [illegible] You are treading on thin ice! Your reward for serving on the Joint Legislative Committee on Un-American activities could well be censorship, abuse, adverse publicity. Your name will quickly be added to a "get him," "smear him," "move him out" list.

Investigate L.S.U.? Why Representatives [illegible] Gibbs [illegible] FBI Director Hoover reports there are more communist spies [illegible] churches and universities than ever before! Investigate Waldo McNeir, President of the Louisiana Civil Liberties Union, an offshoot of the American Civil Liberties, a communist front who, along with 63 other L.S.U. professors signed a petition in 1958 sent out by the American Civil Liberties Union, attacking Louisiana's efforts to maintain state sovereignty.

Representatives John, Gibbs, apparently you are Americans that foolishly believe the warnings of Maj. Gen. C. A. Willoughby, Herbert Philbrick, J. Edgar Hoover, David Lawrence, George Sokolsky, Matt Cvetic, countless others. Don't you know that such great men are really witch hunting, uninformed, alarmists. Sirs, you should put your faith and trust in the hands of such brilliant men as Mr. R. C. White, Jr.

Another thing, Mike, Lawrence, please get the idea out of your head that academic freedom should not be used as a cloak for activities or teachings subversive to the fundamental principals and ideals of the United States of America. Men, that's Alamo, Bunker Hill, Battleship Maine talk.

Tread softly, keep your big stick, watch your step. All of us trust, and firmly believe, that many loyal Americans will be found at L.S.U. But! Only the gullible refuse to admit that flames can be seen leaping out of the smoke at Louisiana State University.

Please! Please work hard at installing a little Americanism, a little backbone, not only at L.S.U. but throughout the land. Ignore Adcock, White, Oliphant. Work hard to preserve our parks, churches, schools, against those that preach the Godless doctrine of communism.

People of Ouachita, speak up!

Back-Handed Slap?

To the Editor:

Was it a back - handed slap, or did Mrs. Wanda Foreman intend it as a left-handed compliment when she wrote: "It is gratifying . . . to learn that the voices of moderation and reason are at last prevailing in Northeast Louisiana?"

How did Mrs. Wanda Foreman get the supreme authority to pass judgement on the whole of Northeast Louisiana? Is it her intention to give a decision on the constitutional standing of our way of seeing integration in its ugliest phase? Did Mrs. Foreman scratch the surface of the Delta Council to see what is beneath their opposition to the tax? Or did Mrs. Foreman consider it as a heinous thing to hold an opinion contrary to her own?

Could it be that Mrs. Foreman is related to the lady who was watching the U. S. Military Academy cadets on the parade ground and turned to her husband and said proudly: "Every one is out of step except our Willie."

Brave Legislators

Perryville, La.

To the Editor:

Huey P. Long once made the statement, "I can buy legislators like sacks of potatoes." This fact appears to be as true today as it was 30 years ago.

Before the holidays I was proud of our band of legislators from Ouachita and Morehouse parishes who bravely stood up to their convictions in Baton Rouge on the sales tax issue. Then came the new year, great pressures and who knows what else from the Davis administration, and switch-a-roo our brave little band from northeast Louisiana pulled down their flag and joined the opposition.

They claim now that great pressure from the people made them change their minds. As a matter of fact I have never seen so many factions against any issue. Business men, the Chamber of Commerce, industry, organized labor, the two Monroe newspapers, and 90 per cent of the people were against it. In fact Rep. John before he went back to Baton Rouge made the statement that everyone he talked to was against the tax and that he most certainly would vote against it again. He sure was quick to "see the light" when he got back to Baton Rouge. I hope the electorate will remember this little maneuver three years from now when these "brave and courageous" politicians stand before us asking for re-election or election to some higher office.

No one is for segregation more than I but this tax raise issue is hiding behind the segregation banner as Sen. Rainach and other strong segregationists have contended all along. In the first place the U. S. Supreme Court will prohibit the state of Louisiana from using state tax money to support private schools. Secondly, there has been no proof shown that even one cent of this money is actually needed. Certainly everyone knows by now that if and when it is needed that Gov. Davis knows how to call special sessions and could place the facts before the legislature at that time.

It now looks as if James A. Noe was right all the time when, in the second primary, he stated that Davis, when trying to woo his support for the run-off made the statement, "I think if another tax is needed that the sales tax is the fairest tax of all."

McNamara Eyes Appointees To Pentagon Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert S. McNamara, getting ready to become the Pentagon's new chief, has a stack of about 100 cards close at hand.

Each card bears the name of a man under consideration as a possible appointee to a position in the Defense Department or the services.

From this group, McNamara hopes to find men who will accept — and be acceptable — for about 20 key posts still to be filled, as well as a number of deputies, assistants and special assistants.

McNamara hopes to have the various positions filled by the time he takes office on Jan. 20. It takes time, because McNamara believes he must interview each man.

However, McNamara and President-elect John F. Kennedy by now have selected all of the top ranking aides, with the exception of a secretary of the Army. McNamara doesn't seem to feel the delay here is undue, believing it is part of the effort at careful selection.

Belgium Quiet After Rioting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgium relaxed Saturday after 19 turbulent days of strikes, and the government predicted a return to almost normal work on Monday.

But it was an uneasy breather after Friday's violence in Liege, where several buildings were attacked and at least 75 people were injured.

The only strike rally scheduled Saturday was in Verviers — and that was canceled because a militant Socialist leader, Andre Renar, could not attend. Renard was in Brussels, in conference with the Socialist party executive committee.

Gold From Tourists

One of the best ways to help reverse our unfavorable trade balance would be to spend some of the money we spend on foreign aid on attracting tourists from other nations to this country. There can be little doubt if we spent one-fourth as much federal money to attract visitors as we spend on foreign aid of questionable value tourists would start pouring into this country at an unprecedented rate.

Who is responsible for causing the supply of American gold to drop to a dangerous level? What single thing has done most to bring about our unfavorable trade balance. The answers to these questions are that the federal government is chiefly responsible and that foreign aid to so-called underprivileged countries has been the biggest drain on our gold resources.

When all the excitement started about the gold depletion the blame was first placed on foreign investments by United States firms. American tourist spending abroad and spending by American armed service men and their dependents. To this was added also the foreign aid but it was minimized and the foreign investments by American businessmen caused them to be made sort of whipping boys for the whole trouble.

Since then it has become clear that foreign aid is what keeps us in the red in the international trade balance. Except for the gifts and so-called loans (which are actually donations to an extremely large proportion of the approximately 90 nations in the world, our trade balance would still be favorable.

It is true that we may need to give some assistance to other countries in order to keep their friendship but we should be far more careful in passing out the donations and should make more effort to see that they are appreciated and fruitful when we do give them.

Much was made of the administration plan to cut down drastically on the cost of maintaining the dependents of military men abroad but the program has been modified and postponed. It is likely to be a good while before many dollars are saved that way and the amount probably never will be as much as forecast. As a mattre of fact, if the armed services intend to maintain troops in other countries it appears reasonable that they also maintain the families of these men abroad or that they accept only unmarried men for foreign service. It is unnatural state for any married man to live apart from his family and not many of them want to do it.

Statisticians have cast the accounts on American investment abroad and found that there is a net balance of payments in our favor from this source. We have been investing an average of $2 million annually abroad and getting back $2.5 million.

American citizens would be reluctant to see a ceiling placed on the amount our tourists may spend abroad. It would be far better to induce more foreigners to come here and spend their money.

This not only would improve our trade balance but undoubtedly would do far more toward creating friendship for this country than does most of the money spent on foreign aid.

If we want to invest government money abroad for the sake of creating friendship we might as well get a little return from it in more ways than one. Spending money to attract tourists to this country not only would go a long way toward building friendship but would start some of the gold flowing back this way.

Capacity Unnecessary

Announcement by the steel industry of its intention to drop the reporting of its operating rate as a percentage of capacity recalls to mind that President-elect Kennedy made much of the fact, during his election campaign, that the steel industry was working at only "half capacity." It also has caused something of a flurry. The flurry is entirely uncalled for and the Kennedy statements were worth nothing more than campaign propaganda.

The fact is that if the steel mills continued to work at full capacity and continued to improve and modernize their equipment as they have done for many years the country would soon have a greater surplus of steel than it does of farm products. The idea that any industry has to work all of the time at full capacity is highly erroneous. Defends Two Citizens

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Recently a letter from Pioneer, Louisiana, was printed condemning Dr. Ben Oliphint and Mr. R. C. White, Jr. for expressing their belief that individual citizens should have the right to act according to their own volition. This writer stated that we had best "look around to see who we're standing next to."

Now, sir, this sort of inflammatory statement says in effect "I don't agree with you and therefore you must be wrong." Has this gentleman from Pioneer so completely missed or misunderstood freedom's most precious gift . . . the right to free expression in a free society? Must we now poll the town to see if all agree before we make any expression of opinion? I may completely disagree with Dr. Oliphint and Mr. White, but will defend stoutly their right to express their feelings. Actually I am quite sure all these gentlemen ask is that we approach the integration problem with equanimity and intelligence instead of unbridled, unthinking emotion...and this seems reasonable to me.

And as for standing next to these two gentlemen? Dr. Oliphint is one of the finest, most sincere and most intelligent theologists I have ever had the pleasure to hear. He is a tireless worker for the good and decent things we all want in our community . . . not someone to create trouble. Mr. White's work as a public servant and his enviable record as a member of the armed service make it quite hard for me to believe that he would uphold anything not in the public interest. Mr. Editor, I would be proud to stand next to either one of the gentlemen and at least have the courtesy to listen to what they believe.

In this very trying and stressful time, it seems to me that we would do better to stick to discussions of the issues involved. Condemning individuals is meaningless and completely unfair. Perhaps the gentleman from Pioneer would benefit from a little introspective thought into his own feelings. If, then, he wishes to state his convictions regarding the segregation issue, I believe this would be more in line with the American principles of free expression and fair play.

Warns Of Thin Ice

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Be careful Mike John Jr.! You are treading on thin ice! Your reward for serving on the Joint Legislative Committee on Un-American activities could well be censorship, abuse, adverse publicity. Your name will quickly be added to a "get him", "smear him," "move him out" list.

Investigate L.S.U.? Why Representatives John, Gibbs, the very idea!! At a time when FBI Director Hoover reports there are more communist spies in our churches and universities than ever before! Investigate Waldo McNeir, President of the Louisiana Civil Liberties Union, an offshoot of the American Civil Liberties, (a communist front) who, along with 63 other L.S.U. professors, signed a petition in 1958 sent out by the American Civil Liberties Union, attacking Louisiana's efforts to maintain state sovereignty.

Representatives John, Gibbs, apparently you are Americans that foolishly believe the warnings of Maj. Gen. C. A. Willoughby, Herbert Philbrick, J. Edgar Hoover, David Lawrence, George Sokolsky, Matt Cevtic, countless others. Don't you know that such great men are really witch hunting, uninformed, alarmists. Sirs, you should put your faith and trust in the hands of such brilliant men as Mr. R. C. White, Jr.

Another thing, Mike, Lawrence, please get the idea out of your head that academic freedom should not be used as a cloak for activities or teachings subversive to the fundamental principals and ideals of the United States of America. Men, that's Alamo, Bunker Hill, Battleship Maine talk.

Tread softly, keep your big stick, watch your step. All of us trust, and firmly believe, that many loyal Americans will be found at L.S.U. But! Only the gullible refuse to admit that flames can be seen leaping out of the smoke at Louisiana State University.

Please! Please work hard at installing a little Americanism, a little backbone, not only at L.S.U. but throughout the land. Ignore Adcock, White, Oliphint. Work hard to preserve our parks, churches, schools, against those that preach the Godless doctrine of communism.

People of Ouachita, speak up!

Back-Handed Slap?

To the Editor:

Was it a back - handed slap, or did Mrs. Wanda Foreman intend it as a left-handed compliment when she wrote: "It is gratifying . . . to learn that the voices of moderation and reason are at last prevailing in Northeast Louisiana?"

How did Mrs. Wanda Foreman get the supreme authority to pass judgement on the whole of Northeast Louisiana? Is it her intention to give a decision on the constitutional standing of our way of seeing integration in its ugliest phase? Did Mrs. Foreman scratch the surface of the Delta Council to see what is beneath their opposition to the tax? Or did Mrs. Foreman consider it as a heinous thing to hold an opinion contrary to her own?

Could it be that Mrs. Foreman is related to the lady who was watching the U. S. Military Academy cadets on the parade ground and turned to her husband and said proudly: "Every one is out of step except our Willie."

Brave Legislators

Perryville, La.

To the Editor:

Huey P. Long once made the statement, "I can buy legislators like sacks of potatoes." This fact appears to be as true today as it was 30 years ago.

Before the holidays I was proud of our band of legislators from Ouachita and Morehouse parishes who bravely stood up to their convictions in Baton Rouge on the sales tax issue. Then came the new year, great pressures and who knows what else from the Davis administration, and switch-a-roo our brave little band from northeast Louisiana pulled down their flag and joined the opposition.

They claim now that great pressure from the people made them change their minds. As a matter of fact I have never seen so many factions against any issue. Business men, the Chamber of Commerce, industry, organized labor, the two Monroe newspapers, and 90 per cent of the people were against it. In fact Rep. John before he went back to Baton Rouge made the statement that everyone he talked to was against the tax and that he most certainly would vote against it again. He sure was quick to "see the light" when he got back to Baton Rouge. I hope the electorate will remember this little maneuver three years from now when these "brave and courageous" politicians stand before us asking for re-election, or election to some higher office.

No one is for segregation more than I but this tax raise issue is hiding behind the segregation banner as Sen. Rainach and other strong segregationists have contended all along. In the first place the U. S. Supreme Court will prohibit the state of Louisiana from using state tax money to support private schools. Secondly, there has been no proof shown that even one cent of this money is actually needed. Certainly everyone knows by now that if and when it is needed that Gov. Davis knows how to call special sessions and could place the facts before the legislature at that time.

It now looks as if James A. Noe was right all the time when, in the second primary, he stated that Davis, when trying to woo his support for the run-off made the statement, "I think if another tax is needed that the sales tax is the fairest tax of all."

McNamara Eyes Appointees To Pentagon Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert S. McNamara, getting ready to become the Pentagon's new chief, has a stack of about 100 cards close at hand.

Each card bears the name of a man under consideration as a possible appointee to a position in the Defense Department or the services.

From this group, McNamara hopes to find men who will accept — and be acceptable — for about 20 key posts still to be filled, as well as a number of deputies, assistants and special assistants.

McNamara hopes to have the various positions filled by the time he takes office on Jan. 20. It takes time, because McNamara believes he must interview each man.

However, McNamara and President-elect John F. Kennedy by now have selected all of the top ranking aides, with the exception of a secretary of the Army. McNamara doesn't seem to feel the delay here is undue, believing it is part of the effort at careful selection.

Belgium Quiet After Rioting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgium relaxed Saturday after 19 turbulent days of strikes, and the government predicted a return to almost normal work on Monday.

But it was an uneasy breather after Friday's violence in Liege, where several buildings were attacked and at least 75 people were injured.

The only strike rally scheduled Saturday was in Verviers — and that was canceled because a militant Socialist leader, Andre Renar, could not attend. Renard was in Brussels, in conference with the Socialist party executive committee.

Censorship Around World Tighter '60

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Press censorship, often disguised, grew tighter in many areas of the world in 1960.

In some places where uniformed government officials once wielded blue pencil and scissors the trend was toward subtle—but just as effective—methods.

Charges of suppression long have been heard in Communist countries and others under dictatorships. This year, they were raised even in the United States. Democrats cried foul during the presidential campaign when the Eisenhower administration refused to release a government-sponsored survey of American prestige abroad.

At the close of every year The Associated Press asks its bureaus around the world to supply information on censorship and other conditions affecting the flow of news across international lines.

The resulting survey finds a lack of developments in many countries which have a long record of relative press freedom. Here are some of the countries where censorship of one kind or another was notable in 1960:

WESTERN EUROPE

In some parts of Western Europe subtle methods of controlling the news developed into a fine [illegible]

There was heavy censorship at the source and a more complicated method involving national security laws. Security laws, for example, prohibited speculation before an atomic bomb test in Africa. No national security was involved. France merely wanted to avoid possible violent protests from African nations over the controversial tests, officials said.

In direct contrast to metropolitan France, President Charles de Gaulle's administration imposed censorship openly during periods of stress in Algeria. Foreign correspondents who offended the government lost credentials and found official sources closed.

EASTERN EUROPE

The Soviet Union retained its censorship—strictest in the world—on all news coming in or going out.

Other Communist countries' approach to the concept of a free press was typified in East Germany, where the Communist party controlled the domestic press. The party handed down the official line, newspapers published it and radio stations broadcast it.

No censorship was clamped on foreign newsmen, but they were not allowed to travel freely throughout the country.

Communist Poland operated censorship a little differently. It had no travel restrictions and no open censorship. But one correspondent was expelled for writing "objectionable" stories. Many were warned not to write about certain subjects, such as relations between Communist nations. The Poles showed increasing sensitivity to reported criticism from their Communist allies.

LATIN AMERICA

Political turmoil in Latin America often was accompanied by strict censorship.

The free press vanished in Cuba when the independent newspaper Informacion discontinued publication in December, under increasing pressure from the Fidel Castro regime.

Castro made increasing use of censorship at the source, plus harassment of newsmen, to minimize publication of anything critical of his regime. Newsmen frequently were detained, photographers' film was seized; most incoming publications were heavily censored.

The Venezuelan government cracked down during November leftist riots by exercising what it called "control" of outgoing news dispatches. Officials stationed in cable offices read news stories before transmission and pointed out "inaccuracies or exaggerations." The domestic press was told to avoid publishing "alarming" reports.

Argentina instituted censorship on several occasions when Peronists touched off antigovernment rioting. President Arturo Frondizi said his government could not tolerate false articles which in perilous times could incite the people against authority. Several newsmen were jailed temporarily.

Nicaragua halted a trend toward liberalizing press restrictions by clamping on censorship Nov. 11, following disorders in Carazo Province.

No censorship was openly evident in Chile, Costa Rica, Bolivia, Peru, Uruguay, Ecuador and the Dominican Republic. But several controlled the press in other ways.

Dictator Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic could claim he had no censors at work. But his opponents could point out that nothing critical of Trujillo ever appeared in the government-controlled press. Unfavorable stories transmitted by foreign correspondents resulted in their expulsion.

MIDEAST

Egypt nationalized all major newspapers and applied light censorship to outgoing news stories. Foreign correspondents were hindered by restrictions at the source. Newsmen could walk from government office to office all day in Cairo and not find an official to nail down a fact.

Iran had no censorship on outgoing news but domestic censorship worsened. One editor was jailed.

In the Sudan, harassment of unpopular foreign correspondents was a favorite method of censorship. Travel was restricted and newsmen often waited months for visa approval and then learned they could not enter the country.

Israel maintained a military censorship on all aspects of news coverage. Officials say the censorship in force since Israel became a nation in 1948 is necessary because of strife with surrounding Arab nations.

In Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Iraq and Jordan censors wielded blue pencils. A foreign correspondent could file anything from Libya—if he could get into the country. Few did.

Turkey's army-controlled government employed no formal censorship but warned newspapers against publishing anything which might "incite the population." Foreign correspondents filed news stories unhindered.

AFRICA

There was no direct censorship on one of the year's big stories—the Congo. This seemed due to an inability to set up technical arrangements rather than any reluctance to interfere with the free flow of news.

Belgian advisers to army commander Col. Joseph Mobutu carefully watched for press criticism of his regime. Newsmen repeatedly were threatened with arrest, beating and expulsion.

Mobutu's security chief, Gilbetr Pongo, twice stormed into Leopoldville's central telegraph office with an armed escort and screamed that newsmen were "spies and saboteurs."

The Union of South Africa used no direct censorship but during racial disturbances imposed "limitations" on the press. Several South African newsmen were jailed. The International Press Institute criticized Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd for discrimination against newsmen critical of plans to make South Africa a republic.

Freedom of the press shone brightly in Nigeria. The federal premier set up Western-style news conferences and welcomed all questions. Ethiopia showed signs of relaxing controls of the press. A privately owned press grew as a strong supplement to government-owned newspapers and magazines.

FAR EAST

President Sukarno's guided democracy plan brought Indonesia's press under virtually complete control. Foreign correspondents were hampered by source censorship but their cables went out untouched.

Burma did not censor the press but the government threatened newsmen with the World War I Official Secrets Act, an antiespionage law. This is interpreted to mean the government can prosecute any newspaper which publishes a report the government wants withheld. Detectives at cable offices warned foreign correspondents no "incorrect news" would be passed.

Viet Nam's press printed only what it was told. It received government advisories suggesting what line to take. Foreign correspondents were watched closely. One was expelled for stories he wrote. Others were denied entry.

Thailand, under continuing martial law, blue-penciled no news. But one newspaper was closed for criticizing government policy. Critical stories filed by foreign newsmen often were delayed.

Cambodia closed papers disagreeing with government policy. There was no direct censorship on outgoing dispatches.

Malaya and Singapore have retained subtle forms of control from the former British colonial administration and used them effectively. Newspapers are licensed and the governments can revoke the permits. But the press generally was freer than in the rest of Southeast Asia and foreign newsmen operated unhampered.

Hong Kong's colonial administration applied indirect pressure to force radio and television stations to take news from the government information service, but there was no direct censorship.

Japan's press was completely free; Formosa's under strict control. India, Ceylon and Pakistan represented all gradations of press freedom. India's press was generally unrestricted. Ceylon drew up legislation giving the government press control. Pakistan threatened newsmen with laws which make "treasonous" publication punishable by death. This law was not used in 1960 but several newsmen were jailed.

Americans In Pairs With Brush

AMERICAN PAINTERS IN Paris. By Yvon Bizardel. Translated from French by Richard Howard. Macmillan. $5.95.

Since almost the first American painters, Paris has been the mecca for almost all of them.

The first two contacts were established, to be sure, by men just going through: Benjamin West, after three years in Italy, went north via France and Paris to the London which he made home; and John Singleton Copley passed through Paris in the opposite direction. The next two men came in 1780; Paris was their goal; and shipping routes and seaports being different then, they first set foot ashore well inland, at Nantes on the Loire.

Ours was still a young country, and attitudes to the arts varied. John Adams declared categorically, "I would not give sixpence for a statue by Phidias or a painting by Raphael" — his Yankee business sense, if nothing else, should have taught him how wrong he was. But Jefferson was the warm friend of both painter and sculptor, and it was he who chose Hudson to do the head of Washington. Some artists themselves were only half committed: Charles Willson Peale — he never got to Paris but sent his son Rembrandt Peale — was painter and naturalist, inventor, archaeologist and so on. Robert Fulton and Samuel F. B. Morse, both Paris residents, are remembered almost more for their inventions than their canvases. John Trumbull could paint and be a businessman too.

But later artists settled down exclusively to art — Washington Allston, John Vanderlyn, Thomas Cole, George Healy, Asher Durand; at Barbizon, Richard Hunt and George Innes; and coming closer to our century, Whistler, Homer, Sargent and Mary Cassatt.

One of the oddest experiences enjoyed by these expatriates appears in the George Catlin story. This westerner took with him not only paintings but also a band of Red Indians, whom he exhibited to enormous well-paying crowds. Catlin interested Louis-Phillippe, the only European monarch who had, to then, visited America, in his paintings as well as his Redskins. But in the end the exile of the King caused a setback to the fortunes of a trio of Americans: Neither Catlin nor Healy could collect on commissions, and Rembrandt Peale couldn't push through the projected sale of a mastodon from his father's Philadelphia museum.

Americans who flocked to Paris in the 1920s were only following in the footsteps of their pioneering ancestors. The French capital was a liberating influence, a center of life as well as art, then as always; Bizardel gives it proper credit.

Rembrandt. By Claude Roger-Marx. Translated from French by W. J. Strachan and Peter Simmons. Universe. $20.

One of the continuing series of excellent art books originating with Pierre Tisne in Paris, this has a definitive text by a master modern critic, and a chronology with underlines embodied in it. There are 36 color plates and 275 black-and-whites.

How Would You Score Term Of Outgoing U. S. President

Editor's Note — Now you've seen all the drama and tension of the Eisenhower years — crisis in Korea, Indochina, Suez, Cuba, Africa, Hungary, Lebanon, Laos. If you were history, how would you score them? Defeats or victories? As the president packs up for Gettysburg, here's one close observer's appraisal of the job he did.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the days to come Dwight D. Eisenhower's proudest memory of his years as president may be this:

Though he stood often on the brink of war he always managed somehow to meet the challenge and still preserve the peace.

In the process, through the eight crisis-wrenched years of his administration, Eisenhower vastly expanded the defense frontiers of the United States. To block the outward thrust of Communist might, he made new anti-Communist military pledges in the Far East, the Middle East and Asia.

But the future chroniclers of the administration will have to record that against a wily and ruthless foe his efforts often fell short of success. Indeed the "Eisenhower era", as the late John Foster Dulles called it, is scarred with the wreckage of vain hopes and broken dreams even as it is distinguished by some outstanding achievements.

TWO EVENTS

Two events in his early years did more than any others to fix the pattern with which the President had to work in foreign policy. The first was the death of Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin on March 5, 1953.

The second came in 1954 when the Democrats won control of Congress and restored to key positions a number of men who were more sympathetic to Eisenhower's internationalist plans than some of the powerful members of his own party. This domestic political turnover put an end to the McCarthy period and lifted heavy pressures from the State Department and U.S. foreign service.

Eisenhower dedicated himself in his inaugural speech Jan. 20, 1953, to the renunciation of war "as a chosen way" to fight communism. He said the first task of statesmanship was to "develop the strength that will deter the forces of aggression and promote the conditions of peace."

How well he achieved these objectives became increasingly a matter of controversy in his later years and provided the dominant issue of the recent campaign which saw the defeat of his friend and vice president, Richard M. Nixon, by Sen. John F. Kennedy. Kennedy charged that U.S. power and prestige had declined dangerously; Nixon argued that this country's position in the world had never been better.

Eisenhower himself often asserted that in spite of Soviet feats in the space race—the U.S.S.R. launched the first man-made satellite in October 1957—the United States lead in military power over the Soviet Union was unimpaired.

US LATE

That the United States was late in entering the space contest and the nuclear rockets armaments race is certainly true. The point will long be disputed, however, whether the responsibility for this belonged to Eisenhower or his White House predecessor, Harry S. Truman.

Dulles stressed the spread of liberty at the outset of "the Eisenhower era." He dreamed of using America's margin of military power to "roll back" the Iron Curtain. He envisioned a permanent settlement in Korea. He planned to seek an agreement with the Chinese Reds, if he got the chance, on the Formosa issue. On all these points his hopes proved vain.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Public Library

This is the time of the year when we take stock of the accomplishments of the library for the past year. All of the figures have not yet been compiled but we do know that our book collection has grown from 60,005 volumes on January 1, 1960 to 66,328 volumes on January 1, 1961. This is quite a gain for one year and represents a great investment in time and money. Soon we hope to have a complete annual report ready for publication in the paper and know that all of you will be interested in the growth of your library.

In spite of holidays a number of new books were added during the past week. "No Land Is Free" is the title of a new western by Joseph Chadwich. Quentin Reynolds has written an interesting account of the unknown soldiers and their memorial in Arlington, which he calls "Known But to God." An interesting book of early church history is "Kingdoms of Christ" by Kurt Emmrich. It deals with the early church and the church during the middle ages. "The Seventh Day" by Booten Herndon is an interesting account of The Seventh Day Adventists.

A book which will be in great demand is "How I Made $2,000,000 In the Stock Market" by Nicolas Darvas. If true, it could be very valuable information. William Vogt has written a most thoughtful book about the population explosion called "People: Challenge to Survival." It is a book which frightens and disturbs the complacent reader, but it contains facts which we should all know. James M. Cannon is the author of "Politics, U. S. A." which he calls a practical guide to the winning of public office. This is a book which everyone who is running for office should read. "The Political Economy of National Security" is the title of a new book by James R. Schlesinger. It is a study of the economic aspects of the contemporary power struggle. Not everyone will want to read it, but those who do will be amply rewarded by a discerning mind.

Another book for the thoughtful reader is "The Constitutional Crisis: It's Threat to Liberty and It's Remedy." This is a compilation of newspaper articles from a Nevada newspaper, but they are thoughtful and well - written. Much has been written lately about the methods of teaching reading in the public schools. Educators are beginning to return to the study of phonetics. A fine new book on this subject has just been written by ames A. Carrell and should be most helpful. In this age in which we live there is an increased interest in astronomy and the heavenly bodies. Patrick Moore is the author of "A Guide to the Stars" which should be very useful to students.

Gerald M. Durrell is a most delightful writer of books about his experiences with animals. His latest title is called "A Zoo in My Luggage" and should be delightful reading. Merele Crowe Coulter has produced a very fine book, "The Story of the Plant Kingdom" which should be useful to all botanists. "Poisons, Properties, Chemical Identification, Symptoms and Emergency Treatment" by Vincent J. Brookes, is a book which should be most valuable to people who have need for such information. D. C. Jarvis has a new title called "Arthritis and Folk Medicine" which is interesting, whether scientific or not.

A lovely new book is "Chinese Art" by William Willetts. This book contains much information not otherwise located in the library. "35 mm Photography" by Jacob Deschin should be most interesting to those people who have this particular type of photography as a hobby or vocation.

Arthur J. Smith is the editor of a new book of verse "The Oxford Book of Canadian Verse" which contains much lovely poetry. Recently there has been a revival of the works of Henry James and many of his older titles are coming back into print. Newly received at the library is his "English Hours" an interesting book of descriptive essays about the English countryside. A very humorous book is "The Classics Reclassified" by Richard Armour.

Books of history are always in demand and a number of new titles are recent additions. Denis Sinor is the author of "A History of Hungary" which fills a gap in the book collection. Sydney N. Fisher has written a new book "The Middle East" which discusses one of the trouble spots of the world. "From Sea to Sea" by William G. Hardy is a history of Canada from 1850 to 1910. Do you ever wonder what the Russian children are taught about our country? If you do, you should read "A Soviet View of the American Past," which is an annotated translation of the section on American history from the Russian encyclopedia. Books about the Civil War are being published in great profusion. The latest one is "Tragic Years, 1860-1865" by Paul M. Angle and Earl Miers. Another is "A Civil War Treasury of Tales, Legends and Folklore," by Benjamin A. Botkin. "Lee's Last Campaign" was written by Clifford Dowdey, an authority on the Civil War.

Books about the Spanish American War are always hard to find and we are happy to have a new book on this subject. The author is Frank Burt Freidel and the title is "The Splendid Little War." Two valuable additions to the reference collection are among the recent additions. One is "International Missile and Spacecraft Guide" by Frederick Ordway. The other is "New Cambridge Modern History" in five volumes. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is making every attempt to fill the reading needs of the people of the parish. We invite you to use it's resources.

Straining For Anger

CARNIVAL OF ANGELS. By Robert De Maria. Macmillan. $3.95.

A young man named Mario — not Maria — ending his junior year at Columbia and confronting the future with trepidation and surging violance, gives himself a fereciously tough time in this first novel. His father dies — so what? he asks. He hurts his white girl Lynn — what does she expect? He abandons the Negro girl Pearl whom he had abused. He slaps down his teacher's helping hand — he wants no help, thank you.

Mario thrashes around angrily; he's the hedgehog type, presenting bristles to everyone who comes near. Prof. Gordon doesn't approve but has a sneaking respect for him; Lynn loves him in spite of all; Pearl is forgiving. The Negro grandma with whom he takes refuge puts up with his cantakerousness.

The only one who gets after him, switchblade in hand, is Lou. I am on Lou's side, for Mario makes it hard not only for himself but for me. This is written consistently and the specific flare of passion is realistic, but if we must get mad at things, let's pick things already existing and not strain to make some up.

Feuding Fun From Ireland

THE OTHER END OF THE BRIDGE. By Una Troy. Dutton. $3.50.

Corkbeg and Waterville, Irish towns separated by the river Dara and, even more, by the ancient curving bridge that crosses it and is supposed to bind them in togetherness, are feuding. Which town will pay for a new bridge? Which is correct in claiming to be the birthplace of O'Rourke, obscure bard but their only link to fame? Who's right and who's wrong when the two mayors' sons have a smash - up on the town line in the bridge's dead center?

Teacher, antique dealer, kids spoiling for a fight, rabid towns - men and anguished young lovers stir things up and calm them down. This mischievous novel from Ireland is pure and purely fun.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Local Personalities Show Their Talents

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

Soprano Margaret Kalil, native Monroyan who holds the position of artist in residence at North Texas State College in Denton, Texas, was soloist at a performance of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," which was given on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

The production, which attracted a "standing room only" audience, was under the direction of T. Charles Lee who is conductor of the Oratorio Society and Chorus.

Peter Paul Fuchs of the LSU opera department, who made the news only a month ago when he was appointed director of the Baton Rouge Symphony Orchestra, will claim the bright lights in Texas this month.

As president of the National Opera Association, he will preside at the sixth annual convention of that organization set in Dallas. At the same time, the Fort Worth Opera Association will present Fuchs' English language version of Verdi's "Masked Ball."

The association meeting at Dallas will include the premiere of "The Libretto," a new opera composed by Don Gillis of the University of Michigan.

Aside from fostering the continued growth of opera in the United States — an obvious aim of any operatic group — the National Opera Association is also plugging for the decentralization of opera. In simple language, this means getting more of the lyric theatre out of New York.

So much of the so - called "legitimate" theatre has been centered in New York until the big city has worked its way into the thinking of a majority of playwrights and directors. Hence even when a play is set in the mid - west or south, the complexities of New York society are still obvious. Two examples of this in recent years have been "Picnic," and "Dark at the Top of the Stairs."

For this reason, the move on the part of the opera association to get opera into the rest of the country — as well as more of the country into opera — is a noteworthy effort.

It was with sincere regret that we learned of the death of Shreveport dramatics director and producer, Joseph B. Gifford. Mr. Gifford, 66, a resident of Sheveport since 1946, was killed December 30 in an automobile wreck in Arizona.

A former member of the Centenary College faculty, Mr. Gifford rose to prominence in the southwest as he directed 65 major productions during the last decade of the Shreveport Summer Theatre and Marjorie Lyons Playhouse on the Centenary campus.

In 1952, Director Gifford passed a theatrical milestone by staging his 200th production, a record without equal in this part of the nation and equalled by few directors in the United States.

Area attraction for the month of January will be British concert comedienne, Anna Russell, who will appear on the Louisiana Tech series Wednesday evening. According to L. V. E. Irvine, chairman of the Tech concert group, Miss Russell will appear in one performance only but will be returned at a later date should attendance run past the capacity of Howard Auditorium.

Burden Gets Heavy On A Pacific Isle

THE KING FROM ASHTABULA. By Vern Sneider. Putnam. $3.95.

The Nakashima Islands in the East China sea, the occupying American forces with the best intentions in the world, the natives stubbornly clinging to their own ideas—this is the newest offering by the author of the publishing and theater success, "The Teahouse of the August Moon."

This time General Scheick is letting the native vote on the sort of government they want; and he'll swear they'll vote for democracy — what other form will give them so many blessings? So they vote overwhelmingly for a monarchy, hunt for an heir to the centuries-old royal family, find him in Ashtabula, and induce horrified hair-tearing in Washington officialdom.

The general is a diet faddist, and the islanders eat mainly sweet potatoes—neither notion very funny but each one carried out to the limit and slightly beyond. But Sneider is consistent; he works his scheme out carefully, he imposes detailed democratic processes on a people who couldn't be less interested, and acts tough with stuffy officials and the traditional ways of the white man bestowing on primitives the benefits of civilization.

Actually the white man's burden gets pretty heavy, at least for the reader. But though Sneider resorts to a kind of kindergarten treatment of his problem, the problem itself is right up there on the grown-up college level.

Censorship Around World Tighter '60

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Press censorship, often disguised, grew tighter in many areas of the world in 1960.

In some places where uniformed government officials once wielded blue pencil and scissors the trend was toward subtle—but just as effective—methods.

Charges of suppression long have been heard in Communist countries and others under dictatorships. This year, they were raised even in the United States. Democrats cried foul during the presidential campaign when the Eisenhower administration refused to release a government-sponsored survey of American prestige abroad.

At the close of every year The Associated Press asks its bureaus around the world to supply information on censorship and other conditions affecting the flow of news across international lines.

The resulting survey finds a lack of developments in many countries which have a long record of relative press freedom. Here are some of the countries where censorship of one kind or another was notable in 1960:

WESTERN EUROPE

There was heavy censorship at the source and a more complicated method involving national security laws. Security laws, for example, prohibited speculation before an atomic bomb test in Africa. No national security was involved. France merely wanted to avoid possible violent protests from African nations over the controversial tests, officials said.

In direct contrast to metropolitan France, President Charles de Gaulle's administration imposed censorship openly during periods of stress in Algeria. Foreign correspondents who offended the government lost credentials and found official sources closed.

EASTERN EUROPE

The Soviet Union retained its censorship—strictest in the world—on all news coming in or going out.

Other Communist countries, approach to the concept of a free press was typified in East Germany, where the Communist party controlled the domestic press. The party handed down the official line, newspapers published it and radio stations broadcast it.

No censorship was clamped on foreign newsmen, but they were not allowed to travel freely throughout the country.

Communist Poland operated censorship a little differently. It had no travel restrictions and no open censorship. But one correspondent was expelled for writing "objectionable" stories. Many were warned not to write about certain subjects, such as relations between Communist nations. The Poles showed increasing sensitivity to reported criticism from their Communist allies.

LATIN AMERICA

Political turmoil in Latin America often was accompanied by strict censorship.

The free press vanished in Cuba when the independent newspaper Informacion discontinued publication in December, under increasing pressure from the Fidel Castro regime.

Castro made increasing use of censorship at the source, plus harassment of newsmen, to minimize publication of anything critical of his regime. Newsmen frequently were detained; photographers' film was seized; most incoming publications were heavily censored.

The Venezuelan government cracked down during November leftist riots by exercising what it called "control" of outgoing news dispatches. Officials stationed in cable offices read news stories before transmission and pointed out "inaccuracies or exaggerations." The domestic press was told to avoid publishing "alarming" reports.

Argentina instituted censorship on several occasions when Peronists touched off antigovernment rioting. President Arturo Frondizi said his government could not tolerate false articles which in perilous times could incite the people against authority. Several newsmen were jailed temporarily.

Nicaragua halted a trend toward liberalizing press restrictions by clamping on censorship Nov. 11, following disorders in Carazo Province.

No censorship was openly evident in Chile, Costa Rica, Bolivia, Peru, Uruguay, Ecuador and the Dominican Republic. But several controlled the press in other ways.

Dictator Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic could claim he had no censors at work. But his opponents could point out that nothing critical of Trujillo ever appeared in the government-controlled press. Unfavorable stories transmitted by foreign correspondents resulted in their expulsion.

MIDEAST

Egypt nationalized all major newspapers and applied light censorship to outgoing news stories. Foreign correspondents were hindered by restrictions at the source. Newsmen could walk from government office to office all day in Cairo and not find an official to nail down a fact.

Iran had no censorship on outgoing news but domestic censorship worsened. One editor was jailed.

In the Sudan, harassment of unpopular foreign correspondents was a favorite method of censorship. Travel was restricted and newsmen often waited months for visa approval and then learned they could not enter the country.

Israel maintained a military censorship on all aspects of news coverage. Officials say the censorship in force since Israel became a nation in 1948 is necessary because of strife with surrounding Arab nations.

In Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Iraq and Jordan censors wielded blue pencils. A foreign correspondent could file anything from Libya—if he could get into the country. Few did.

5A-1 AFRICA . . . .

There was no direct censorship on one of the year's big stories—the Congo. This seemed due to an inability to set up technical arrangements rather than any reluctance to interfere with the free flow of news.

Belgian advisers to army commander Col. Joseph Mobutu carefully watched for press criticism of his regime. Newsmen repeatedly were threatened with arrest, beating and expulsion.

Mobutu's security chief, Gilbetr Pongo, twice stormed into Leopoldville's central telegraph office with an armed escort and screamed that newsmen were "spies and saboteurs."

The Union of South Africa used no direct censorsip but during racial disturbances imposed "limitations" on the press. Several South African newsmen were jailed. The International Press Institute criticized Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd for discrimination against newsmen critical of plans to make South Africa a republic.

Freedom of the press shone brightly in Nigeria. The federal premier set up Western - style news conferences and welcomed all questions. Ethiopia showed signs of relaxing controls of the press. A privately owned press grew as a strong supplement to government - owned newspapers and magazines.

FAR EAST

President Sukarno's guided democracy plan brought Indonesia's press under virtually complete control. Foreign correspondents were hampered by source censorship but their cables went out untouched.

Burma did not censor the press but the government threatened newsmen with the World War I Official Secrets Act, an antiespionage law. This is interpreted to mean the government can prosecute any newspaper which publishes a report the government wants withheld. Detectives at cable offices warned foreign correspondents no "incorrect news" would be passed.

Viet Nam's press printed only what it was told. It received government advisories suggesting what line to take. Foreign correspondents were watched closely. One was expelled for stories he wrote. Others were denied entry.

Thailand, under continuing martial law, blue-penciled no news. But one newspaper was closed for criticizing government policy. Critical stories filed by foreign newsmen often were delayed.

Cambodia closed papers disagreeing with government policy. There was no direct censorship on outgoing dispatches.

Malaya and Singapore have retained subtle forms of control from the former British colonial administration and used them effectively. Newspapers are licensed and the governments can revoke the permits. But the press generally was freer than in the rest of Southeast Asia and foreign newsmen operated unhampered.

Hong Kong's colonial administration applied indirect pressure to force radio and television stations to take news from the government information service, but there was no direct censorship.

Japan's press was completely free; Formosa's under strict control. India, Ceylon and Pakistan represented all gradations of press freedom. India's press was generally unrestricted. Ceylon drew up legislation giving the government press control. Pakistan threatened newsmen with laws which make "treasonous" publication punishable by death. This law was not used in 1960 but several newsmen were jailed.

Americans In Pairs With Brush

Since almost the first American painters, Paris has been the mecca for almost all of them.

The first two contacts were established, to be sure, by men just going through: Benjamin West, after three years in Italy, went north via France and Paris to the London which he made home; and John Singleton Copley passed through Paris in the opposite direction. The next two men came in 1780; Paris was their goal; and shipping routes and seaports being different then, they first set foot ashore well inland, at Nantes on the Loire.

Ours was still a young country, and attitudes to the arts varied. John Adams declared categorically, "I would not give sixpence for a statue by Phidias or a painting by Raphael" — his Yankee business sense, if nothing else, should have taught him how wrong he was. But Jefferson was the warm friend of both painter and sculptor, and it was he who chose Hudson to do the head of Washington. Some artists themselves were only half committed: Charles Willson Peale — he never got to Paris but sent his son Rembrandt Peale — was painter and naturalist, inventor, archaeologist and so on. Robert Fulton and Samuel F. B. Morse, both Paris residents, are remembered almost more for their inventions than their canvases. John Trumbull could paint and be a businessman too.

But later artists settled down exclusively to art — Washington Allston, John Vanderlyn, Thomas Cole, George Healy, Asher Durand; at Barbizon, Richard Hunt and George Innes; and coming closer to our century, Whistler, Homer, Sargent and Mary Cassatt.

One of the oddest experiences enjoyed by these expatriates appears in the George Catlin story. This westerner took with him not only paintings but also a band of Red Indians, whom he exhibited to enormous well-paying crowds. Catlin interested Louis-Phillippe, the only European monarch who had, to then, visited America, in his paintings as well as his Redskins. But in the end the exile of the King caused a setback to the fortunes of a trio of Americans: Neither Catlin nor Healy could collect on commissions, and Rembrandt Peale couldn't push through the projected sale of a mastodon from his father's Philadelphia museum.

Americans who flocked to Paris in the 1920s were only following in the footsteps of their pioneering ancestors. The French capital was a liberating influence, a center of life as well as art, then as always; Bizardel gives it proper credit.

How Would You Score Term Of Outgoing U. S. President

Editor's Note — Now you've seen all the drama and tension of the Eisenhower years — crisis in Korea, Indochina, Suez, Cuba, Africa, Hungary, Lebanon, Laos. If you were history, how would you score them? Defeats or victories? As the president packs up for Gettysburg, here's one close observer's appraisal of the job he did.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the days to come Dwight D. Eisenhower's proudest memory of his years as president may be this:

Though he stood often on the brink of war he always managed somehow to meet the challenge and still preserve the peace.

In the process, through the eight crisis-wrenched years of his administration, Eisenhower vastly expanded the defense frontiers of the United States. To block the outward thrust of Communist might, he made new anti-Communist military pledges in the Far East, the Middle East and Asia.

But the future chroniclers of the administration will have to record that against a wily and ruthless foe his efforts often fell short of success. Indeed the "Eisenhower era", as the late John Foster Dulles called it, is scarred with the wreckage of vain hopes and broken dreams even as it is distinguished by some outstanding achievements.

TWO EVENTS

Two events in his early years did more than any others to fix the pattern with which the President had to work in foreign policy. The first was the death of Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin on March 5, 1953.

The second came in 1954 when the Democrats won control of Congress and restored to key positions a number of men who were more sympathetic to Eisenhower's internationalist plans than some of the powerful members of his own party. This domestic political turnover put an end to the McCarthy period and lifted heavy pressures from the State Department and U.S. foreign service.

Eisenhower dedicated himself in his inaugural speech Jan. 20, 1953, to the renunciation of war "as a chosen way" to fight communism. He said the first task of statesmanship was to "develop the strength that will deter the forces of aggression and promote the conditions of peace."

How well he achieved these objectives became increasingly a matter of controversy in his later years and provided the dominant issue of the recent campaign which saw the defeat of his friend and vice president, Richard M. Nixon, by Sen. John F. Kennedy. Kennedy charged that U.S. power and prestige had declined dangerously; Nixon argued that this country's position in the world had never been better.

Eisenhower himself often asserted that in spite of Soviet feats in the space race—the U.S.S.R. launched the first man-made satellite in October 1957—the United States lead in military power over the Soviet Union was unimpaired.

US LATE

That the United States was late in entering the space contest and the nuclear rockets armaments race is certainly true. The point will long be disputed, however, whether the responsibility for this belonged to Eisenhower or his White House predecessor, Harry S. Truman.

Dulles stressed the spread of liberty at the outset of "the Eisenhower era." He dreamed of using America's margin of military power to "roll back" the Iron Curtain. He envisioned a permanent settlement in Korea. He planned to seek an agreement with the Chinese Reds, if he got the chance, on the Formosa issue. On all these points his hopes proved vain.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Public Library

This is the time of the year when we take stock of the accomplishments of the library for the past year. All of the figures have not yet been compiled but we do know that our book collection has grown from 60,005 volumes on January 1, 1960 to 66,328 volumes on January 1, 1961. This is quite a gain for one year and represents a great investment in time and money. Soon we hope to have a complete annual report ready for publication in the paper and know that all of you will be interested in the growth of your library.

In spite of holidays a number of new books were added during the past week. "No Land Is Free" is the title of a new western by Joseph Chadwich. Quentin Reynolds has written an interesting account of the unknown soldiers and their memorial in Arlington, which he calls "Known But to God." An interesting book of early church history is "Kingdoms of Christ" by Kurt Emmrich. It deals with the early church and the church during the middle ages. "The Seventh Day" by Booten Herndon is an interesting account of The Seventh Day Adventists.

A book which will be in great demand is "How I Made $2,000,000 In the Stock Market" by Nicolas Darvas. If true, it could be very valuable information. William Vogt has written a most thoughtful book about the population explosion called "People: Challenge to Survival." It is a book which frightens and disturbs the complacent reader, but it contains facts which we should all know. James M. Cannon is the author of "Politics, U. S. A." which he calls a practical guide to the winning of public office. This is a book which everyone who is running for office should read. "The Political Economy of National Security" is the title of a new book by James R. Schlesinger. It is a study of the economic aspects of the contemporary power struggle. Not everyone will want to read it, but those who do will be amply rewarded by a discerning mind.

Another book for the thoughtful reader is "The Constitutional Crisis: It's Threat to Liberty and It's Remedy." This is a compilation of newspaper articles from a Nevada newspaper, but they are thoughtful and well - written. Much has been written lately about the methods of teaching reading in the public schools. Educators are beginning to return to the study of phonetics. A fine new book on this subject has just been written by ames A. Carrell and should be most helpful. In this age in which we live there is an increased interest in astronomy and the heavenly bodies. Patrick Moore is the author of "A Guide to the Stars" which should be very useful to students.

Gerald M. Durrell is a most delightful writer of books about his experiences with animals. His latest title is called "A Zoo in My Luggage" and should be delightful reading. Merele Crowe Coulter has produced a very fine book, "The Story of the Plant Kingdom" which should be useful to all botanists. "Poisons, Properties, Chemical Identification, Symptoms and Emergency Treatment" by Vincent J. Brookes, is a book which should be most valuable to people who have need for such information. D. C. Jarvis has a new title called "Arthritis and Folk Medicine" which is interesting, whether scientific or not.

A lovely new book is "Chinese Art" by William Willetts. This book contains much information not otherwise located in the library. "35 mm Photography" by Jacob Deschin should be most interesting to those people who have this particular type of photography as a hobby or vocation.

Arthur J. Smith is the editor of a new book of verse "The Oxford Book of Canadian Verse" which contains much lovely poetry. Recently there has been a revival of the works of Henry James and many of his older titles are coming back into print. Newly received at the library is his "English Hours" an interesting book of descriptive essays about the English countryside. A very humorous book is "The Classics Reclassified" by Richard Armour.

Books of history are always in demand and a number of new titles are recent additions. Denis Sinor is the author of "A History of Hungary" which fills a gap in the book collection. Sydney N. Fisher has written a new book "The Middle East" which discusses one of the trouble spots of the world. "From Sea to Sea" by William G. Hardy is a history of Canada from 1850 to 1910. Do you ever wonder what the Russian children are taught about our country? If you do, you should read "A Soviet View of the American Past," which is an annotated translation of the section on American history from the Russian encyclopedia. Books about the Civil War are being published in great profusion. The latest one is "Tragic Years, 1860-1865" by Paul M. Angle and Earl Miers. Another is "A Civil War Treasury of Tales, Legends and Folklore," by Benjamin A. Botkin. "Lee's Last Campaign" was written by Clifford Dowdey, an authority on the Civil War.

Books about the Spanish American War are always hard to find and we are happy to have a new book on this subject. The author is Frank Burt Freidel and the title is "The Splendid Little War." Two valuable additions to the reference collection are among the recent additions. One is "International Missile and Spacecraft Guide" by Frederick Ordway. The other is "New Cambridge Modern History" in five volumes. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is making every attempt to fill the reading needs of the people of the parish. We invite you to use it's resources.

Feuding Fun From Ireland

THE OTHER END OF THE BRIDGE. By Una Troy. Dutton. $3.50.

Corkbeg and Waterville, Irish towns separated by the river Dara and, even more, by the ancient curving bridge that crosses it and is supposed to bind them in togetherness, are feuding. Which town will pay for a new bridge? Which is correct in claiming to be the birthplace of O'Rourke, obscure bard but their only link to fame? Who's right and who's wrong when the two mayors' sons have a smash - up on the town line in the bridge's dead center?

Teacher, antique dealer, kids spoiling for a fight, rabid towns - men and anguished young lovers stir things up and calm them down. This mischievous novel from Ireland is pure and purely fun.

RUNNING THE SCALES

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

Soprano Margaret Kalil, native Monroyan who holds the position of artist in residence at North Texas State College in Denton, Texas, was soloist at a performance of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," which was given on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

The production, which attracted a "standing room only" audience, was under the direction of T. Charles Lee who is conductor of the Oratorio Society and Chorus.

Peter Paul Fuchs of the LSU opera department, who made the news only a month ago when he was appointed director of the Baton Rouge Symphony Orchestra, will claim the bright lights in Texas this month.

As president of the National Opera Association, he will preside at the sixth annual convention of that organization set in Dallas. At the same time, the Fort Worth Opera Association will present Fuchs' English language version of Verdi's "Masked Ball."

The association meeting at Dallas will include the premiere of "The Libretto," a new opera composed by Don Gillis of the University of Michigan.

Aside from fostering the continued growth of opera in the United States — an obvious aim of any operatic group — the National Opera Association is also plugging for the decentralization of opera. In simple language, this means getting more of the lyric theatre out of New York.

So much of the so - called "legitimate" theatre has been centered in New York until the big city has worked its way into the thinking of a majority of playwrights and directors. Hence even when a play is set in the mid - west or south, the complexities of New York society are still obvious. Two examples of this in recent years have been "Picnic," and "Dark at the Top of the Stairs."

For this reason, the move on the part of the opera association to get opera into the rest of the country — as well as more of the country into opera — is a noteworthy effort.

It was with sincere regret that we learned of the death of Shreveport dramatics director and producer, Joseph B. Gifford. Mr. Gifford, 66, a resident of Sheveport since 1946, was killed December 30 in an automobile wreck in Arizona.

A former member of the Centenary College faculty, Mr. Gifford rose to prominence in the southwest as he directed 65 major productions during the last decade of the Shreveport Summer Theatre and Marjorie Lyons Playhouse on the Centenary campus.

In 1952, Director Gifford passed a theatrical milestone by staging his 200th production, a record without equal in this part of the nation and equalled by few directors in the United States.

Area attraction for the month of January will be British concert comedienne, Anna Russell, who will appear on the Louisiana Tech series Wednesday evening. According to L. V. E. Irvine, chairman of the Tech concert group, Miss Russell will appear in one performance only but will be returned at a later date should attendance run past the capacity of Howard Auditorium.

Burden Gets Heavy On A Pacific Isle

THE KING FROM ASHTABULA. By Vern Sneider. Putnam. $3.95.

The Nakashima Islands in the East China sea, the occuphying American forces with the best intentions in the world, the natives stubbornly clinging to their own ideas—this is the newest offering by the author of the publishing and theater success, "The Teahouse of the August Moon."

This time General Scheick is letting the native vote on the sort of government they want; and he'll swear they'll vote for democracy — what other form will give them so many blessings? So they vote overwhelmingly for a monarchy, hunt for an heir to the centuries-old royal family, find him in Ashtabula, and induce horrified hairtearing in Washington officialdom.

The general is a diet faddist, and the islanders eat mainly sweet potatoes—neither notion very funny but each one carried out to the limit and slightly beyond. But Sneider is consistent; he works his scheme out carefully, he imposes detailed democratic processes on a people who couldn't be less interested, and acts tough with stuffy officials and the traditional ways of the white man bestowing on primitives the benefits of civilization.

Actually the white man's burden gets pretty heavy, at least for the reader. But though Sneider resorts to a kind of kindergarten treatment of his problem, the problem itself is right up there on the grown-up college level.

Building History Made

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
World Staff Writer

Construction history was made in Monroe, during 1960. Building permits were issued for $9,943,706. worth of new or remodeled structures, according to a report released yesterday.

Dale Martha, who issued the permits, said that the previous peak year was in 1953, when construction was valued at $7,775,854.

And construction for 1961 got off to a fine start last week, as contractors and individuals took out 30 permits, 29 of them for $175,970 in new construction or addition.

This amounts to more than one fourth of the permit valuation in January of 1960, when 57 permits for $579,634 worth of construction were obtained.

February, 74 permits, $309,235 valuation; March, 92 permits, $571,606; April, 97 permits, $705,736; May, 93, $1,167,408.

June was the outstanding month, with 93 permits for $1,724,713 in construction. July, 89 permits $672,575; August, 135 permits, $653,270; September, 138 permits, $782,360; October, 85 permits, $1,434,257; November, 84 permits, $654,153; December, 75 permits, $633,709.

Included in the totals were permits for one - family dwellings: January, 15 permits, $155,675; February, 22 permits, $221,745; March, 34 permits $363,500; April, 19 permits, $217,333; May, 32 permits, $315,595.

June, 35 permits, $439,425. July, 24 permits, $287,295; August, 36 permits, $360,000; September, 40 permits, $425,439; October, 18 permits, $202,900; November, 30 permits, $384,800; December, 21 permits, $239,045.

One reason for the rush on permits last week may be the fact that the zoning ordinance goes into effect next Wednesday, Jan. 11.

As of that date, all plot plans have to be submitted through the Building Inspector's department.

Three items of importance to builders are the following provisions, taken from Article VIII, Section 27-80-3, (3a) and (4).

3. Certificate of Occupancy: Except as hereinafter provided, no structure or land shall be used, occupied, or changed in use until a Certificate of Occupancy shall have been issued therefor by the Office of Zoning Administration, stating that the proposed use of land, or the structure and the proposed use thereof, is in full compliance with the provisions of this ordinance.

(3a) Structures: Application for a Certificate of Occupancy for a new structure or for an existing structure to be altered shall be made coincident with application for a building permit; after erection or alteration of such structure shall have been completed in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance and within three clear legal days after written request is made to the Office of Zoning Administration the Certificate of Occupancy shall be issued.

(4) Plans Required: Each application for a Certificate of Occupancy for a new structure or for the alteration of an existing structure shall be accompanied by a drawing or plat, in duplicate, showing the site plan, the location of the building and site, location of off-street parking and off-street loading spaces required, and such other information as may be necessary for the enforcement of these regulations.

Tuesday, Jan. 3

OIL-GAS ROUNDUP

Three New Wells Finaled In Area

By RICHARD GREENE
World Oil Editor

Oil and gas activities in the 14-parish Monroe district were at a let up last week as only three new wells were completed and three new locations staked. All of the new wells are in the Monroe Gas Field of Union Parish.

Duncan S. Cook, manager of the Monroe district, also listed in his report 15 active rigs in the fields and a total of ten holes that were plugged and abandoned.

The inactivity during the past week was due to the holiday lull that took many workers and drillers from their wells and well sites throughout the district.

These are the new completions:

UNION

Monroe Field — La Gas Producing Co.'s Olin Gas Trans Corp. no. 11 in sec. 31-20-3E, completed to flow 690 MCF, rock pressure 940 lbs.

LASALLE

Wildcat Field — Justiss Mears Oil Co. et al's Crooks - Chevallier no. 1, located 660 ft. south and 1980 ft. east of the NW corner of sec. 1-6-4E.

MOREHOUSE

Monroe Field — South Prod. Co.'s The Crossett Co. no 2, located 623 ft. north of the south line and 1450 ft. west of the east line of sec. 8-22-5E.

TENSAS

Buckhorn Field — Est of William G. Helis' Boyle et al no. 7, located in the center of the SE¼-SE¼ of sec. 35-12-11E.

The following rigs were listed as active:

CATAHOULA

CONCORDIA

FRANKLIN

JACKSON

LASALLE

Olla Field — Cities Service Oil Co.'s Trem. Lbr. Co. A-40 in sec. 28-10-2E, testing.

White Sulphur Springs Field—W. D. Simmons et al's Mrs. J. E. Whatley et al no. 1 in sec. 9-7-2E, testing.

OUACHITA

RAPIDES

Wildcat Field — Hahn Oil and Gas Co.'s South East Timber Lbr. Co. no. 1 in sec. 40-5-1W, drilling.

TENSAS

Est of William G. Helis' Anderson A-5 in sec. 35-12-11E, testing.

Rodney Island Field — Charter Oil Co.'s Harper no. 1 in sec. 13-10-2E, drilling.

These drillsites were plugged and abandoned due to little or no production.

CATAHOULA

McGoldrick and Watson Drilling Co. and R. H. Magood's Mildred H. McGee no. 1 in sec. 13-9-6E, aband. Dec. 30 at 4438 ft.

CONCORDIA

W. Bayou Cocodrie Field — Pan American Petroleum Corp.'s Yakey no. 1 in sec. 42-4-8E, aband. Dec. 30 at 11,652 ft.

Brabston Field — R. A. Campbell's Panola Land and Development Co. A-1 in sec. 38-4-9E, aband. Dec. 30 at 7214 ft.

Frogmore Field — Crow Drilling and Prod. Co.'s Schiele no. 1 in sec. 32-8-8E, aband. Dec. 31 at 4985 ft.

FRANKLIN

LA SALLE

Wildcat Field — Justiss Mears Oil Co. et al's Trem. Lbr. Co. no. B-1 in sec. 14-9-2E, aband. Dec. 29 at 3510 ft.

OUACHITA

RAPIDES

TENSAS

BY SEVERAL STATES

Oil Industry Eyed As Revenue Source

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Revenue-starved southwestern and western states have their eyes on the oil industry as a possible source of tax money, a United Press International survey of legislative plans showed this week.

State depletion allowances, compulsory unitization and marketing measures also rate high as subjects for possible legislation.

Wyoming is an example of the tax problems the states and the oil industry are facing. Wyoming needs money for improved roads, and a gasoline tax has been suggested. And this at a time when oilmen are conducting an organized campaign to get the federal gasoline tax lowered.

Arthur Roberts, executive vice president of the Wyoming oil industry committee, says recommendations for new highways in that state would cost the state nearly a billion dollars.

Spread over a 10-year period, this needed revenue would mean a gasoline tax of seven to 10 cents a gallon, Roberts said.

A number of tax bills are expected in the Texas Legislature, which convenes Jan. 10. Among the proposals are a reserve tax on gas pipelines and a sliding-scale oil production tax aimed at increasing the levy on the major oil companies and easing the burden on the small independents.

UNDERFINANCED

The New Mexico Legislature, wrestling with the problem of underfinanced schools, may consider new taxes on oil and gas in that important producing state, Santa Fe observers say.

Louisiana lawmakers are considering a controversial one-cent increase in the state sales tax designed to raise money to continue the school segregation fight. This bill, backed by Gov. Jimmie Davis, failed last month but will be pushed again this month.

The oil industry has joined with other businesses in vigorously opposing it. The 1961 regular session of the Louisiana Legislature will be limited to fiscal matters.

In Oklahoma, a renewed push is expected in the legislature to liberalize the state's oil depletion allowance—now 20 per cent—to match the 27½ per cent federal depletion allowance. Oilmen have long complained that Oklahoma, one of the principal oil-producing states, has been out of line with the rest of the county.

However, Oklahoma faces a fiscal crisis this year unmatched in recent sessions, with talk heard of a possible sales tax increase. Under these circumstances, it's doubtful whether the lawmakers would be willing to give up any of this oil revenue.

PRODUCERS COMPLAIN

Other matters will occupy the attention of the state lawmakers this year. In Texas, a renewed effort is expected to pass a bill strengthening present statutes on ratable take to assure producers an equitable share of the existing market. Some producers complain they have been unable to find a market for their crude despite Texas' existing common purchaser statutes. Such a bill failed in the last session.

Another proposal to be placed on the lawmakers' desks in Texas calls for the establishment of field-wide boundaries by the Railroad Commission and compelling all parties in the boundaries to accept a procedure of production and a system of allocation.

Monthly Meeting Of Local API Set For Tuesday

The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a social hour, followed by dinner to be served at 7.

Featured speaker of the evening will be B. M. Hardy, Sr. of Shreveport. Hardy is the former chairman of the Louisiana State Mineral Board and held the post of Conservation Commissioner during 1940 and 1941. Presently he is a director of the API, and member of the National Petroleum Council and the Independent Petroleum Producers Assoc. of America. His talk is entitled "Conditions in the Petroleum Industry Today."

Persons interested in the oil industry in the Monroe area who wish to attend this meeting and who are not a member should contact Harold Woods, Jr. at Crescent Drilling Co. for reservations.

Kennedy Home Is Withdrawn From Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy's three-story brick house in fashionable Georgetown, once reportedly sold for more than $100,000, has been withdrawn from the market, an aide said Saturday.

Andrew Hatcher, Kennedy's assistant press secretary, told newsmen the house has not been sold and will not be sold. He said he does not know what use will be made of it after Kennedy moves into the White House on Jan. 20.

Mrs. Perry Ausbrook said Friday she and her husband, a young lawyer with the State Department Loan Fund, had bought Kennedy's house. After being advised of Hatcher's statement, said she did not care to say anything further about the matter.

Ausbrook also said he did not want to comment, except to restate they had purchased the house. Kennedy bought it in 1957 for $70,000.

Hatcher said withdrawal of the house from the market represented a change in plans from six or seven weeks ago. He declined to elaborate or give any reason for the change.

Little Action Expected On Oil Problems

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The new 87th Congress probably will take little action this year on oil problems.

The 1962 second session, however, may be a different story.

Many industry spokesmen believe any recommendations on vital oil problems will not be placed before Congress by the new administration until late this year or early in 1962.

Gasoline taxes, however, will be a definite exception in that a temporary one-cent tax is to expire June 30 unless Congress authorizes an extension. The industry is campaigning vigorously against an extension.

EXCEPTION

Another exception may be the depletion tax allowance. President-elect John F. Kennedy is not expected to act quickly but senators opposing the full 27½ per cent probably will make another effort to obtain a reduction. Efforts to tack graduated reduction riders onto Senate bills have failed the past three years.

Kennedy voted for a graduated reduction as late as last June but his presidential campaign included repeated statements an over-all study of the matter should be made. Such an approach would require considerable time.

Otherwise, Washington began the new year with the same oil problems that received little or no action from the 86th Congress of the past two years—natural gas legislation, oil imports, and the controversial proposals calling for a national fuels policy study.

A new version of a bill that would remove or minimize federal regulation of natural gas wellhead prices has been drafted by a task force that includes representatives of all segments of the industry, producers, pipeliners, and distributors. Similar bills were vetoed by Presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

LEADERS

Many industry leaders and many members of Congress believe any effort to get a third bill through Congress would require strong support from the White House. The natural gas controversy did not figure prominently in the presidential campaign but Kennedy in the Senate voted against both the bills that were vetoed.

Independent producers can be expected to continue to press for further reductions in oil imports. No congressional action, however, is indicated for 1961. The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and its defense amendment that authorizes the current oil imports controls program do not come up for renewal until 1962.

National fuels policy study proposals were before Congress last year. Oilmen have charged the coal industry wants such a policy as a protection against the impact of competition from oil and gas. Oilmen contend coal would have the federal government establish "end use" controls of fuels.

The Democratic platform under which Kennedy was elected endorsed development of a national fuels policy and said:

Two weeks ago Kennedy received recommendations on the subject. James M. Landis, former Harvard law school dean, suggested that the president-elect create an office for coordination and development of a national energy policy.

Kennedy had asked Landis to study federal regulatory agencies and submit recommendations for improving the effectiveness of such agencies.

The Landis report also said the federal power commissioner has failed to enforce the Natural Gas Act effectively. He suggested that the chairman of FPC serve only at the pleasure of the president and that the commission membership be boosted from five to seven.

Belated Greetings

LONDON (UPI)—F. C. Henfrey-Smith, general secretary of the British Gas Staff Association, sent belated New Year's greetings to gas industry workers Friday.

"I wish you all a very cold and prolonged winter," he said.

1961 FORECAST MADE BY FIRMS

Auto Industry Looks For Rebound

NEW YORK (AP)—Sales chiefs for leading automobile import firms see 1961 as a rebound year from a generally disappointing 1960.

That is, each predicts a snapback for its own line of cars — or another rise if 1960 showed a sales gain.

But all are cagey in sizing up the over-all foreign car market in the United States, talking mostly in vague terms of a "levelling off" or "stabilizing."

Some bluntly blame introduction of U.S. compacts—a first echelon in 1959 and another last fall—for stemming a rapidly rising tide of import business, crediting the U.S. economic recession with a secondary role.

As viewed by Charles Buchet, general manager of Citroen Cars Corp., the New Year will prove a time to "dig in or pull out" for overseas producers offering more than 30 models that sold 1,000 or more units in 1960.

SUMMARY

In summary, "dig in" is what top imports aim to do—most of all by beefing up service, and also by expanding dealer systems, stepping up promotion, improving parts supply and by investing millions of dollars in new headquarters, warehousing and other facilities.

A banner year was foreseen by an official of Volkswagen, No. 1 mass-selling import and the only major in the field to climb resolutely on to new heights in 1960.

C. H. Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America, Inc., predicted 1961 registrations of "close to" 200,000 units, a better than 30 per cent gain.

Volkswagen 1960 final sales data is expected to reflect a surge to 140,000 or 150,000 units from 117,415 in the preceding year.

Hahn pledged continued strong emphasis on service, a Volkswagen selling point in rivalry with other overseas makers. He foresaw over-all import sales "levelling" at between 400,000 and 500,000.

This means that if Volkswagen's expectations were reached it would be at the expense of lowered sales of other foreign vehicles in a volume up to 50,000.

From 1959's peak of roughly 600,000, over-all import sales skidded last year to well under 500,000, with some industry guessing down to 460,000. Final returns are weeks away.

Renault Inc., second in sales among imports not controlled by U.S. auto firms, foresees an upturn for its own products but of more modest proportions than the one in Volkswagen's crystal ball.

Maurice Bosquet, president and general manager, put new year sales at 75,000 units, a jump of better than 10 per cent from 1960 expected results but more than 15 per cent under 1959's zenith of 83,394.

SIMILAR

Similar expressions came from Fiat, Citroen, Volvo Import Inc., Rootes Motors Inc., importer of the British Hillman, Sunbeam, Humber and Singer lines, and Hambro Automotive Corp., U.S. arm of British Motor Corp. which makes the MG, Morris, Austin-Healey and Austin.

Ake Hogman, president of the firm that brings in the Swedish Volvo, spoke of marketing 18,000 to 20,000 units compared with around 14,000 sales in 1960 and 13,106 in 1959.

More optimistic than most, Hogman gauged total import sales at between 450,000 and 500,000. Citroen's Buchet looked for a downward trend and so did John T. Panks, Rootes' managing director, who predicted only "in excess of 400,000."

"We realize that the American market will never again be as easy for us as it was in 1958 and 1959," Panks said.

Commented A.E. Birt, Hambro's president: "It would be foolish for the imported car industry to ignore the impact of American compact cars. This situation has hurt our business and will continue to affect in some degree those foreign manufacturers producing a range of small sedans."

With Austin-Healeys showing the way, Birt placed Hambro's 1960 sales at about 44,000, down 20 per cent from the preceding year's high. He looks for about the same volume in '61.

Outlook Is Favorable For Business In 1961

NEW YORK — The year 1961 will be a record one for total business. The Gross National Product (the gauge of the nation's total business volume) will climb from a 1960 record of $503 billion to about $513 billion for 1961, according to Pulsebeat, a yearend industrial report, compiled by the McGraw - Hill Publishing Company's Department of Economics.

But, the outlook for 1961 is marred by prospects of some business setbacks early in the year and softenss in some industries that will persist throughout the year. Both the GNP and industrial production, which have declined in recent months, will probably shrink further in the initial months of 1961 before turning up.

Absence of bustling business activity now and for the first few months of 1961 is partially explained by a reversal in business inventory policies in 1960. Early in the year, stocks depleted during the steel strike were hastily rebuilt, and business investment in steel and inventories of finished products played a key role in getting the nation's economy into high gear at that time. By year-end, the situation had altered sharpley. From inventory building, industry switched to inventory cutting. Industrial production and GNP reflected this loss of momentum.

In the early months of 1961, inventory reductions are likely to be a major stumbling block to really significant business gains. But as stocks are brought into line with firm's sales prospects, GNP and production will grown.

FOUR FORCES FELT

A combination of four powerful economic forces support this outlook for a year of significant gains. They are:

1) Consumer spending for goods and services will continue to rise. In 1961, consumer expenditures will total a record $336.5 billion. The increase for the year will be nine billion dollars — slightly less than three per cent. There will be higher outlays for soft goods, such as food and clothing, and services, such as rent and medical care. Spending for durables (autos, appliances, etc.) will decline substantially from this year's $43 billion to $41 billion for 1961.

In durable goods, car sales are likely to show a decline of 10 per cent from 1960's 6.6 - million total to six million units in 1961. This sales volume still will constitute a relatively good year for dealers.

INVESTMENT DECLINES

2) In business spending, private investment — construction outlays plus expenditures on producers' durables and additions to inventories — is the one major sector of the economy in which declines are anticipated in 1961.

Inventory additions this year were responsible for about $2.7 billion in private investment. In 1961, business inventories will decline about one billion dollars.

Investment in new plants and equipment will slip five to seven per cent from 1960's high level of $36.1 billion.

Outlays for home construction should rise to one billion dollars in 1961, to nearly $23 billion for the year. This increase will not be an impressive improvement over a relatively low level in 1960, the report points out. However, this key industry is certain to revive with vigor in the years ahead.

GOVERNMENT SPENDING

3) Government spending will increase by six billion dollars in 1961. State and local government expenditures will grow by three billion dollars in 1961. State and local government expenditures will grow by three billion dollars to more than $50 billion. Federal outlays, rising by a similar amount, will come to $55 billion for the year.

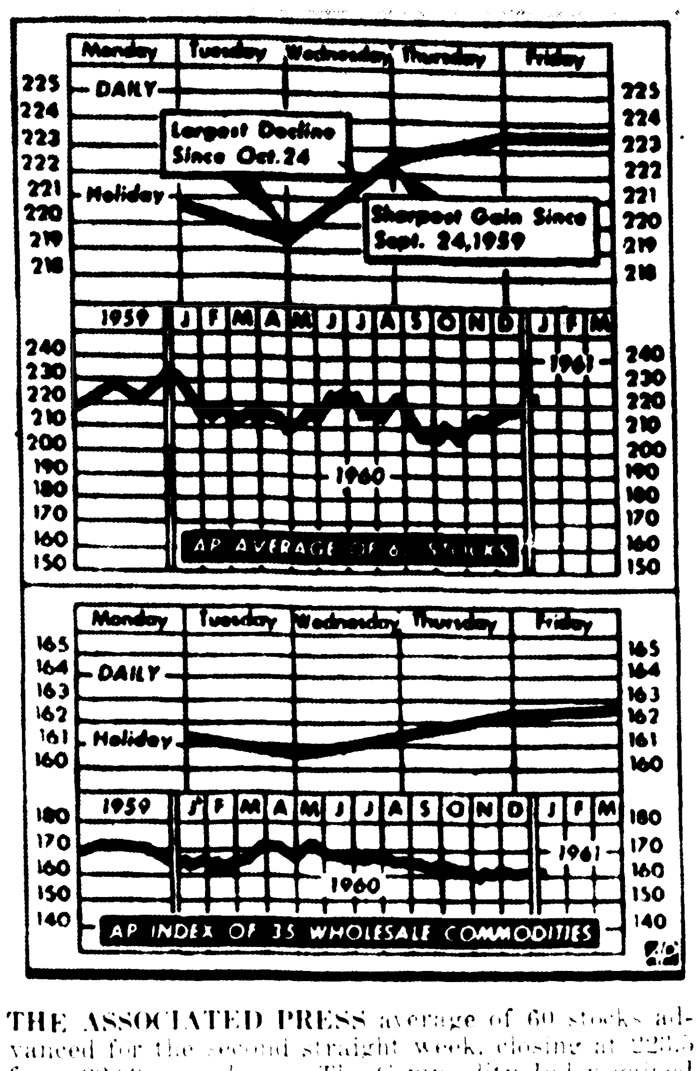
4) U.S. exports have risen by 20 per cent this year to over $19 billion. Next year, they will run at a level not much below $20 billion, about four per cent higher than in 1960. The level of imports for 1961 is expected to increase only slightly next year.

This gain in export business will exceed the rise of imports in 1961, resulting in a net increase of $500 - million in the foreign trade sector of GNP.

CLOUDS SEEN

Clouding a generally favorable business outlook is the possibility that industrial production will dip substantially during part of 1961. As measured by the Index of Industrial Production, factory output may decline from 107 (1957-100) in the final quarter of 1960, to 100 in the early months of 1961.

FINANCIAL $ OIL-GAS NEWS



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced for the second straight week, closing at 223.5 from 220.9 a week ago. The Commodity Index gained for the third week in a row, closing at 162.6 from 161.2 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

FIRST WEEK

Market Begins Year With Many Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made its 1961 debut by posting a fairly good weekly gain, its second straight.

The feature of the week was a huge rally on Wednesday which erased a sizable loss taken on Tuesday, the first trading day of the new year. The week was shortened to four days because of the Monday holiday.

Steels were the heroes of the week, rising even against the general downtrend on Tuesday. They advanced every session thereafter until they backtracked a bit on profit taking Friday.

There were those who claimed that the decline on Tuesday and the advance on Wednesday were prompted by the same factors, the crisis in Laos and the trouble with Cuba. It did not make sense to others that the market should rise and fall for the same reasons, world tensions or the possibility of war.

The Tuesday setback was ascribed by some veteran observers chiefly to profit taking among a number of issues which had benefitted from the yearend rally. The steels, they said, were badly depressed and looked like prime candidates for big gains if and when the predicted upturn in the economy gets under way later this year. Early on Wednesday, while the market was still churning irregularly, the steels plodded ahead. The mood began to catch and other groups, one by one, joined in the advance. By the end of the day the Associated Press average had scored its biggest rise since Sept. 21, 1960 and the Dow Jones industrial average its biggest since Nov. 15, 1957.

Building History Made

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
World Staff Writer

Construction history was made in Monroe, during 1960. Building permits were issued for $9,943,706. worth of new or remodeled structures, according to a report released yesterday.

Dale Martha, who issued the permits, said that the previous peak year was in 1953, when construction was valued at $7,775,854.

And construction for 1961 got off to a fine start last week, as contractors and individuals took out 30 permits, 29 of them for $175,970 in new construction or addition.

This amounts to more than one-fourth of the permit valuation in January of 1960, when 57 permits for $579,634 worth of construction were obtained.

Other figures for the past year are:

February, 74 permits, $309,235 valuation; March, 92 permits, $571,606; April, 97 permits, $705,786; May, 93, $1,167,408.

June was the outstanding month, with 96 permits for $1,724,713 in construction. July, 89 permits $672,575; August, 135 permits, $658,270; September, 138 permits, $782,360; October, 85 permits, $1,484,257; November, 84 permits, $654,153; December, 75 permits, $633,709.

Included in the totals were permits for one - family dwellings: January, 15 permits, $155,675; February, 22 permits, $221,745; March, 34 permits, $363,500; April, 19 permits, $217,333; May, 32 permits, $315,595.

June, 35 permits, $439,425; July, 24 permits, $287,295; August, 36 permits, $360,000; September, 40 permits, $425,439; October, 18 permits, $202,900; November, 30 permits, $384,800; December, 21 permits, $239,045.

One reason for the rush on permits last week may be the fact that the zoning ordinance goes into effect next Wednesday, Jan. 11.

As of that date, all plot plans have to be submitted through the Building Inspector's department.

Three items of importance to builders are the following provisions, taken from Article VIII, Section 27-30-(3),-(3a) and -(4):

3. Certificate of Occupancy: Except as hereinafter provided, no structure or land shall be used, occupied, or changed in use until a Certificate of Occupancy shall have been issued therefor by the Office of Zoning Administration, stating that the proposed use of land, or the structure and the proposed use thereof, is in full compliance with the provisions of this ordinance.

(3a) Structures: Application for a Certificate of Occupancy for a new structure or for an existing structure to be altered shall be made coincident with application for a building permit; after erection or alteration of such structure shall have been completed in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance and within three clear legal days after written request is made to the Office of Zoning Administration the Certificate of Occupancy shall be issued.

(4) Plans Required: Each application for a Certificate of Occupancy for a new structure or for the alteration of an existing structure shall be accompanied by a drawing or plat, in duplicate, showing the site plan, the location of the building and site, location of off-street parking and off-street loading spaces required, and such other information as may be necessary for the enforcement of these regulations.

OIL-GAS ROUNDUP

Three New Wells Finaled In Area

By RICHARD GREENE
World Oil Editor

Oil and gas activities in the 14-parish Monroe district were at a let up last week as only three new wells were completed and three new locations staked. All of the new wells are in the Monroe Gas Field of Union Parish.

Duncan S. Cook, manager of the Monroe district, also listed in his report 15 active rigs in the fields and a total of ten holes that were plugged and abandoned.

The inactivity during the past week was due to the holiday lull that took many workers and drillers from their wells and well sites throughout the district.

These are the new completions:

UNION

LASALLE

Wildcat Field — Justiss Mears Oil Co. et al's Crooks - Chevallier no. 1, located 660 ft. south and 1980 ft. east of the NW corner of sec. 1-6-4E.

MOREHOUSE

Monroe Field — South Prod. Co.'s The Crossett Co. no 2, located 623 ft. north of the south line and 1450 ft. west of the east line of sec. 8-22-5E.

TENSAS

Buckhorn Field — Est of William G. Helis' Boyle et al no. 7, located in the center of the SE¼-SE¼ of sec. 35-12-11E.

The following rigs were listed as active:

CATAHOULA

CONCORDIA

FRANKLIN

JACKSON

LASALLE

Olla Field — Cities Service Oil Co.'s Trem. Lbr. Co. A-40 in sec. 28-10-2E, testing.

White Sulphur Springs Field— W. D. Simmons et al's Mrs. J. E. Whatley et al no. 1 in sec. 9-7-2E, testing.

OUACHITA

RAPIDES

Wildcat Field — Hahn Oil and Gas Co.'s South East Timber Lbr. Co. no. 1 in sec. 40-5-1W, drilling.

TENSAS

Buckhorn Field — Est of William G. Helis' Anderson no. 2 in sec. 26-12-11E, testing.

Est of William G. Helis' Anderson A-5 in sec. 35-12-11E, testing.

Rodney Island Field — Charter Oil Co.'s Harper no. 1 in sec. 13-10-2E, drilling.

These drillsites were plugged and abandoned due to little or no production.

CATAHOULA

McGoldrick and Watson Drilling Co. and R. H. Alagood's Mildred H. McGee no. 1 in sec. 13-9-6E, aband. Dec. 30 at 4438 ft.

CONCORDIA

W. Bayou Cocodrie Field — Pan American Petroleum Corp.'s Yakey no. 1 in sec. 42-4-8E, aband. Dec. 30 at 11552 ft.

Brabston Field — R. A. Campbell's Panola Land and Development Co. A-1 in sec. 38-4-9E, aband Dec. 30 at 7214 ft.

Frogmore Field — Crow Drilling and Prod. Co.'s Schiele no. 1 in sec. 32-8-8E, aband. Dec. 31 at 4985 ft.

FRANKLIN

LA SALLE

OUACHITA

RAPIDES

TENSAS

BY SEVERAL STATES

Oil Industry Eyed As Revenue Source

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Revenue-starved southwestern and western states have their eyes on the oil industry as a possible source of tax money, a United Press International survey of legislative plans showed this week.

State depletion allowances, compulsory unitization and marketing measures also rate high as subjects for possible legislation.

Wyoming is an example of the tax problems the states and the oil industry are facing. Wyoming needs money for improved roads, and a gasoline tax has been suggested. And this at a time when oilmen are conducting an organized campaign to get the federal gasoline tax lowered.

Arthur Roberts, executive vice president of the Wyoming oil industry committee, says recommendations for new highways in that state would cost the state nearly a billion dollars.

Spread over a 10-year period, this needed revenue would mean a gasoline tax of seven to 10 cents a gallon, Roberts said.

A number of tax bills are expected in the Texas Legislature, which convenes Jan. 10. Among the proposals are a reserve tax on gas pipelines and a sliding-scale oil production tax aimed at increasing the levy on the major oil companies and easing the burden on the small independents.

UNDERFINANCED

The New Mexico Legislature, wrestling with the problem of underfinanced schools, may consider new taxes on oil and gas in that important producing state, Santa Fe observers say.

Louisiana lawmakers are considering a controversial one-cent increase in the state sales tax designed to raise money to continue the school segregation fight. This bill, backed by Gov. Jimmie Davis, failed last month but will be pushed again this month.

The oil industry has joined with other businesses in vigorously opposing it. The 1961 regular session of the Louisiana Legislature will be limited to fiscal matters.

In Oklahoma, a renewed push is expected in the legislature to liberalize the state's oil depletion allowance—now 20 per cent—to match the 27½ per cent federal depletion allowance. Oilmen have long complained that Oklahoma, one of the principal oil-producing states, has been out of line with the rest of the county.

However, Oklahoma faces a fiscal crisis this year unmatched in recent sessions, with talk heard of a possible sales tax increase. Under these circumstances, it's doubtful whether the lawmakers would be willing to give up any of this oil revenue.

PRODUCERS COMPLAIN

Other matters will occupy the attention of the state lawmakers this year. In Texas, a renewed effort is expected to pass a bill strengthening present statutes on ratable take to assure producers an equitable share of the existing market. Some producers complain they have been unable to find a market for their crude despite Texas' existing common purchaser statutes. Such a bill failed in the last session.

Another proposal to be placed on the lawmakers' desks in Texas calls for the establishment of field-wide boundaries by the Railroad Commission and compelling all parties in the boundaries to accept a procedure of production and a system of allocation.

Monthly Meeting Of Local API Set For Tuesday

The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a social hour, followed by dinner to be served at 7.

Featured speaker of the evening will be B. M. Hardy, Sr. of Shreveport. Hardy is the former chairman of the Louisiana State Mineral Board and held the post of Conservation Commissioner during 1940 and 1941. Presently he is a director of the API, and member of the National Petroleum Council and the Independent Petroleum Producers Assoc. of America. His talk is entitled "Conditions in the Petroleum Industry Today."

Persons interested in the oil industry in the Monroe area who wish to attend this meeting and who are not a member should contact Harold Woods, Jr. at Crescent Drilling Co. for reservations.

Kennedy Home Is Withdrawn From Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy's three-story brick house in fashionable Georgetown, once reportedly sold for more than $100,000, has been withdrawn from the market, an aide said Saturday.

Andrew Hatcher, Kennedy's assistant press secretary, told newsmen the house has not been sold and will not be sold. He said he does not know what use will be made of it after Kennedy moves into the White House on Jan. 20.

Mrs. Perry Ausbrook said Friday she and her husband, a young lawyer with the State Department Loan Fund, had bought Kennedy's house. After being advised of Hatcher's statement, said she did not care to say anything further about the matter.

Ausbrook also said he did not want to comment, except to restate they had purchased the house. Kennedy bought it in 1957 for $70,000.

Hatcher said withdrawal of the house from the market represented a change in plans from six or seven weeks ago. He declined to elaborate or give any reason for the change.

Little Action Expected On Oil Problems

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The new 87th Congress probably will take little action this year on oil problems.

The 1962 second session, however, may be a different story.

Many industry spokesmen believe any recommendations on vital oil problems will not be placed before Congress by the new administration until late this year or early in 1962.

Gasoline taxes, however, will be a definite exception in that a temporary one-cent tax is to expire June 30 unless Congress authorizes an extension. The industry is campaigning vigorously against an extension.

EXCEPTION

Another exception may be the depletion tax allowance. President-elect John F. Kennedy is not expected to act quickly but senators opposing the full 27½ per cent probably will make another effort to obtain a reduction. Efforts to tack graduated reduction riders onto Senate bills have failed the past three years.

Kennedy voted for a graduated reduction as late as last June but his presidential campaign included repeated statements an overall study of the matter should be made. Such an approach would require considerable time.

Otherwise, Washington began the new year with the same oil problems that received little or no action from the 86th Congress of the past two years—natural gas legislation, oil imports, and the controversial proposals calling for a national fuels policy study.

A new version of a bill that would remove or minimize federal regulation of natural gas wellhead prices has been drafted by a task force that includes representatives of all segments of the industry, producers, pipeliners, and distributors. Similar bills were vetoed by Presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

LEADERS

Many industry leaders and many members of Congress believe any effort to get a third bill through Congress would require strong support from the White House. The natural gas controversy did not figure prominently in the presidential campaign but Kennedy, in the Senate, voted against both the bills that were vetoed.

Independent producers can be expected to continue to press for further reductions in oil imports. No congressional action, however, is indicated for 1961. The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and its defense amendment that authorizes the current oil imports controls program do not come up for renewal until 1962.

National fuels policy study proposals were before Congress last year. Oilmen have charged the coal industry wants such a policy as a protection against the impact of competition from oil and gas. Oilmen contend coal would have the federal government establish "end use" controls of fuels.

The Democratic platform under which Kennedy was elected endorsed development of a national fuels policy and said:

Two weeks ago Kennedy received recommendations on the subject. James M. Landis, former Harvard law school dean, suggested that the president-elect create an office for coordination and development of a national energy policy.

Kennedy had asked Landis to study federal regulatory agencies and submit recommendations for improving the effectiveness of such agencies.

The Landis report also said the federal power commissioner has failed to enforce the Natural Gas Act effectively. He suggested that the chairman of FPC serve only at the pleasure of the president and that the commission membership be boosted from five to seven.

Belated Greetings

LONDON (UPI)—F. C. Henfrey-Smith, general secretary of the British Gas Staff Association, sent belated New Year's greetings to gas industry workers Friday.

"I wish you all a very cold and prolonged winter," he said.

Outlook Is Favorable For Business In 1961

NEW YORK — The year 1961 will be a record one for total business. The Gross National Product (the gauge of the nation's total business volume) will climb from a 1960 record of $503 billion to about $513 billion for 1961, according to Pulsebeat, a yearend industrial report, compiled by the McGraw - Hill Publishing Company's Department of Economics.

But, the outlook for 1961 is marred by prospects of some business setbacks early in the year and softenss in some industries that will persist throughout the year. Both the GNP and industrial production, which have declined in recent months, will probably shrink further in the initial months of 1961 before turning up.

Absence of bustling business activity now and for the first few months of 1961 is partially explained by a reversal in business inventory policies in 1960. Early in the year, stocks depleted during the steel strike were hastily rebuilt, and business investment in steel and inventories of finished products played a key role in getting the nation's economy into high gear at that time. By yearend, the situation had altered sharpley. From inventory building, industry switched to inventory cutting. Industrial production and GNP reflected this loss of momentum.

In the early months of 1961, inventory reductions are likely to be a major stumbling block to really significant business gains. But as stocks are brought into line with firm's sales prospects, GNP and production will grown.

FOUR FORCES FELT

A combination of four powerful economic forces support this outlook for a year of significant gains. They are:

(1) Consumer spending for goods and services will continue to rise. In 1961, consumer expenditures will total a record $336.5 billion. The increase for the year will be nine billion dollars — slightly less than three per cent.

There will be higher outlays for soft goods, such as food and clothing; and services, such as rent and medical care. Spending for durables (autos, appliances, etc.) will decline substantially from this year's $43 billion to $41 billion for 1961.

In durable goods, car sales are likely to show a decline of 10 per cent from 1960's 6.6 - million total to six million units in 1961. This sales volume still will constitute a relatively good year for dealers.

INVESTMENT DECLINES

(2) In business spending, private investment (construction outlays plus expenditures on producers' durables and additions to inventories) is the one major sector of the economy in which declines are anticipated in 1961.

Inventory additions this year were responsible for about $3.7 billion in private investment. In 1961, business inventories will decline about one billion dollars.

Investment in new plants and equipment will slip five - to - seven per cent from 1960's high level of $36.1 billion.

Outlays for home construction should rise by one billion dollars in 1961, to nearly $23 billion for the year. This increase will not be an impressive improvement over a relataively low level in 1960, the report points out. However, this key industry is certain to revive with vigor in the years ahead.

GOVERNMENT SPENDING

(3) Government spending will increase by six billion dollars in 1961. State and local government expenditures will grow by three billion dollars in 1961. State and local government expenditures will grow by three billion dollars to more than $50 billion. Federal outlays, rising by a similar amount, will come to $55 billion for the year.

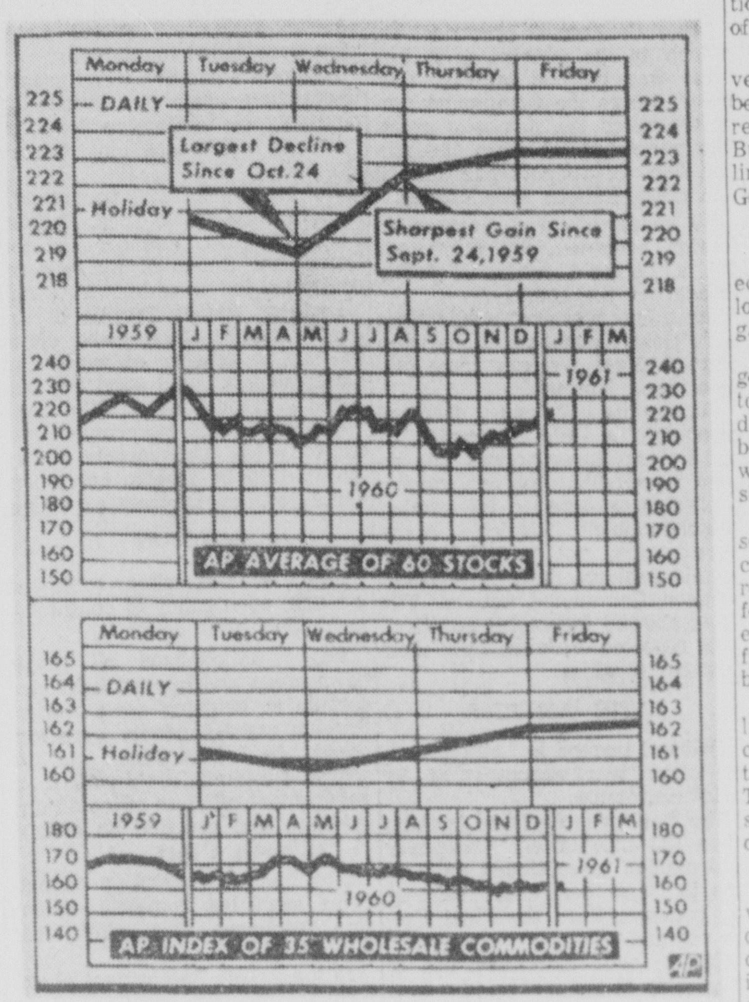
(4) U.S. exports have risen by 20 per cent this year to over $19 billion. Next year, they will run at a level not much below $20 billion, about four per cent higher than in 1960. The level of imports for 1961 is expected to increase only slightly next year.

This gain in export business will exceed the rise of imports in 1961, resulting in a net increase of $500 - million in the foreign trade sector of GNP.

CLOUDS SEEN

Clouding a generally favorable business outlook is the possibility that industrial production will dip substantially during part of 1961. As measured by the Index of Industrial Production, factory output may decline from 107 (1957-100) in the final quarter of 1960, to 100 in the early months of 1961.

FINANCIAL $OIL-GAS NEWS



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced for the second straight week, closing at 223.5 from 220.9 a week ago. The Commodity Index gained for the third week in a row, closing at 162.6 from 161.2 a week earlier. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

FIRST WEEK

Market Begins Year With Many Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made its 1961 debut by posting a fairly good weekly gain, its second straight.

The feature of the week was a huge rally on Wednesday which erased a sizable loss taken on Tuesday, the first trading day of the new year. The week was shortened to four days because of the Monday holiday.

Steels were the heroes of the week, rising even against the general downtrend on Tuesday. They advanced every session thereafter until they backtracked a bit on profit taking Friday.

There were those who claimed that the decline on Tuesday and the advance on Wednesday were prompted by the same factors, the crisis in Laos and the trouble with Cuba. It did not make sense to others that the market should rise and fall for the same reasons, world tensions or the possibility of war.

The Tuesday setback was ascribed by some veteran observers chiefly to profit taking among a number of issues which had benefitted from the yearend rally. The steels, they said, were badly depressed and looked like prime candidates for big gains if and when the predicted upturn in the economy gets under way later this year. Early on Wednesday, while the market was still churning irregularly, the steels plodded ahead. The mood began to catch and other groups, one by one, joined in the advance. By the end of the day the Associated Press average had scored its biggest rise since Sept. 24, 1959 and the Dow Jones industrial average its biggest since Nov. 15, 1957.

1961 FORECAST MADE BY FIRMS

Auto Industry Looks For Rebound

That is, each predicts a snapback for his own line of cars—or another rise if 1960 showed a sales gain.

But all are cagey in sizing up the over-all foreign car market in the United States, talking mostly in vague terms of a "levelling off" or "stabilizing."

Some bluntly blame introduction of U.S. compacts—a first echelon in 1959 and another last fall—for stemming a rapidly rising tide of import business, crediting the U.S. economic recession with a secondary role.

As viewed by Charles Buchet, general manager of Citroen Cars Corp., the New Year will prove a time to "dig in or pull out" for overseas producers offering more than 30 models that sold 1,000 or more units in 1960.

SUMMARY

In summary, "dig in" is what top imports aim to do—most of all by beefing up service, and also by expanding dealer systems, stepping up promotion, improving parts supply and by investing millions of dollars in new headquarters, warehousing and other facilities.

A banner year was foreseen by an official of Volkswagen, No. 1 mass-selling import and the only major in the field to climb resolutely on to new heights in 1960.

C. H. Hahn, general manager of Volkswagen of America, Inc., predicted 1961 registrations of "close to" 200,000 units, a better than 30 per cent gain.

Volkswagen 1960 final sales data is expected to reflect a surge to 140,000 or 150,000 units from 117,415 in the preceding year.

Hahn pledged continued strong emphasis on service, a Volkswagen selling point in rivalry with other overseas makers. He foresaw over-all import sales "levelling" at between 400,000 and 500,000.

This means that if Volkswagen's expectations were reached it would be at the expense of lowered sales of other foreign vehicles in a volume up to 50,000.

From 1959's peak of roughly 600,000, over-all import sales skidded last year to well under 500,000, with some industry guessing down to 460,000. Final returns are weeks away.

Renault Inc., second in sales among imports not controlled by U.S. auto firms, foresees an upturn for its own products but of more modest proportions than the one in Volkswagen's crystal ball.

Maurice Bosquet, president and general manager, put new year sales at 75,000 units, a jump of better than 10 per cent from 1960 expected results but more than 15 per cent under 1959's zenith of 88,394.

SIMILAR

Similar expressions came from Fiat, Citroen, Volvo Import Inc., Rootes Motors Inc., importer of the British Hillman, Sunbeam, Humber and Singer lines, and Hambro Automotive Corp., U.S. arm of British Motor Corp. which makes the MG, Morris, Austin-Healey and Austin.

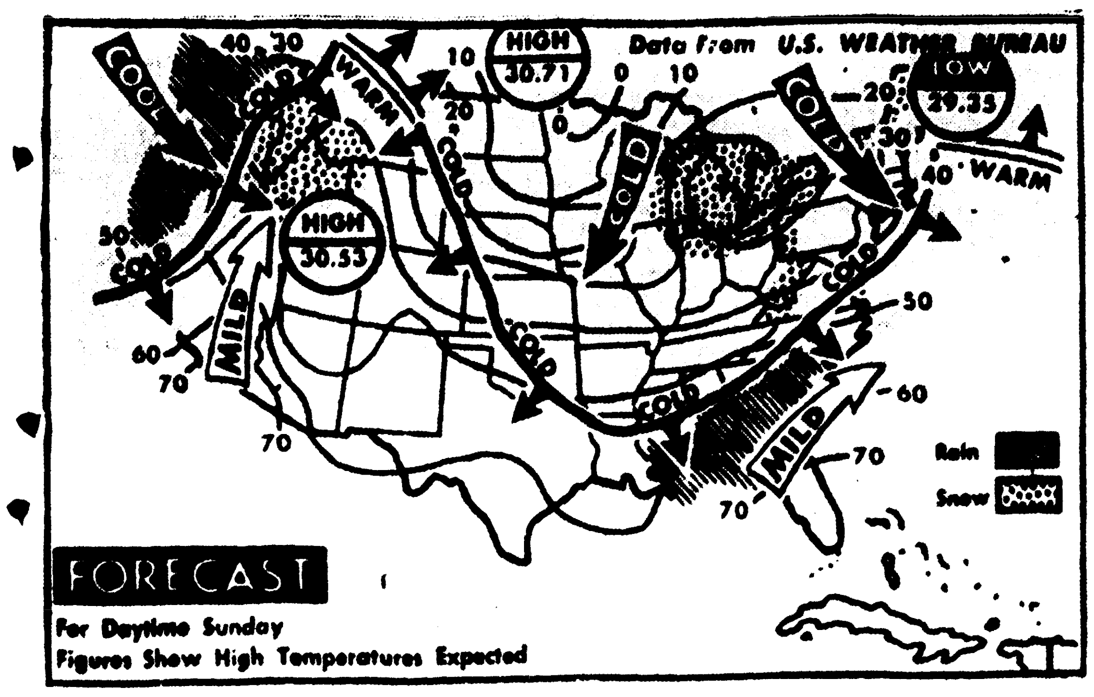
Ake Hogman, president of the firm that brings in the Swedish Volvo, spoke of marketing 18,000 to 20,000 units compared with around 14,000 sales in 1960 and 18,106 in 1959.

More optimistic than most, Hogman gauged total import sales at between 450,000 and 500,000. Citroen's Buchet looked for a downward trend and so did John T. Panks, Rootes' managing director, who predicted only "in excess of 400,000."

"We realize that the American market will never again be as easy for us as it was in 1958 and 1959," Panks said.

Commented A.E. Birt, Hambro's president: "It would be foolish for the imported car industry to ignore the impact of American compact cars. This situation has hurt our business and will continue to affect in some degree those foreign manufacturers producing a range of small sedans."

With Austin-Healeys showing the way, Birt placed Hambro's 1960 sales at about 44,000, down 20 per cent from the preceding year's high. He looks for about the same volume in '61.



ON SUNDAY showers are forecast for Pacific northwest, continuing as snow into northern Rockies. Scattered snow flurries are expected to develop from New England around southern fringes of Great Lakes and also into central Appalachians. Except for rain and occional thundershowers in eastern Gulf into south Atlantic area, generally fair weather is slated elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

MAP SUMMARY

The east and Gulf coast states continued to bask in mild weather during early evening Saturday with temperatures in the 40s as far north as New England under mostly clear skies while the 50s extended from south and east Texas into the lower Ohio valley and the middle Atlantic states. Warmest areas in the country were the extreme southeast and the far southwest where the 60s and 70s were general. However the picture in the nations midsection was more wintry as cold artic air swept southward into the middle west in the wake of a vigorous low pressure area centered just east of Lake Huron. Early evening temperatures ranged near 10 degrees in northern Minnesota and in the 20s and 30s from the lower Great Lakes westward into Nebraska and Montana. Readings in the 40s were general over the Central Plains and much of the Plateau with 30s predominating in the Rockies and 50s along most of the West Coast.

Widespread light to moderate rain continued from West central Texas thru the Gulf states into Central Alabama. Several stations reported over one half inch during the afternoon, including 0.93 inch at Lake Charles, Louisiana, and 0.99 inch at Port Arthur, Texas. Scattered areas of showers, snow flurries and moderate snow were reported from western New York into Wisconsin with heaviest amounts in Michigan. Light to moderate rain dampened the northern California and Oregon coasts during early evening.

For Sunday, considerably colder weather is expected from New England and the middle Atlantic states westward thru the Mississippi Valley into eastern sections of the plains. It will be turning colder from northern sections of the south Atlantic and Gulf Coast States into east and south Texas. Winds will be quite strong in many sections of the eastern half of the country. Somewhat warmer temperatures are likely in West Texas and from western sections of the central and northern Plateau and over most of northern California. It will be cooler in the coastal Pacific northwest. Occasional rain is expected to end during the day from Texas eastward into Georgia and northern Florida. Considerable clouds and some snow flurries are forecast from the Great Lakes eastward to northern New England and thru the Ohio Valley into the mountains of the Virginias. Scattered snow, snow flurries or rain is likely in the northern Rockies and the northern half of the Plateau. Rain showers are probable in the coastal area from northern California northward. Sunny weather is the prospect from the far southwest into most of the plains and the Mississippi Valley.

IN REALM OF RELIGION

Paradox Of Turmoil, Tranquility In 1960

By JULES LOH
Associated Press

In the realm of religion, mark down the year 1960 as a paradox of turmoil and tranquility.

This was the year of "the religious issue," and beneath the serious debate were manifestations of intolerance and bigotry. It also was the year Christianity visited Rome, and overshadowing the official courtesies was an unprecedented air of dialogue and unity.

It was the year that gave birth to a new phrase: "kneel-in demonstration"; and the year that produced the first Negro cardinal.

It was the year swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans defaced synagogues and public buildings; and the year rabbis preached sermons in 400 Methodist churches by invitation.

It also was a year of personal accomplishment.

John F. Kennedy buried the notion a Roman Catholic could not be elected president of the United States. There also were other names that made news; some of them familiar, others in the headlines for the first time:

NAMES IN NEWS

Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A., who proposed a merger of Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians and members of the United Church of Christ.

Billy Graham, who added a sixth continent to his worldwide evangelizing crusade with a 10-nation "Safari for Souls" in Africa.

Archbishop Gunnar Hultgen, primate of Sweden's Lutheran Church who abandoned tradition and ordained three women ministers.

Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia, whose death cried out against Communist injustices as eloquently as the prelate had in life.

W. F. Albright, senior editor of a group of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish scholars who began working together to translate from original manuscripts a Bible acceptable to all.

Bishop Maurice Schexnayder of Lafayette, La., who announced he would deny Catholic burial rites to any of his flock guilty of criminal negligence in automobile accidents.

MEETING

But no names produced more startling religious news in 1960 than those of Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli, Pope John XXIII; and Geoffrey Francis Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury.

Their Dec. 2 meeting in the Vatican was the first time the heads of the two ancient churches had sat down together in 500 years, and marked the high point of a year sprinkled with other expressions of growing cordiality in the Christian community.

One of the posts went to Augustin Cardinal Bea, a German-born Jesuit whose job it will be to keep non-Catholic Christian groups informed of the council's work. The cardinal described himself as "general liaison officer."

Also in 1960 leaders of 171 Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Anglican churches gathered in St. Andrews, Scotland, for the 13th annual meeting of the World Council of Churches.

Their chief topic was church unity, and among other moves they drew up a code of behavior which would prohibit proselytizing one another's members. The code awaits final approval at the 1961 meeting in New Delhi.

What threatened to be the most divisive episode of 1960—the religious issue in the presidential campaign—may result in more understanding between Catholics and Protestants. A post-election survey of church leaders showed most felt the campaign inspired discussions provided a foothold for further conversation which inevitably will lead to better understanding between the two groups.

Vague History Of Religion In Tribe's Past

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Hidden away in the wilds of northern Ethiopia lives a mysterious tribe who call themselves the "House of Israel," but who speak no Hebrew and do not know the meaning of the word Jew.

Living in a remote and almost inaccessible mountain region north of Lake Tana, these people are known in Ethiopia as "Falashas" but often are called "black Jews." Their scriptures are the Old Testament and their religious practices those prescribed in the Pentateuch, the first five books of the Bible.

They call themselves "Sons of Abraham" and "House of Israel" and have a priestly system similar to that of primitive Judaism.

Does this mean the Falashas are a long-lost Hebrew tribe who in the dim past went into seclusion in Ethiopia?

BIG QUESTION

To students of the Jewish community, that has become the big question. Are the Falashas Jews, or are they not? The answer could have important consequences.

If the Falashas should suddenly decide to emigrate to Israel—as have several other Middle Eastern Jewish communities—the state of Israel would have to decide officially whether they are Jews.

So far, the Falashas have shown no signs of moving to Israel. Probably the great majority of the estimated 25,000 "black Jews" are not even aware there is a state of Israel today. The Israelis have taken seven Falashas to Israel on scholarships, and one well-educated Falasha is connected with the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Like Jews everywhere, the Falashas use the Old Testament as their Bible. They observe rigidly the observances and feasts prescribed in the Pentateuch. They strictly observe Saturday as the Sabbath. The word Falasha itself is translated "emigrant" and could imply they are a community in exile.

On the other hand, the Falashas never heard the word "Jew" till Europeans penetrated their region early this century. Not a trace of the Hebrew language can be found in their scriptures, prayers, or colloquial speech. Their Bible is written in Ge'ez, an ancient Ethiopian language.

Falashas have no synagogues and have never heard of the Mishnah or Talmud. They have priests like the Old Testament Jews, but differ from other Jewish communities in practicing monasticism. They believe in black magic and superstition, secret charms and incantations, sorcery and witchcraft.

The Falashas generally are poor but hard-working. For 200 years, none of them has owned any land. Most of them work as tenant farmers or as craftsmen. Only a few are educated. Tedessa Yacov, is minister or agriculture in Haile Sealassie's Cabinet.

What tantalizes the imagination of those studying the Falashas is: If they are not Jews, how did all those Jewish religious influences manage to take root in one of the world's most isolated spots? If they are Jews, when did they become separated from the mainstream of Judaism?

Sunday School Convention Set

George Stuart, superintendent of extension work, Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tennessee, will conduct conferences at the State Sunday School Convention in Alexandria. It will be held at Emmanuel Baptist Church January 12-13.

Stuart, a native of Paragould, Ark., was educated at Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas. He served as Minister of Education in churches in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and from 1957-1960 was an associate in the State Sunday School Department of Texas.

During the conference periods, he will discuss the plans for a functioning ministry to all those who cannot attend Sunday School. Special help will be presented to help churches promote a program to the increasing number of retired people.

The two - day Convention program on the theme "The Outreach for the Unreached," is expected to attract 1,000 people.

Special conferences will be conducted for church building committees, librarians, missions, and kindergarten workers.

DR. D. LEWIS WHITE

Pastor of the church is the Rev. T. Earl Ogg.

Former Russian Pastor Is Slated To Speak Here

A minister who broadcasts the gospel to Russian areas which cannot be reached in person by missionaries, will appear Wednesday night at the West Monroe Free Methodist Church, Lincoln and McGuire street.

He is the Rev. George J. Lambert, who appears on the Light and Life Hour, world - wide radio broadcast of the Free Methodist Church. The broadcast is in Russian language.

Rev. Lambert was born, educated and converted to christianity in Russia. At the beginning of the Russian revolution, he was in Siberia, later returning to preach in Leningrad, Ukraine, and Moscow.

Four times he faced a firing squad for preaching the Word of God. In 1944, to escape Soviet terror, he traveled 400 miles in a fishing vessel over stormy seas without food or water. He was rescued by a Swedish warship.

Later he immigrated to the United States and became a naturalized citizen.

Scientist Says Road To Peace In God's Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading scientist, Dr. Robert M. Page, research director at the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory, says world peace will come "only when all mankind turns wholeheartedly to God in complete humility and voluntary unconditional surrender."

Revised Pledge Reported In Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — A revised Legion of Decency pledge, in which Roman Catholics promise not only to "discourage indecent, immoral and unwholesome motion pictures," but to "promote by word and deed what is morally and artistically good in motion picture entertainment," is being used in some dioceses, the Legion reports.

My Answer

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: In spite of trying to depend upon the Lord, I get very discouraged and despondent sometimes. Does this mean I am not a Christian?

J.W.

ANSWER: Moody people can be Christians just the same as anyone else. Some of us, by nature, are more moody than others. Accepting Christ doesn't always radically change our personalities. Peter still had some of his impetuosity, even after His conversion. But there was no doubt that He had had an encounter with Christ.

Discouragement is one of Satan's most effective tools. I should think that if he got rid of every hurtful device, and kept the instrument of discouragement, he could still carry on an effective business.

But the Christian can conquer even over discouragement and depression. "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ," said Paul, "shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword ... Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us." Remember, all the moods we experience were experienced by Him who was "in all points tempted like as we are." And because He has been in our position. He is better equipped to help us through these difficult places. He always makes us to triumph.

Pastor Assumes New Church Post

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Rev. James R. Shepherd recently resigned his post as pastor of the Utility Baptist Church, Jonesville, to accept the pastorate of the Baskin Baptist Church.

He assumed his new duties during the past week. He is married and has two children.

'Match-A-Verse' Is Bible Game

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Broadman Press, publishing firm of the Southern Baptist convention, has issued Bible "Match-a-Verse" games, to be sold through Baptist book stores. Two to eight people can play the game.

IN REALM OF RELIGION

By JULES LOH
Associated Press

In the realm of religion, mark down the year 1960 as a paradox of turmoil and tranquility.

This was the year of "the religious issue," and beneath the serious debate were manifestations of intolerance and bigotry. It also was the year Christianity visited Rome, and overshadowing the official courtesies was an unprecedented air of dialogue and unity.

It was the year that gave birth to a new phrase: "kneel-in demonstration"; and the year that produced the first Negro cardinal.

It was the year swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans defaced synagogues and public buildings; and the year rabbis preached sermons in 400 Methodist churches by invitation.

It also was a year of personal accomplishment.

John F. Kennedy buried the notion a Roman Catholic could not be elected president of the United States. There also were other names that made news; some of them familiar, others in the headlines for the first time:

NAMES IN NEWS

Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A., who proposed a merger of Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians and members of the United Church of Christ.

Billy Graham, who added a sixth continent to his worldwide evangelizing crusade with a 10-nation "Safari for Souls" in Africa.

Archbishop Gunnar Hultgen, primate of Sweden's Lutheran Church who abandoned tradition and ordained three women ministers.

Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac of Yugoslavia, whose death cried out against Communist injustices as eloquently as the prelate had in life.

W. F. Albright, senior editor of a group of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish scholars who began working together to translate from original manuscripts a Bible acceptable to all.

Bishop Maurice Schexnayder of Lafayette, La., who announced he would deny Catholic burial rites to any of his flock guilty of criminal negligence in automobile accidents.

MEETING

But no names produced more startling religious news in 1960 than those of Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli, Pope John XXIII; and Geoffrey Francis Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury.

Their Dec. 2 meeting in the Vatican was the first time the heads of the two ancient churches had set down together in 500 years, and marked the high point of a year sprinkled with other expressions of growing cordiality in the Christian community.

One of the posts went to Augustin Cardinal Bea, a German-born Jesuit whose job it will be to keep non-Catholic Christian groups informed of the council's work. The cardinal described himself as "general liaison officer."

Also in 1960 leaders of 171 Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Anglican churches gathered in St. Andrews, Scotland, for the 11th annual meeting of the World Council of Churches.

Their chief topic was church unity, and among other moves they drew up a code of behavior which would prohibit proselytizing one another's members. The code awaits final approval at the 1961 meeting in New Delhi.

What threatened to be the most divisive episode of 1960—the religious issue in the presidential campaign—may result in more understanding between Catholics and Protestants. A post-election survey of church leaders showed most felt the campaign inspired discussions provided a foothold for further conversation which inevitably will lead to better understanding between the two groups.

Vague History Of Religion In Tribe's Past

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Hidden away in the wilds of northern Ethiopia lives a mysterious tribe who call themselves the "House of Israel," but who speak no Hebrew and do not know the meaning of the word Jew.

Living in a remote and almost inaccessible mountain region north of Lake Tana, these people are known in Ethiopia as "Falashas" but often are called "black Jews." Their scriptures are the Old Testament and their religious practices those prescribed in the Pentateuch, the first five books of the bible.

They call themselves "Sons of Abraham" and "House of Israel" and have a priestly system similar to that of primitive Judaism.

Does this mean the Falashas are a long-lost Hebrew tribe who in the dim past went into seclusion In Ethiopia?

BIG QUESTION

To students of the Jewish community, that has become the big question. Are the Falashas Jews, or are they not? The answer could have important consequences.

If the Falashas should suddenly decide to emigrate to Israel—as have several other Middle Eastern Jewish communities—the state of Israel would have to decide officially whether they are Jews.

So far, the Falashas have shown no signs of moving to Israel. Probably the great majority of the estimated 25,000 "black Jews" are not even aware there is a state of Israel today. The Israelis have taken seven Falashas to Israel on scholarships, and one well-educated Falasha is connected with the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Like Jews everywhere, the Falashas use the Old Testament as their Bible. They observe rigidly the observances and feasts prescribed in the Pentateuch. They strictly observe Saturday as the Sabbath. The word Falasha itself is translated "emigrant" and could imply they are a community in exile.

On the other hand, the Falashas never heard the word "Jew" till Europeans penetrated their region early this century. Not a trace of the Hebrew language can be found in their scriptures, prayers, or colloquial speech. Their Bible is written in Ge'ez, an ancient Ethiopian language.

Falashas have no synagogues and have never heard of the Mishnah or Talmud. They have priests like the Old Testament Jews, but differ from other Jewish communities in practicing monasticism. They believe in black magic and superstition—secret charms and incantations, sorcery and witchcraft.

The Falashas generally are poor but hard-working. For 200 years, none of them has owned any land. Most of them work as tenant farmers or as craftsmen. Only a few are educated. Tedessa Yacov, is minister or agriculture in Haile Sealassie's Cabinet.

What tantalizes the imagination of those studying the Falashas is: If they are not Jews, how did all those Jewish religious influences manage to take root in one of the world's most isolated spots? If they are Jews, when did they become separated from the mainstream of Judaism?

Sunday School Convention Set

George Stuart, superintendent of extension work, Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tennessee, will conduct conferences at the State Sunday School Convention in Alexandria. It will be held at Emmanuel Baptist Church January 12-13.

Stuart, a native of Paragould, Ark., was educated at Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas. He served as Minister of Education in churches in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and from 1957-1960 was an associate in the State Sunday School Department of Texas.

During the conference periods, he will discuss the plans for a functioning ministry to all those who cannot attend Sunday School. Special help will be presented to help churches promote a program to the increasing number of retired people.

The two - day Convention program on the theme "The Outreach for the Unreached," is expected to attract 1,000 people.

Special conferences will be conducted for church building committees, librarians, missions, and kindergarten workers.

Former Russian Pastor Is Slated To Speak Here

A minister who broadcasts the gospel to Russian areas which cannot be reached in person by missionaries, will appear Wednesday night at the West Monroe Free Methodist Church, Lincoln and McGuire streets.

He is the Rev. George J. Lambert, who appears on the Light and Life Hour, world - wide radio broadcast of the Free Methodist Church. Th broadcast is in Russian language.

Rev. Lambert was born, educated and converted to christianity in Russia. At the beginning of the Russian revolution, he was in Siberia, later returning to preach in Leningrad, Ukraine, and Moscow.

Four times he faced a firing squad for preaching the Word of God. In 1944, to escape Soviet terror, he traveled 400 miles in a fishing vessel over stormy seas without food or water. He was rescued by a Swedish warship.

Later he immigrated to the United States and became a naturalized citizen.

Scientist Says Road To Peace In God's Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading scientist, Dr. Robert M. Page, research director at the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory, says world peace will come "only when all mankind turns wholeheartedly to God in complete humility and voluntary unconditional surrender."

Revised Pledge Reported In Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — A revised Legion of Decency pledge, in which Roman Catholics promise not only to "discourage indecent, immoral and unwholesome motion pictures," but to "promote by word and deed what is morally and artistically good in motion picture entertainment," is being used in some dioceses, the Legion reports.

My Answer

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: In spite of trying to depend upon the Lord, I get very discouraged and despondent sometimes. Does this mean I am not a Christian?

J.W.

ANSWER: Moody people can be Christians just the same as anyone else. Some of us, by nature, are more moody than others. Accepting Christ doesn't always radically change our personalities. Peter still had some of his impetousity, even after His conversion. But there was no doubt that He had had an encounter with Christ.

Discouragement is one of Satan's most effective tools. I should think that if he got rid of every hurtful device, and kept the instrument of discouragement, he could still carry on an effective business.

But the Christian can conquer even over discouragement and depression. "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ," said Paul, "shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword . . . Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us." Remember, all the moods we experience were experienced by Him who was "in all points tempted like as we are." And because He has been in our position. He is better equipped to help us through these difficult places. He always makes us to triumph.

Irish Win Ouachita Crown

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

St. Matthew's Football

Another football chapter is in the making for St. Matthew's High School, but this Monroe parochial school that ranks among the oldest in the state is not going to be rushed into tackling a varsity program until the Fighting Irish are fully prepared to do so.

To hurry this preparation, St. Matthew's settled on Gerry Marchbank, Northeast State center, as a member of the Irish coaching staff and his appointment was announced the past week.

The Irish have been doing so well in Class A basketball that they'll probably try their hand in football of that class as well if their talent shows adequate promise. There's still plenty of time to determine this course when the Irish enter varsity football campaigning.

Sister Rita, principal of the institution operated by The Order of the Daughters of the Cross, said the decision to resume football is not the result of the movement last year at a Louisiana High School Athletic Association meeting to force any Class A schools playing basketball to field football teams or return to Class B.

The proposal, defeated at the LHSAA session, appeared aimed at the Irish as they had just won their first state athletic championship of any kind as a basketball contender in Class A.

Although the move to force St. Matthew's to play football or return to Class B for basketball was defeated Sister Rita said delegates at the LHSAA meeting were informed "St. Matthew's will be glad to field a football team but will not be pushed into varsity competition unprepared."

By way of preparation, St. Matthew's turns freshmen football prospects over to Marchbank this spring for about a month of training. Irish varsity performers of the near future will do their playing [illegible] freshman and junior high teams next fall.

With the coaching staff addition of Marchbank, 22-year-old 205-pound athlete from Wichita Falls, Tex., Jim Mahoney, who has been so successful coaching St. Matthew's basketball, takes new responsibilities as head coach and athletic director.

The journey into football will be the third for St. Matthew's which competed briefly around 30 years ago when the Irish lost their first grid coach, Jimmy Tonore, to a fatal illness, and completed a season more with a star player doing the coaching.

Joe Broussard, who was a Northeast gridder of 1947-48, then revived football as coach of the Irish a little over ten years ago, and was succeeded after the 1955 season by Bob Scruggs. The Irish lost all seven games in their last football year of '56.

As a Class B school in enrollment, St. Matthew's, at the encouragement of their new basketball coach Mahoney, elected to go Class A for the cage scrambles two years ago. The Irish completed their second Class A campaign by presenting their school with its first state championship.

A state title has done much for student morale at the Grammont street school. A return to football would be another booster. But it will be two or three years [illegible] the school feels ready [illegible] before varsity schedules are attempted again.

Some Short Shots

We [illegible] Deputy Sheriff Bill Causey family not getting to see son Tom play much professional football if he elected to join the Buffalo American League club. Now the family [illegible] to figure how to work [illegible] and [illegible] to see the Louisiana Tech end [illegible] as a pro performer.

Tom Causey, an all-state prep end at Neville High of Monroe, and all-Gulf States and "outstanding player" of the Gulf States during the season just past at Louisiana Tech, was drafted by Buffalo and has accepted terms. His family has never missed one of his games.

Causey's college coach, Joe Aillet, will be the guest speaker at the annual Ouachita Parish High [illegible] banquet scheduled for the OPHS cafeteria here next Saturday night.

Another [illegible] signed with the American Football League. A NLSC halfback Paul Hynes has cast his lot with the Dallas Texans of the new circuit. Hynes, from Sulphur, was one of the best backs ever to play for Joe Aillet.

They called her "Miss Basketball" at Jefferson Junior High, and she has a trophy to prove it. But Carolyn Courson has no doubters at Neville High where she has been moved from the freshman to the varsity squad and led the scoring with 24 points against Grayson Tuesday night.

A host of Monroe athletes already is pointed for Golden Gloves boxing at Shreveport next month.

WOULD FILL VOID

Summer College Baseball Next?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — College coaches think they may have the answer to organized baseball's minor league problem: summer varsity competition.

Lee Eilbracht of Illinois, who both played and managed in the minors, said Saturday: "There are empty minor league parks all over the country. Many communities are without good hard ball competition. The colleges can fill that void."

"Pro baseball is dead in New England," said Henry Butova of American International. "I find my boys berths on industrial teams in the summer so they can get experience. Three quarters of a million people are without organized baseball in our area."

Wally Rabb, coach of North Carolina's Atlantic Coast Conference champions, sees summer baseball as a coming thing in the ACC as soon as the schools go on a year-around academic undergraduate system, a growing trend stemming from crowded campuses.

"Summer baseball could be the great equalizer in college competition," said Frank Sancet, whose University of Arzena teams are perennial national powers. Arizona, because of its weather conditions, plays more than 50 games a season and has the opportunity to develop major league prospects.

Eilbracht, who managed Chicago Cub farm teams at Clinton, Iowa, Sioux Falls, S.D., and Danville, Ill., lists these points in favor of summer college baseball:

1. The baseball education of the player. ("The majors claim we don't teach the boys enough, but you just can't do it in a 20-game season.")

2. A substitute for grading minor league baseball. ("I'm sure the pros would rather the colleges develop the boys than gamble big bonuses. In my 10 years at Illinois, my boys have received more than a half million dollars in bonuses, but only three have had a real shot at the majors.")

3. Intercollegiate athletic activity for summer school students. ("We have 10,000 summer students at Illinois now and no teams representing them. We'll have more in the summer of 1952 when we go a full-year academic program, and we'll entertain them with a full Big Ten Conference schedule, including night games.")

Grambling In 106-92 Victory Over Texas 5

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Grambling College augmented its two-year jinx over Texas Southern University here Saturday night with a bludgeoning 106 - 92 victory in a wild Southwestern Conference game.

With All - American Charles Hardnett hogging rebounds and employing various statistical twists from his pivot post, the Tigers sprinted to a 4[illegible] - 41 intermission advantage and outshot the altitudinous Texans, [illegible] - [illegible], in the final twenty minutes.

Riley Harris was the Texans big gun with 24 points. Three more Texas Southern gunners hit the doubles figures. Ernest Martin rimmed 16, James Keller tallied 14 and big Lucious Jackson pumped in 12.

The victory gave Grambling a 3 - 0 mark in southwest conference play.

The Tigers have a 16 - 2 season record and are ranked sixth national in the UPI international small college poll.

Grambling plays host to fourth ranked Prairie View here Monday night in the most important game of the season for both squads. The Panthers are unbeaten in 13 games.

Tennessee Boy Crams In 104 Points In Tilt

CAMDEN, Tenn. (AP) — "Everybody on the team said they wanted me to set a record," explained Danny Boyd, a 16-year-old farm boy who poured in 104 points in a high school basketball game, "so I just kept going."

The 5-foot-11, 155 - pound senior with the dead eye set the record — 24 above the recognized Tennessee mark — Friday night as Camden overwhelmed Clarksburg 130-43 for its 18th victory in 19 games.

"I was embarrassed about scoring all those points," Boyd said Saturday at his home about 11 miles west of here. "I didn't want to play the last half."

He played 28 minutes, sitting out the last four.

Newellton, Harrisonburg Take Crowns

JONESVILLE, La. (Special) — Harrisonburg boys edged the host team, 54-51, and Newellton girls beat Enterprise, 23-20, to win the championships of the Block Invitational Tournament last night.

Shelby Boothe scored 20 points to spark the winning boys while Billy Brooks got 28 points for Block. Betty Vines' 16 points paced the champion girls and Lewis got 9 to pace Enterprise.

Harrisonburg gained the finals by downing Sicily Island, 82-63, despite a 45-point outburst by the losers' Albert Krause. Truman Boothe canned 30 points for the winners. Block topped Monterey, 60-48, in the other semifinal as Brooks got 22. Wilson also got 22 for Monterey.

Enterprise girls edged Block in the best game of the tourney, a two-overtimes affair, to gain the finals. Poole got 23 for the winners and McMillan 25 for the Jonesville team. Newellton whipped Monterey, 23-15, in the other semifinal with Vines of the winners getting 14 and Monterey's Trisler 10.

Named to the girls all-tourney team were Clark, Smith and Cullen of Newellton, Poole of Enterprise, McMillan of Block and Trisler of Monterey.

All-star boys were Brooks of Block, Krause of Sicily Island, Truman Boothe and Jackie Owens of Harrisonburg, and Wilson of Monterey.

Rebel Girls Win Over Winnsboro

By JERRY HARKNESS
World Sports Writer

St. Matthew's Irish, led by fast-breaking Buddy Embanato, high jumping Charley Biggars and steady scoring John Varino, made Forest play the game their way last night and downed Larry Butler and company, 51-41, to win first place in the Ouachita tournament.

Forest's explosive attack froze over in the first half of the final game. Butler couldn't find the basket, the Irish controlled the backboards and Varino led a slow, deliberate St. Matthew's five to a 16-8 first quarter lead and a 28-17 advantage at the half.

Embanato hit with ease during the first quarter while Butler and Varino were feeling themselves out. The Irish closed the first, second and third quarters with a freeze to get the last shot off and made all three efforts good with the buzzer.

Embanato led St. Matthew's with 19 points and Varino picked up 14 for the winners. Butler's 17 and Vining's 10 led Forest.

Mariche's jump shot cut the Irish lead to 16-10 to open the 2nd quarter but Varino opened up with jump shots around the center to shove St. Matthew's out ahead by 11 points at the half.

Forest trailed 40-34 to start the fourth quarter and made a desperate bid to get back in the game in the last minutes, closing the gap to 46-39, but the Irish staged a big freeze out and Forest couldn't break it down in the last two minutes.

West Monroe built up an early lead and made it stand up in blasting Winnsboro, to grab the girls' trophy. Nancy Smith, who paced the victory with 41 points for West Monroe, scored at will and the Rebels pulled farther ahead with each quarter. Wiltshire had 16 points and Moore 13 for the losers. West Monroe held comfortable leads of six and nine points through most of the game.

Neville and Ouachita had a packed house roaring from start to finish in their consolation game. Ouachita hit seven straight free throws in the closing seconds of the tilt to grab a 46-43 victory, but had to overcome three Tiger leads, one in the last two minutes of the game, to claim the win.

Mike Fettinger got 19 points and Don Causey 10 for the Tigers, while four Lions hit in the double figures. Carl Gunn got 13, Bobby Massingil and Don Long hit for 11 and Tommy Beaube scored 10.

Neville trailed by 15-13 at the end of the first quarter but tied the score on a long set shot by Eddie Kincaid to start the second period. The Tigers built up a thee-point lead but Massingil of Ouachita sent the Lions ahead 23-22 at the half.

The Tigers, with Cernizlia, Nolan and Fettinger picking off most of the third quarter rebounds, and Causey hitting from close in, pushed out ahead, 36-31, at the end of the third quarter only to have the Lions come alive late in the final period to knot the score at 39-39 on a free throw by Massingil. Neville began fouling and Ouachita began taking advantage with 2 minutes left. Beaube, Gunn and Massingil sank the winning free throws in the last seconds.

Baskin took the consolation trophy in the girls' division with a brilliant come from behind 33-32 win over Chatham. Frances Futch who scored the winning free throw, scored 22 points for Baskin and Lou Ann Simons got 9 for Chatham.

In the semifinals, Forest routed Ouachita, 64-33, and St. Matthew's edged Neville, 52-51, in the tourney's best game. Embanato hit two straight free throws with 24 seconds left to give the Irish their victory and Neville's Fettinger, who had pulled the Tigers into contention with his jump shots, missed a hurried fielder just before the buzzer. Fettinger got 22 points to pace Neville while Varino hit 20 for St. Matthew's.

Butler was hot in the semifinal and led Forest with 29 points. Beaube and Long got 14 and 13 for Ouachita.

Eagles Acquire Cards' King Hill

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions, made a move to replace retired quarterback Norm Van Brocklin Saturday by acquiring King Hill from the St. Louis Cardinals in return for an early selection in the 1961 player draft.

Hill, 24, a 6-3, 210 pounder, was bothered by injuries through most of his three seasons with the Cardinals after an outstanding collegiate career at Rice.

Northwestern Edges Tech In 42-41 Thriller

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special) — Northwestern got back into contention in the Gulf States Conference basketball race by defeating the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs, 42-41, here Saturday night.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first half and six times in the second before the issue was finally decided on a pair of free throwns by guard Gene Wright with 16 seconds left.

Wright turned in his best performance of the season, taking scoring honors with 18 points on five of eight field goals and a perfect night at the foul line, eight for eight. High for Tech was Ron Futrell, the only Bulldog in double figures, with 12 points.

It was a closely - played affair with both teams trying only the best shots. NSC shot only 38 times, while Tech tried 43. The Bulldogs outrebounded the Demons, 32 to 26.

South Senior Coach Lauds Pass Catchers

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — "All right, boys, we've got something to be thankful for," South Coach Weeb Ewbank said as his team trooped into their dressing room after its stirring 33-26 victory in Saturday's Senior Bowl game.

With that everyone in the room dropped to his knees and Ewbank said the Lord's Prayer.

Then he congratulated each player and said, "We won on a team effort. That's what it was—a great team effort."

The Baltimore Colts' coach was asked if he thought his team was going to pull the game out when the score was tied 26-26 with less than a minute to go.

"We always think we're going to pull them out of the fire. We don't always do it, but we did it today," he said.

"That was a great catch that boy made," Ewbank said, referring to Georgia's Fred Brown, who latched on to a 42-yard pass from Wake Forest's Norman Snead to win the game.

"But we had some great catches all through the game, not only that one, but all the others, also."

OVER GASPER ORTEGA

Basilio In Old Form For Victory

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmen Basilio overcame a sluggish start to pound out an unanimous 10-round decision over Gaspar Ortega at Madison Square Garden Saturday night with a two-fisted attack reminiscent of the form that once earned him the welterweight and middleweight boxing titles.

The 33-year-old battler from Canastota, N. Y., in a comeback attempt after his knockout by NBA champion Gene Fullmer last June, showed little effects of his long layoff as he closed with a rush to have his younger and lighter foe from Mexico hanging on at the final bell.

The referee and Judge Leo Birnbaum voted six rounds for Basilio and four for Ortega, who spotted his opponent 10 pounds. The other judge, Joe Eppy, had it 5-4-1, the same as The AP card, in favor of Basilio.

Ortega weighed [illegible] to Basilio's 150¾. Carmen came in four pounds over his contracted weight of 1[illegible] and was suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission for this infraction. A statement issued immediately after the fight read:

"In accordance with the rules of the N. Y. State Athletic Commission, Basilio is hereby suspended for weighing four pounds heavier than his contract weight agreed to. The commission will announce the duration of the suspension at its next meeting, Friday, Jan. 14."

The suspension is effective Sunday.

Ortega fought back furiously each time he was hurt and on several occasions hurt his older foe with furious counter-punching. Basilio's best round was the seventh when he forced Ortega to retreat with a furious two-handed assault to the body and head.

Ortega, who has not been knocked out in 81 fights, showed no visible damage but Basilio came out of the fight with a slight cut alongside his right eye.

The hard-earned triumph for Basilio was his 56th in 77 fights. Ortega, who came in with a record of 58 victories, 20 defeats and 2 draws, now has lost three in a row.

A crowd of 8,000 which paid $17,000, acclaimed Basilio's victory which presumably will keep the craggy-faced veteran in the ring. He had previously expressed thoughts of retiring if he lost this bout.

Transylvania, West Monroe Win Jr. Titles

West Monroe boys edged Ouachita, 23-22, in the finals of the Ouachita Junior High Tournament last night after Transylvania trounced Sterlington, 32 - 14, to take the girls crown.

Brister of West Monroe and Biggar and Rugg of Ouachita each got 8 points in the boys final while Thompson's 10 led Transylvania and Swayze got 11 for Sterlington.

Transylvania girls edged Jefferson, 23-22, in the semifinals as Thompson scored 13. Leath hit 14 for the losers. Sterlington beat Ouachita girls, 15-13, with Swayze counting 12 points. Ragland got 13 for Ouachita.

Rugg's 11 points led Ouachita to a 26-9 rout of Jena and West Monroe nudged Jefferson, 22-21, in the boys semifinals. Cannon got 8 for Jena, Aulds 8 for West Monroe and Eppinette 10 for Jefferson.

In the consolation games, Jefferson girls beat Ouachita, 34-17, and Jefferson boys topped Jena, 26-21. Leath got 22 points for the winning girls and Ragland 12 for Ouachita. Clark's 11 points led Jefferson boys while Ganey had 8 for Jena.

New York Pulls 120-117 Victory

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers handed the Syracuse Nationals their third straight National Basketball Association defeat Saturday as they came through with five points in the final minute for a 120-117 victory.

Behind most of the way, the Nats rallied in the last three minutes and tied the score at 115-all on Larry Costello's set shot with a minute to play.

The Knicks regained the lead for keeps when Richie Guerin sank a one-hander from the side with 40 seconds remaining.

The Knicks took a 62-58 lead at halftime and led by as many as 14 in the third quarter.

Willie Naulls had 28 points and Guerin 27 for the Knicks. Dolph Schayes was high for the Nats with 36.

Gonzales Beats Barry MacKay

HONOLULU (AP) — Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, pro tennis champ, defeated rookie Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 15-13, 6-4 Friday night. It was Gonzales' fourth straight over MacKay in their 75-match world tour.

Andres Gimeno beat Alex Olmedo 8-10, 7-5, 6-4 in another singles match.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

St. Matthew's Football

Another football chapter is in the making for St. Matthew's High School, but this Monroe parochial school that ranks among the oldest in the state is not going to be rushed into tackling a varsity program until the Fighting Irish are fully prepared to do so.

To hurry this preparation, St. Matthew's settled on Gerry Marchbank, Northeast State center, as a member of the Irish coaching staff and his appointment was announced the past week.

The Irish have been doing so well in Class A basketball that they'll probably try their hand in football of that class as well if their talent shows adequate promise. There's still plenty of time to determine this course when the Irish enter varsity football campaigning.

Sister Rita, principal of the institution operated by The Order of the Daughters of the Cross, said the decision to resume football is not the result of the movement last year at a Louisiana High School Athletic Association meeting to force any Class A schools playing basketball to field football teams or return to Class B.

The proposal, defeated at the LHSAA session, appeared aimed at the Irish as they had just won their first state athletic championship of any kind as a basketball contender in Class A.

Although the move to force St. Matthew's to play football or return to class B for basketball was defeated, Sister Rita said delegates at the LHSAA meeting were informed "St. Matthew's will be glad to field a football team but will not be pushed into varsity competition unprepared."

By way of preparation, St. Matthew's turns freshmen football prospects over to Marchbank this spring for about a month of training. Irish varsity performers of the near future will do their playing against freshman and junior high teams next fall.

With the coaching staff addition of Marchbank, 22-year-old 205-pound athlete from Wichita Falls, Tex., Jim Mahoney, who has been so successful coaching St. Matthew's basketball, takes new responsibilities as head coach and athletic director.

The journey into football will be the third for St. Matthew's which competed briefly around 30 years ago when the Irish lost their first grid coach, Jimmy Tonore, to a fatal illness, and completed a season more with a star player doing the coaching.

Jay Broussard, who was a Northeast gridder of 1947-48, then revived football as coach of the Irish a little over ten years ago, and was succeeded after the 1955 season by Bob Scoggin. The Irish lost all seven games in their last football year of '56.

Still a Class B school in enrollment, St. Matthew's, at the encouragement of then new basketball coach Mahoney, elected to go Class A for the cage scrambles two years ago. The Irish completed their second Class A campaign by presenting their school with its first state championship.

A state title has done much for student morale at the Grammont street school. A return to football could be another booster. But it will be two or three years — or whenever the school feels ready — before varsity schedules are attempted again.

Some Short Shots

We were only joking when commenting on the Deputy Sheriff Bill Causey family not getting to see son Tom play much professional football if he elected to join the Buffalo American League club. Now the family, seriously, is trying to figure how to work in vacations and such to see the Louisiana Tech end if he succeeds in a pro career.

Tom Causey, an all-state prep end at Neville High of Monroe, and all-Gulf States and "outstanding player" of the Gulf States during the season just past at Louisiana Tech, was drafted by Buffalo and has accepted terms. His family has never missed one of his games.

Causey's college coach, Joe Aillet, will be guest speaker for the annual Ouachita Parish High football banquet scheduled for the OPHS cafeteria here next Saturday night.

Another Tech grid star has signed with the American Football League. All-GSC halfback Paul Hynes has cast his lot with the Dallas Texans of the new circuit. Hynes, from Sulphur, was one of the best backs ever to play for Joe Aillet.

They called her "Miss Basketball" at Jefferson Junior High, and she has a trophy to prove it. But Carolyn Courson has no doubters at Neville High where she has been moved from the freshman to the varsity squad and led the scoring with 24 points against Grayson Tuesday night.

At least a trio of Monroe athletes already is pointed for Golden Gloves boxing at Shreveport next month.

WOULD FILL VOID

Summer College Baseball Next?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — College coaches think they may have the answer to organized baseball's minor league problem—summer varsity competition.

Lee Eilbracht of Illinois, who both played and managed in the minors, said Saturday, "There are empty minor league parks all over the country. Many communities are without good hard ball competition. The colleges can fill that void."

"Pro baseball is dead in New England," said Henry Butova of American International. "I find my boys berths on industrial teams in the summer so they can get experience. Three-quarters of a million people are without organized baseball in our area."

Wally Rabb, coach of North Carolina's Atlantic Coast Conference champions, sees summer baseball as a coming thing in the ACC as soon as the schools go on a year-around academic undergraduate system, a growing trend stemming from crowded campuses.

"Summer baseball could be the great equalizer in college competition," said Frank Sancet, whose University of Arzona teams are perennial national powers. Arizona, because of its weather conditions, plays more than 50 games a season and has the opportunity to develop major league prospects.

Eilbracht, who managed Chicago Cub farm teams at Clinton, Iowa, Sioux Falls, S.D., and Danville, Ill., lists these points in favor of summer college baseball:

1. The baseball education of the player. ("The majors claim we don't teach the boys enough, but you just can't do it in a 20-game season.")

2. A substitute for grading minor league baseball. ("I'm sure the pros would rather the colleges develop the boys than gamble big bonuses. In my 10 years at Illinois, my boys have received more than a half million dollars in bonuses, but only three have had a real shot at the majors.")

3. Intercollegiate athletic activity for summer school students. ("We have 10,000 summer students at Illinois now and no teams representing them. We'll have more in the summer of 1952 when we go a full-year academic program, and we'll entertain them with a full Big Ten Conference schedule, including night games.")

Grambling In 106-92 Victory Over Texas 5

GRAMBLING La. (Special) — Grambling College augmented its two-year jinx over Texas Southern University here Saturday night with a bludgeoning 106 - 92 victory in a wild Southwestern Conference game.

With All - American Charles Hardnett hogging rebounds and employing various statistical twists from his pivot post, the Tigers sprinted to a 47 - 44 intermission advantage and outshot the altitudinous Texans, 59 - 33, in the final twenty minutes.

Riley Harris was the Texans big gun with 24 points. Three more Texas Southern gunners hit the doubles figures. Ernest Martin rimmed 16, James Keller tallied 14 and big Lucious Jackson pumped in 12.

The victory gave Grambling a 3 - 0 mark in southwest conference play.

The Tigers have a 16 - 2 season record and are ranked sixth national in the UPI international small college poll.

Grambling plays host to fourth ranked Prairie View here Monday night in the most important game of the season for both squads The Panthers are unbeaten in 13 games.

Irish Win Ouachita Crown

Tennessee Boy Crams In 104 Points In Tilt

CAMDEN, Tenn. (AP) — "Everybody on the team said they wanted me to set a record," explained Danny Boyd, a 16-year-old farm boy who poured in 104 points in a high school basketball game, "so I just kept going."

The 5-foot-11, 155 - pound senior with the dead eye set the record — 24 above the recognized Tennessee mark—Friday night as Camden overwhelmed Clarksburg 130-43 for its 18th victory in 19 games.

"I was embarrassed about scoring all those points," Boyd said Saturday at his home about 11 miles west of here. "I didn't want to play the last half."

He played 28 minutes, sitting out the last four.

Newellton, Harrisonburg Take Crowns

JONESVILLE, La. (Special) — Harrisonburg boys edged the host team, 54-51, and Newellton girls beat Enterprise, 28-20, to win the championships of the Block Invitational Tournament last night.

Shelby Boothe scored 20 points to spark the winning boys while Billy Brooks got 28 points for Block. Betty Vines' 16 points paced the champion girls and Lewis got 9 to pace Enterprise.

Harrisonburg gained the finals by downing Sicily Island, 82-68, despite a 45-point outburst by the losers' Albert Krause. Truman Boothe canned 30 points for the winners. Block topped Monterey, 60-48, in the other semifinal as Brooks got 22. Wilson also got 22 for Monterey.

Enterprise girls edged Block in the best game of the tourney, a two-overtimes affair, to gain the finals. Poole got 23 for the winners and McMillan 25 for the Jonesville team. Newellton whipped Monterey, 23-15, in the other semifinal with Vines of the winners getting 14 and Monterey's Trisler 10.

Named to the girls all-tourney team were Clark, Smith and Cullen of Newellton, Poole of Enterprise, McMillan of Block and Trisler of Monterey.

All-star boys were Brooks of Block, Krause of Sicily Island, Truman Boothe and Jackie Owens of Harrisonburg, and Wilson of Monterey.

Rebel Girls Win Over Winnsboro

By JERRY HARKNESS
World Sports Writer

St. Matthew's Irish, led by fast-breaking Buddy Embanato, high jumping Charley Biggars and steady scoring John Varino, made Forest play the game their way last night and downed Larry Butler and company, 51-41, to win first place in the Ouachita tournament.

Forest's explosive attack froze over in the first half of the final game. Butler couldn't find the basket, the Irish controlled the backboards and Varino led a slow, deliberate St. Matthew's five to a 16-8 first quarter lead and a 28-17 advantage at the half.

Embanato hit with ease during the first quarter while Butler and Varino were feeling themselves out. The Irish closed the first, second and third quarters with a freeze to get the last shot off and made all three efforts good with the buzzer.

Embanato led St. Matthew's with 19 points and Varino picked up 14 for the winners. Butler's 17 and Vining's 10 led Forest.

Mariche's jump shot cut the Irish lead to 16-10 to open the 2nd quarter but Varino opened up with jump shots around the center to shove St. Matthew's out ahead by 11 points at the half.

Forest trailed 40-34 to start the fourth quarter and made a desperate bid to get back in the game in the last minutes, closing the gap to 48-39, but the Irish staged a big freeze out and Forest couldn't break it down in the last two minutes.

West Monroe built up an early lead and made it stand up in blasting Winnsboro, to grab the girls' trophy. Nancy Smith, who paced the victory with 41 points for West Monroe, scored at will and the Rebels pulled farther ahead with each quarter. Wiltshire had 16 points and Moore 13 for the losers. West Monroe held comfortable leads of six and nine points through most of the game.

Neville and Ouachita had a packed house roaring from start to finish in their consolation game. Ouachita hit seven straight free throws in the closing seconds of the tilt to grab a 48-43 victory, but had to overcome three Tiger leads, one in the last two minutes of the game, to claim the win.

Mike Fettinger got 19 points and Don Causey 10 for the Tigers, while four Lions hit in the double figures. Carl Guinn got 13, Bobby Massingil and Don Long hit for 11 and Tommy Beaube scored 10.

Neville trailed by 13-15 at the end of the first quarter but tied the score on a long set shot by Eddie Kincaid to start the second period. The Tigers built up a thee-point lead but Massingil of Ouachita sent the Lions ahead 23-22 at the half.

The Tigers, with Cerniglia, Nolan and Fettinger picking off most of the third quarter rebounds, and Causey hitting from close in, pushed out ahead, 36-31, at the end of the third quarter only to have the Lions come alive late in the final period to knot the score at 39-39 on a free throw by Massingil. Neville began fouling and Ouachita began taking advantage with 2 minutes left. Beaube, Guinn and Massingil sank the winning free throws in the last seconds.

Baskin took the consolation trophy in the girls' division with a brilliant come from behind 33-32 win over Chatham. Frances Futch who scored the winning free throw, scored 22 points for Baskin and Lou Ann Simons got 9 for Chatham.

In the semifinals, Forest routed Ouachita, 64-33, and St. Matthew's edged Neville, 52-51, in the tourney's best game. Embanato hit two straight free throws with 24 seconds left to give the Irish their victory and Neville's Fettinger, who had pulled the Tigers into contention with his jump shots, missed a hurried fielder just before the buzzer. Fettinger got 22 points to pace Neville while Varino hit 20 for St. Matthew's.

Butler was hot in the semifinal and led Forest with 29 points. Beaube and Long got 14 and 13 for Ouachita.

CATS TOP TIDE

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Ruston knocked off Minden twice last night, the varsity downing the visiting Tide by 75-55 and the junior varsity taking a 56-49 decision.

In the varsity game Robert Bretz and Jackie Floyd each scored 17 points for the winners and Jerry Hood added 12. Jerry Bennett got 18 points and Carroll Horn contributed 13 for the Tide.

Eagles Acquire Cards' King Hill

St. LOUIS (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, National Football League champions, made a move to replace retired quarterback Norm Van Brocklin Saturday by acquiring King Hill from the St. Louis Cardinals in return for an early selection in the 1961 player draft.

Hill, 24, a 6-3, 210-pounder, was bothered by injuries through most of his three seasons with the Cardinals after an outstanding collegiate career at Rice.

Northwestern Edges Tech In 42-41 Thriller

The lead changed hands seven times in the first half and six times in the second before the issue was finally decided on a pair of free thrownsby guard Gene Wright with 16 seconds left.

Wright turned in his best performance of the season, taking scoring honors with 18 points on five of eight field goals and a perfect night at the foul line, eight for eight. High for Tech was Ron Futrell, the only Bulldog in double figures, with 12 points.

It was a closely - played affair with both teams trying only the best shots. NSC shot only 38 times, while Tech tried 43. The Bulldogs outrebounded the Demons, 32 to 26.

South Senior Coach Lauds Pass Catchers

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—"All right, boys, we've got something to be thankful for," South Coach Weeb Ewbank said as his team trooped into their dressing room after its stirring 33-26 victory in Saturday's Senior Bowl game.

With that everyone in the room dropped to his knees and Ewbank said the Lord's Prayer.

Then he congratulated each player and said, "We won on a team effort. That's what it was—a great team effort."

The Baltimore Colts' coach was asked if he thought his team was going to pull the game out when the score was tied 26-26 with less than a minute to go.

"We always think we're going to pull them out of the fire. We don't always do it, but we did it today," he said.

"That was a great catch that boy made," Ewbank said, referring to Georgia's Fred Brown, who latched on to a 42-yard pass from Wake Forest's Norman Snead to win the game.

"But we had some great catches all through the game, not only that one, but all the others, also."

OVER GASPER ORTEGA

Basilio In Old Form For Victory

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmen Basilio overcame a sluggish start to pound out an unanimous 10-round decision over Gaspar Ortega at Madison Square Garden Saturday night with a two-fisted attack reminiscent of the form that once earned him the welterweight and middleweight boxing titles.

The 33-year-old battler from Canastota, N. Y., in a comeback attempt after his knockout by NBA champion Gene Fullmer last June, showed little effects of his long layoff as he closed with a rush to have his younger and lighter foe from Mexico hanging on at the final bell.

The referee and Judge Leo Birnbaum voted six rounds for Basilio and four for Ortega, who spotted his opponent 10 pounds. The other judge, Joe Eppy, had it 5-4-1, the same as The AP card, in favor of Basilio.

Ortega weighed 149½ to Basilio's 159½. Carmen came in four pounds over his contracted weight of 155 and was suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission for this infraction. A statement issued immediately after the fight read:

" In accordance with the rules of the N. Y. State Athletic Commission, Basilio is hereby suspended for weighing four pounds heavier than his contract weight agreed to. The commission will announce the duration of the suspension at its next meeting, Friday, Jan. 14.

The suspension is effective Sunday.

Ortega fought back furiously each time he was hurt and on several occasions hurt his older foe with furious counter-punching. Basilio's best round was the seventh when he forced Ortega to retreat with a furious two-handed assault to the body and head.

Ortega, who has not been knocked out in 81 fights, showed no visible damage but Basilio came out of the fight with a slight cut alongside his right eye.

The hard-earned triumph for Basilio was his 55th in 77 fights. Ortega, who came in with a record of 58 victories, 20 defeats and 2 draws, now has lost three in a row.

A crowd of 8,000 which paid $17,000, acclaimed Basilio's victory which presumably will keep the craggy-faced veteran in the ring. He had previously expressed thoughts of retiring if he lost this bout.

Transylvania, West Monroe Win Jr. Titles

West Monroe boys edged Ouachita, 23-22, in the finals of the Ouachita Junior High Tournament last night after Transylvania trounced Sterlington, 32 - 14, to take the girls crown.

Brister of West Monroe and Biggar and Rugg of Ouachita each got 8 points in the boys final while Thompson's 19 led Transylvania and Swayze got 11 for Sterlington.

Transylvania girls edged Jefferson, 23-22, in the semifinals as Thompson scored 13. Leath hit 14 for the losers. Sterlington beat Ouachita girls, 15-13, with Swayze counting 12 points. Ragland got 13 for Ouachita.

Rugg's 11 points led Ouachita to a 26-9 rout of Jena and West Monroe nudged Jefferson, 22-21, in the boys semifinals. Cannon got 8 for Jena, Aulds 8 for West Monroe and Eppinette 10 for Jefferson.

In the consolation games, Jefferson girls beat Ouachita, 34-17, and Jefferson boys topped Jena, 26-21. Leath got 22 points for the winning girls and Ragland 12 for Ouachita. Clark's 11 points led Jefferson boys while Ganey had 8 for Jena.

New York Pulls 120-117 Victory

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers handed the Syracuse Nationals their third straight National Basketball Association defeat Saturday as they came through with five points in the final minute for a 120-117 victory.

Behind most of the way, the Nats rallied in the last three minutes and tied the score at 115-all on Larry Costello's set shot with a minute to play.

The Knicks regained the lead for keeps when Richie Guerin sank a one-hander from the side with 40 seconds remaining.

The Knicks took a 62-53 lead at halftime and led by as many as 14 in the third quarter.

Willie Naulls had 28 points and Guerin 27 for the Knicks. Dolph Schayes was high for the Nats with 36.

Gonzales Beats Barry MacKay

HONOLULU (AP)—Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, pro tennis champ, defeated rookie Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 15-13, 6-4 Friday night. It was Gonzales' fourth straight over MacKay in their 75-match world tour.

Andrews Gimeno beat Alex Olmedo 8-10, 7-5, 6-4 in another singles match

TOP DEFENDERS

McNeese Tests Tribe Thursday

LAKE CHARLES, La. (Special) — McNeese State's Cowboys hook up with two of the clubs that have helped launch one of the most surprising Gulf States Conference basketball races in years at home and on the road Tuesday and Thursday.

Coach Ralph Ward's Pokes entertain defending GSC champion Northwestern State Tuesday and visit the Northeast Louisiana Indians at Monroe Thursday.

In conference - opening action, Northeast, which shared the cellar with McNeese last year, upset Northwestern 69-61. McNeese, the loop's No. 1 defensive club, was off to a good start with a 48-25 victory over Southeastern Louisiana at Hammond last Wednesday.

For the full season, McNeese has limited its opposition to an average of only 55.7 points per game, while winning seven and losing five.

Offensively, McNeese is paced by Stan Kernan, six - foot senior from Washington, D.C. Even though he has been sidelined for two games with an injury, Kernan has tallied almost twice as many points as any other Cowboy.

In the 10 games he's played, Kernan has hit for 241 points and has compiled a brilliant .906 free throw shooting percentage. Kernan has converted on 115 of 127 charity attempts.

Only other Cowboy with a double - figure scoring average is Jimmie Shields, 6-2 sophomore from New Orleans. Shields has scored 122 points in 12 games for a 10.2 average.

Juniors John Riddle, 6-6, of Eggersville, Pa., and Al Nesmith (6-5) of Lake Charles, are close to the mark with averages of 9.6 and 9.1, respectively. Riddle and Nesmith are McNeese's top rebounders, having pulled in slightly more than an average of eight per game each.

Pete Kazyaka, 6-1 senior from Schenectady, N. Y., will round out the starting McNeese lineup. Kazyaka, an excellent ball handler in coach Ralph Ward's control pattern, is averaging 3.8 points per game.

Northwestern's big gun is Gayle Hatch, a 6-6 junior who ranks second to Kernan in GSC scoring with an average of 20 points per game. The Demons also have two returning members of last year's all - conference team in Larry Skinner and Gene Wright, both backcourt performers.

Northwestern had also won seven games and lost five going into a conference game with Louisiana Tech Saturday night.

Middleweight Title Bout Set For Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The fourth title bout between NBA world middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and ex-champ Sugar Ray Robinson was set officially Saturday for Feb. 25 at this desert gambling resort city.

The date and site of the previously announced bout were named at a news conference by Norman Rothchild, Syracuse, N.Y., promoter, Fullmer's Manager, Marv Jenson, and the two local promoters, Jack Doyle and Mel Greb, also were on hand.

The meeting will be held at the Convention Center as part of the regular Saturday night TV fight series.

Jenson said he agreed to the fight only because Fullmer—the bull-like champion who has won and lost the title to Robinson — demanded it. Jenson said Fullmer wants to prove he can beat the Sugar Man who received most of the crowd's cheers in the Los Angeles draw.

Fullmer gets 40 per cent of the gate and $60,000 of the $150,000 television money. Robinson gets 25 per cent of the gate and $50,000 of the TV take.

Convention Center seats 3,000. Rothchild said tickets will range from $10 to $40.

22-1 Derrick Wins Orange Bowl Event

MIAMI (AP) — J.J. Collins' Derrick, a 22-1 shot, closed with a tremendous rush Saturday and won the $24,100 Orange Bowl Handicap at Tropical Park.

Derrick finished a length in front of Noholme II, who was a nose in front of Yorky. Cranberry Sauce was fourth. Heroshogala, the 3-to-2 favorite, finished 10th, with no excuses.

Derrick ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 and paid $47.70, $26.50 and $11.20. Noholme II, an Australian import, returned $10.50 and $7.00. Yorky paid $8.20.

Derrick received a superlative ride from John L. Rotz, who finished the day with three winners, and moved into a tie with Braulio Baeza for the lead in the Tropical Park jockey standings with 32.

The bulky 15-horse field got away in good order with Yorky getting to the front on the clubhouse turn and Noholme II and Tudorich in close pursuit. Derrick was 13th.

Tudorich took the lead midway in the backstretch, with Noholme II second and Yorky third. On the far turn, Tudorich dropped out of it and Yorky and Noholme II went head and head for the lead with Cranberry Sauce third. Then Derrick moved up from ninth place and started his winning spurt.

Noholme II still was in front inside the sixteenth pole, but Derrick nailed him 70 yards from the wire and drew out with every stride.

Collins purchased Derrick only last fall at Belmont Park for $40,000 from the Pin Oak farm. He received a $15,665 return with this victory by the 5-year-old gray son of Oil Capitol.

Rotz' other winners on the card were Peninsula ($17.80) in the third race and Singer ($12.80) in the first.

Double Main Event Slated At Roll-Arena

Stedam, who promoter Ralph Fox says was a big drawing card here years ago, will meet Ken Cooper in the night's opener, a 15-minute affair, while Neopolitan will take on a local favorite, Pierre DeGlane, in a half of the double main event.

Chief Geronimo and Rocky Marino tangle in the other half of the double main attraction. Both main events are ticketed for one hour or less with two falls to win.

Neopolitan has had a varied career. A former college football star, he once played professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A veteran of the wrestling game, Neopolitan has appeared in Monroe often, usually masked and going under the name "Black Panther."

If Tony is as rough unmasked as he was as the Panther, DeGlane is in for a rough time.

Cooper has about recovered from the effects of an automobile accident. Ken was restricted to officiating chores for a long time after the accident.

Independents To Play At Singer

SINGER, La. (Special) — An independent basketball tournament will be held at the local high school gym Jan. 25, 26, and 28.

PALMER ELIMINATED

Paul Harney Takes Lead In Los Angeles Tourney

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Long hitting Paul Harney took the lead at the midway mark of the $45,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament Saturday with his second straight 3-under-par 68 as the big name of the tournament, Arnold Palmer, fell out.

Palmer, the National Open and Masters champion of 1960, failed to qualify for the final two rounds as the ranks were cut to the low 90s and ties. The 31-year-old Golfer of the Year took a 72 for a total of 149.

Harney, former Eastern College star of Newport from Worcester, Mass., posted a 36-hole score of 136 to take a one-stroke one-stroke lead.

Knotted in the runner-up spot at 137 were Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., 69-68; Bob Goalby, good Calif., 67-70; Bob Goalby, good looking young pro from Crystal River, Fla., 67-70, and Eric Monti, [illegible] 68-69. [illegible] the main [illegible] chances [illegible] leading the pack for three rounds.

At [illegible] with Kroll after the day's play over the 7,000-yard par 71 Rancho Municipal Golf Club were ex-National PGA champion Lionel Hebert, 68-70; Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla., 67-71, and Tommy Jacobs of Palm Springs, Calif., 69-69.

Scores of 155 or better qualified for the third round.

[illegible] included Billy Casper Jr., Bob Rosburg, Gardner Dickinson, England's Pete Brown and 25-year-old Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., whose 66 was the low round of the day.

Harney, whose 142 pounds are packed on a 5-foot-11 frame and belie the fact he is one of the game's longest hitters, toured the par [illegible] 32-36—68.

The brightest shot was for an eagle 3 on the 503-yard eighth hole. He banged a 3-wood 230 yards, the ball went in and out of the cup (it would have been a double eagle had it stayed) and finished on 30 inches away.

Palmer remained the day's story in his cause but hoping to at least stay in the battle.

At the first tee he said to his playing partners, Casper and Bo Wininger, "Are there any out of bounds on this hole?"

And at the hole where after disaster set in Friday, he paused and looked out over the fairway and with mock admiration, observed: "What a beautiful hole."

Palmer was less humorous when he bogeyed the third, fourth and fifth holes, however. He missed the third green and 3-putted the next two and made the turn in 38.

There were other bright and dark spots.

Dow Finsterwald, last year's winner, shot a 70 for 143, and Cary Middlecoff, launching a "come back" after a lengthy layoff, got a 69 for 141.

Mike Souchak, another gallery favorite, had a 70 for 144, and Art Wall Jr. a 72 for 142. Wininger, admittedly off his game, had a 76 for 154.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who had a 68 Friday, fell back with a 73 for 141, while Bob Gajda, with a first round 68, got a 75 for 143.

Epps, Lake Providence Champions

Epps, behind practically all of the game and finishing with its three top scorers on the bench, was led by Wayne Cleveland's 26 points. Bud Osbon got 17. Scotty Hendrix had 18 and Willie Capers 15 for Kilbourne.

Lake Providence gained the finals with a 50-30 defeat of Kilbourne as Miss Johnson got 24 points. Donna Edwards' 15 points led the losers. Oak Grove upset Pioneer, class B runner-up last year, in the other girls semifinal, 45-33. Yvonne Broadway got 19 points for Oak Grove and Linda Stewart the same number for Pioneer.

Epps boys beat Oak Grove, 67-54, and Kilbourne downed Lake Providence, 52-38, in the boys semifinals. Wayne Cleveland got 28 and Sherman McMillan and Bud Osbon 15 each for Epps and Ronnie Myrick had 20 and Mike Gammill 14 for Oak Grove. Jack Harris, a sophomore, led Kilbourne with 18 points and Larry Dupree hit 13 for Lake Providence.

Russia Leads

OSLO (AP) — Eugeni Grishin and Viktor Kositshkin, Olympic speed skating champions, won the 500 and 5,000-meter races Saturday as Russia built a 39-point lead over Norway in the opening program of a two-day meet.

Grishin took the shorter race in 42.1 seconds, less than 2 seconds shy of his world record. The towering Kositshkin won the 5,000 meters in 8:06.1.

Norm Snead Passes South To Wild Senior Bowl Win

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A 42-yard scoring pass by Norm Snead of Wake Forest, his fourth touchdown toss of the game, broke up a tie with 7 seconds left and boosted the South all-stars to a 33-26 victory over the North Saturday in the 12th annual Senior Bowl football game.

Snead's final strike was to back Fred Green of Georgia, who had scored the South's first touchdown on a 10-yard run in the wildest of all Senior Bowl games.

The 6-4, 208-pound Snead edged Stanford's Dick Norman in an aerial duel that saw the South pick up 328 yards passing to 311 for the Northerners. But Norman, who rallied his club time after time, was voted the game's outstanding player.

Norman had pulled the North into the 26-26 tie with 3 minutes to go on a 29-yard touchdown pass to halfback Don Smith of Missouri. But an attempted conversion by Skip Face, also of Stanford, was blocked by defensive back Bobby Lauder of Auburn.

That set the stage for the fabulous finish.

Snead and Bobby Crespino of Mississippi shared honors as the South's outstanding back in the pressbox poll. They paired for two long scoring plays — one for 50 yards, the other for 42.

Guard Mike Zeno of VPI was chosen outstanding lineman for the South and another guard, Joe Dean of Ohio University, was picked as the North's top lineman.

It was a fantastic first half as the South took a 13-0 lead, dropped back to 20-13 and then pulled into a 26-20 lead at the halftime.

Zeno set up the first South touchdown with a recovery of Minnesota fullback Roger Hagberg's fumble on the North 27. Brown swept wide to the right from the 10 for the score and Ed Dyas converted.

Snead's 50-yard pass to the agile Crespino netted the second Rebel touchdown and it looked as though the South might make a rout as the Southern forwards outfought the North linemen time after time.

But the North, behind Norman, came back with a 70-yard drive after the following kickoff. Norman passed eight yards to Aaron Thomas of Oregon State for the touchdown.

Dean intercepted an attempted pitch by Dyas back to Snead on a tricky pro-type play just after the start of the second quarter. The powerful Dean carried it over from the South 21 on the play and Face converted for a 13-13 tie.

Missouri's Don Smith took a Norman pass from the South 19 with six minutes to go in the second quarter and rammed over as the points continued to pile up. Face's kick gave the North a 20-13 edge.

But Snead tossed 47 yards to Crespino two plays after the kickoff to make it 20-20. Another pass, a seven-yarder to end Gerald Burch of Georgia Tech, alone in the end zone provided another touchdown in the final seconds [illegible] 26-20 for the [illegible] of the South Rebels.

GIANTS INK GAITERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Gaiters of New Mexico State, the nation's leading rusher and scorer among major colleges last fall, signed to play with the New York Giants of the National Football League Saturday.

He was the Giants No. 1 draft choice, and also No. 1 on the list of Denver of the American League. Gaiters gained 1,338 yards in 197 carries last season for a 6.8 average, and scored 145 points. He weighs 210 and runs the 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds.

Gaiters was a tailback on the New Mexico State team, which used the winged-T formation similar to the formations used by many pro teams.

First Balcony Scores Upset In San Carlos

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — First Balcony, a 15-1 shot, took command with a stunning burst about 70 feet from the wire Saturday and scored a one-length victory over favored T.V. Lark in the $58,600 San Carlos Handicap.

A Santa Anita crowd of 41,000 watched Ole Fols come into the stretch on the rail with a lead that looked as though it might hold up. But First Balcony, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, shot down the middle of the stretch, passed Ole Fols and survived a driving finish by the fast-closing T.V. Lark, who went off at 8 to 5.

First Balcony covered the 7 furlongs in 1:22 1-5 and paid $31.20, $10.80 and $5. T.V. Lark returned $3.80 and $2.60 and Ole Fols paid $2.80.

Behind them were Bagdad, Finnegan, Divine Comedy, Free Copy, Clandestine, Henrijan, Golden Notes, Fleet Nasrullah and Aliwar, in that order.

T.V. Lark and Finnegan broke on top. But T.V. Lark, as usual, began lagging and soon was trailing the field.

While four horses contested for the lead, Ole Fols was moving fast along the rail, just ahead of Bagdad. Coming out of the back stretch, Ole Fols took the lead from Free Copy and held it until he was beaten in the stretch.

Bagdad was overtaking Ole Fols and Free Copy on the outside coming to the head of the stretch when First Balcony took off down the middle.

World's Fastest Human Hit With Year-Long Ban

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — German gold medal sprinter Armin Hary, considered the world's fastest human, was banned from track for a year Saturday on several charges—including padding of expense accounts.

Hary, a West German who won the 100-meter dash at the Rome Olympics and world record co-holder at 10 seconds flat, was banned by the legal committee of the Athletic League of Hessen Province. He was found guilty of giving false and excessive expense statements of track appearances in Germany and to have damaged Germany's athletic reputation by publishing erroneous material in a magazine last October.

The chairman of the committee said Hary had been ordered to repay the excess amounts listed on his expense accounts.

Heavy penalties also were handed to Hary's Frankfurt Track Club and its president, Oskar Betz. The club was banned from participating in events, except junior meets, until January of 1966. Betz was banned from organizing athletic events for 10 years.

Kentucky took a quick lead and lost it. But while the Wildcats increased the margin to as much as 13 points in the first half, the lead never appeared safe. On the strength of Kaiser's shooting, the Yellow Jackets cut it to three at 42-39 with 2 minutes left in the half. But that was the closest they came.

McNeese Tests Tribe Thursday

LAKE CHARLES, La. (Special) — McNeese State's Cowboys hook up with two of the clubs that have helped launch one of the most surprising Gulf States Conference basketball races in years at home and on the road Tuesday and Thursday.

Coach Ralph Ward's Pokes entertain defending GSC champion Northwestern State Tuesday and visit the Northeast Louisiana Indians at Monroe Thursday.

In conference - opening action, Northeast, which shared the cellar with McNeese last year, upset Northwestern 69-61. McNeese, the loop's No. 1 defensive club, was off to a good start with a 48-25 victory over Southeastern Louisiana at Hammond last Wednesday.

For the full season, McNeese has limited its opposition to an average of only 55.7 points per game, while winning seven and losing five.

Offensively, McNeese is paced by Stan Kernan, six - foot senior from Washington, D.C. Even though he has been sidelined for two games with an injury, Kernan has tallied almost twice as many points as any other Cowboy.

In the 10 games he's played, Kernan has hit for 241 points and has compiled a brilliant. 906 free throw shooting percentage. Kernan has converted on 115 of 127 charity attempts.

Only other Cowboy with a double - figure scoring average is Jimmie Shields, 6-2 sophomore from New Orleans. Shields has scored 122 points in 12 games for a 10.2 average.

Juniors John Riddile (6-6) of Eldersville, Pa., and Al Nesmith (6-5) of Lake Charles are close to the mark with averages of 9.6 and 9.1, respectively. Riddile and Nesmith are McNeese's top rebounders, having pulled in slightly more than an average of eight per game each.

Pete Kazyaka, 6-1 senior from Schenectady, N. Y., will round out the starting McNeese lineup. Kazyaka, an excellent ball handler in coach Ralph Ward's control pattern, is averaging 3.8 points per game.

Northwestern's big gun is Gayle Hatch, a 6-6 junior who ranks second to Kernan in GSC scoring with an average of 20 points per game. The Demons also have two returning members of last year's all - conference team in Larry Skinner and Gene Wright, both backcourt performers.

Northwestern had also won seven games and lost five going into a conference game with Louisiana Tech Saturday night.

Middleweight Title Bout Set For Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS (AP)—The fourth title bout between NBA world middleweight champion Gene Fullmer and ex-champ Sugar Ray Robinson was set officially Saturday for Feb. 25 at this desert gambling resort city.

The date and site of the previously announced bout were named at a news conference by Norman Rothchild, Syracuse, N.Y., promoter. Fullmer's Manager, Merv Jenson, and the two local promoters, Jack Doyle and Mel Greb, also were on hand.

The meeting will be held at the Convention Center as part of the regular Saturday night TV fight series.

Jenson said he agreed to the fight only because Fullmer—the bull-like champion who has won and lost the title to Robinson — demanded it. Jenson said Fullmer wants to prove he can beat the Sugar Man, who received most of the crowd's cheers in the Los Angeles draw.

Fullmer gets 40 per cent of the gate and $60,000 of the $150,000 television money. Robinson gets 25 per cent of the gate and $50,000 of the TV take.

Convention Center seats 8,000. Rothchild said tickets will range from $10 to $40.

22-1 Derrick Wins Orange Bowl Event

MIAMI (AP)—I.J. Collins' Derrick, a 22-1 shot, closed with a tremendous rush Saturday and won the $24,100 Orange Bowl Handicap at Tropical Park.

Derrick finished a length in front of Noholme II, who was a nose in front of Yorky. Cranberry Sauce was fourth. Heroshogala, the 3-to-2 favorite, finished 10th, with no excuses.

Derrick ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 and paid $47.70, $26.50 and $11.20. Noholme II, an Australian import, returned $10.90 and $7.00. Yorky paid $6.20.

Derrick received a superlative ride from John L. Rotz, who finished the day with three winners, and moved into a tie with Braulio Baeza for the lead in the Tropical Park jockey standings with 32.

The bulky 15-horse field got away in good order with Yorky getting to the front on the clubhouse turn and Noholme II and Tudorich in close pursuit. Derrich was 13th.

Tudorich took the lead midway in the backstretch, with Noholme II second and Yorky third. On the far turn, Tudorich dropped out of it and Yorky and Noholme II went head and head for the lead with Cranberry Sauce third. Then Derrick moved up from ninth place and started his winning spurt.

Noholme II still was in front inside the sixteenth pole, but Derrick nailed him 70 yards from the wire and drew out with every stride.

Collins purchased Derrick only last fall at Belmont Park for $40,000 from the Pin Oak farm. He received a $15,665 return with this victory by the 5-year-old gray son of Oil Capitol.

Rotz' other winners on the card were Peninsula ($17.80) in the third race and Singer ($12.80) in the first.

Double Main Event Slated At Roll-Arena

Stedam, who promoter Ralph Fox says was a big drawing card here years ago, will meet Ken Cooper in the night's opener, a 15-minute affair, while Neopolitan will take on a local favorite, Pierre DeGlane, in a half of the double main event.

Chief Geronimo and Rocky Marino tangle in the other half of the double main attraction. Both main events are ticketed for one hour or less with two falls to win.

Neoplitan has had a varied career. A former college football star, he once played professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A veteran of the wrestling game, Neopolitan has appeared in Monroe often, usually masked and going under the name "Black Panther."

If Tony is as rough unmasked as he was as the Panther, DeGlane is in for a rough time.

Cooper has about recovered from the effects of an automobile accident. Ken was restricted to officiating chores for a long time after the accident.

Independents To Play At Singer

SINGER, La. (Special) — An independent basketball tournament will be held at the local high school gym Jan. 26, 27, and 28.

PALMER ELIMINATED

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Long-hitting Paul Harney took the lead at the midway mark of the $45,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament Saturday with his second straight 3-under-par 68 as the big name of the tournament, Arnold Palmer, fell out.

Palmer, the National Open and Masters champion of 1960, failed to qualify for the final two rounds as the ranks were cut to the low 90s and ties. The 31-year-old Golfer of the Year took a 72 for a total of 149.

At 138 tied with Kroll after the day's play over the 7,000-yard par 71 Rancho Municipal Golf Club were ex-National PGA champion Lionel Hebert, 68-70; Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla., 67-71, and Tommy Jacobs of Palm Springs, Calif., 69.69.

Scores of 148 or better qualified for the third round.

This was the first time Palmer had failed to survive the cut since the Indianapolis 500 last year, and that was at the 54-hole mark.

The 140 group included Billy Casper Jr., Bob Rosburg, Gardner Dickinson, England's Eric Brown and 23-year-old Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., whose 66 was the low round of the day.

Harney, whose 142 pounds are packed on a 5-foot-11 frame and belie the fact he is one of the game's longest hitters, toured the place in 32-36—68.

The brightest shot was for an eagle 3 on the 508-yard eighth hole. He banged a 3-wood 230 yards, the ball went in and out of the cup (it would have been a double eagle had it stayed put) and trickled on 30 inches away.

Palmer remained the day's story in his game but losing try to at least stay in the battle.

At the first tee he cracked to his playing partners, Casper and Bo Wininger: "Are there any out of bounds on this hole?"

And at the hole where utter disaster set in Friday, he paused and looked out over the fairway and with mock admiration, observed: "What a beautiful hole."

Palmer was less humorous when he bogeyed the third, fourth and fifth holes, however. He missed the third green and 3-putted the next two and made the turn in 38.

There were other bright and dark spots.

Mike Souchak, another gallery favorite, had a 70 for 144, and Art Wall Jr. a 72 for 142. Wininger, admittedly off his game, had a 76 for 154.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who had a 68 Friday, fell back with a 73 for 141, while Bob Gajda, with a first-round 68, got a 75 for 143.

Russia Leads

OSLO (AP) — Eugeni Grishin and Viktor Kositshkin, Olympic speed skating champions, won the 500 and 5,000-meter races Saturday as Russia built a 39-point lead over Norway in the opening program of a two-day meet.

Grishin took the shorter race in 42.1 seconds, less than 2 seconds shy of his world record. The towering Kositshkin won the 5,000 meters in 8:06.1.

Epps, Lake Providence Champions

OAK GROVE, La. (Special) — Little (5 5½) Ray Ford hit a foul shot with 15 seconds left to give Epps a 56-55 victory over Kilbourne and the championship of the Oak Grove Tournament here last night.

Epps, behind practically all of the game and finishing with its three top scorers on the bench, was led by Wayne Cleveland's 26 points. Bud Osbon got 17. Scotty Hendrix had 18 and Willie Capers 15 for Kilbourne.

Lake Providence gained the finals with a 50-30 defeat of Kilbourne as Miss Johnson got 24 points. Donna Edwards' 15 points led the losers. Oak Grove upset Pioneer, class B runner-up last year, in the other girls semifinal, 45-33. Yvonne Broadway got 19 points for Oak Grove and Linda Stewart the same number for Pioneer.

Epps boys beat Oak Grove, 67-54, and Kilbourne downed Lake Providence, 52-38, in the boys semifinals. Wayne Cleveland got 28 and Sherman McMillan and Bud Osbon 15 each for Epps and Ronnie Myrick had 20 and Mike Gammill 14 for Oak Grove. Jack Harris, a sophomore, led Kilbourne with 18 points and Larry Dupree hit 13 for Lake Providence.

DECIDED IN LAST 7 SECONDS

Norm Snead Passes South To Wild Senior Bowl Win

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A 42-yard scoring pass by Norm Snead of Wake Forest, his fourth touchdown toss of the game, broke up a tie with 7 seconds left and boosted the South all-stars to a 33-26 victory over the North Saturday in the 12th annual Senior Bowl football game.

Snead's final strike was to back Fred Green of Georgia, who had scored the South's first touchdown on a 10-yard run in the wildest of all Senior Bowl games.

The 6-4, 208-pound Snead edged Stanford's Dick Norman in an aerial duel that saw the South pick up 328 yards passing to 311 for the Northerners. But Norman, who rallied his club time after time, was voted the game's outstanding player.

STATISTICS

	North	South
First downs	15	15
Rushing yardage	25	43
Passing yardage	311	328
Passes	20-33	16-25
Passes intercepted by	1	2
Punts	6-35.3	5-49.8
Fumbles lost	2	3
Yards penalized	20	17

Norman had pulled the North into the 26-26 tie with 3 minutes to go on a 29-yard touchdown pass to halfback Don Smith of Missouri. But an attempted conversion by Skip Face, also of Stanford, was blocked by defensive back Bobby Lauder of Auburn.

That set the stage for the fabulous finish.

Snead and Bobby Crespino of Mississippi shared honors as the South's outstanding back in the pressbox poll. They paired for two long scoring plays, one for 70 yards, the other for 47.

Guard Mike Zeno of VPI was chosen outstanding lineman for the South, and another guard, Joe Dean of Ohio University, was picked as the North's top lineman.

It was a fantastic first half as the South took a 13-0 lead, dropped back to 20-13 and then pulled into a 26-20 lead at the halftime.

Zeno set up the first South touchdown wih a recovery of Minnesota fullback Roger Hagberg's fumble on the North 27. Brown swept wide to the right from the 10 for the score and Ed Dyas converted.

Snead's 70-yard pass to the agile Crespino netted the second Rebel touchdown and it looked as though the South might make a rout as the Southern forwards outfought the North linemen time after time.

But the North, behind Norman, came back with a 70-yard drive after the following kickoff. Norman passed eight yards to Aaron Thomas of Oregon State for the touchdown.

Dean intercepted an attempted pitch by Dyas back to Snead on a tricky pro-type play just after the start of the second quarter. The powerful Dean carried it over from the South 21 on the play and Face converted for a 13-13 tie.

Missouri's Don Smith took a Norman pass from the South 19 with six minutes to go in the second quarter and rammed over as the points continued to pile up. Face's kick gave the North a 20-13 edge.

But Snead tossed 47 yards to Crespino two plays after the kickoff to make it 20-19. Another pass, a seven-yarder to end Gerald Burch of Georgia Tech, alone in the end zone provided another touchdown in the final second. Dyas kick made it 26-20 for the highest scoring first half in the history of the Senior Bowl.

Norman completed 20 of 33 passes for 311 yards, a Senior Bowl record. He tossed for three touchdowns. Two of the Stanford ace's passes were intercepted.

Snead connected on 15 of 24 for 305 yards, also bettering the old yardage record of 283 yards set by Jack Lee of Cincinnati last year.

Crespino hauled in nine passes for 214 yards for a Senior Bowl record 11 receptions and yardage.

The South's Brown was the leading rusher with 44 yards on 12 carries.

FIVE YEARS

NCAA Studies Red-Shirt Limit

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Saturday was studying a proposal to limit "red-shirting" an athlete for a five-year period.

A red-shirt is one who appears unable to make the team as a sophomore and is held out a season for more experience. By delaying his graduation, he may spread his allotted three seasons of varsity competition over several years. At present there is no limit on the time an athlete may be red-shirted.

This proposal and many others now under study by various committees will be taken up when the NCAA's 55th annual convention gets underway Monday.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said a committee at first wanted to outlaw red-shirting but later amended it.

"The committee originally recommended a four-year limit" Byers said, "but it felt that legitimate hardship cases, where a boy would have to stay out of school to help his family, should be considered."

Byers noted the Ivy League and the Big Ten have four-year rules with hardship clauses, "but on a national basis it would be almost impossible to work it that way."

Highlighting Saturday's session were various committee meetings and a baseball clinic, featuring pitchers Bob Friend and Elroy Face and shortstop Dick Groat of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates. The clinic runs through Sunday.

The American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) Rules Committee suggested that unlimited coaching be permitted from the sidelines. This was approved by a 15-2 vote. Final action on that proposal will be made at the convention.

The NCAA council meets Sunday and may discuss recruiting policies of the University of North Carolina. A meeting of the AFCA Rules Committee also will be held Sunday along with the American Association of College Baseball Coaches' (AACBC) dinner.

Dick Siebert, Minnesota, will be honored at the dinner as the "coach of the year." Siebert piloted the Golden Gophers to the 1960 NCAA baseball title, defeating Southern California in the finals of the college world series.

Strange Signs With Champ Philadelphia

COMPLETE SWEEP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins of the National Football League Saturday signed linebacker Fred Hageman of Kansas, completing a clean sweep of their top draft selections for the first time since 1957.

Washington previously had signed Wake Forest Quarterback Norman Snead. Ilinois tackle Joe Rutgens and Pittsburgh fullback Jim Cunningham.

GIANTS INK GAITERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Gaiters of New Mexico State, the nation's leading rusher and scorer among major colleges last fall, signed to play with the New York Giants of the National Football League Saturday.

He was the Giants No. 1 draft choice, and also No. 1 on the list of Denver in the American League. Gaiters gained 1,338 yards in 197 carries last season for a 6.7 average, and scored 145 points. He weighs 210 and runs the 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds.

Gaiters was a tailback on the New Mexico State team, which used the winged-T formation—similar to the formations used by many pro teams.

BARBER SIGNS

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Stew Barber, Penn State tackle, has signed a 1961 contract with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

Barber, a 240-pounder, was the Bills' fourth draft choice and the third pick of the Dallas Cowboys of the National League.

PRICE A COWBOY

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League Saturday signed four more college players.

First Balcony Scores Upset In San Carlos

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — First Balcony, a 15-1 shot, took command with a stunning burst about 70 feet from the wire Saturday and scored a one-length victory over favored T.V. Lark in the $58,600 San Carlos Handicap.

A Santa Anita crowd of 44,000 watched Ole Fols come into the stretch on the rail with a lead that looked as though it might hold up. But First Balcony, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, shot down the middle of the stretch, passed Ole Fols and survived a driving finish by the fast-closing T.V. Lark, who went off at 8-to-5.

First Balcony covered the 7 furlongs in 1:22 1-5 and paid $31.20, $10.80 and $5. T.V. Lark returned $380 and $2.60 and Ole Fols paid $2.80.

Behind them were Bagdad, Finnegan, Divine Comedy, Free Copy, Clandestine, Henrijan, Golden Notes, Fleet Nasrullah and Aliwar, in that order.

T.V. Lark and Finnegan broke on top. But T.V. Lark, as usual began lagging and soon was trailing the field.

While four horses contested for the lead, Ole Fols was moving fast along the rail, just ahead of Bagdad. Coming out of the back stretch, Ole Fols took the lead from Free Copy and held it until he was beaten in the stretch.

Bagdad was overtaking Ole Fols and Free Copy on the outside coming to the head of the stretch when First Balcony took off down the middle.

World's Fastest Human Hit With Year-Long Ban

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—German gold medal sprinter Armin Hary, considered the world's fastest human, was banned from track for a year Saturday on several charges—including padding of expense accounts.

Hary, a West German who won the 100-meter dash at the Rome Olympics and world record coholder at 10 seconds flat, was banned by the legal committee of the Athletic League of Hessen Province. He was found guilty of giving false and excessive expense statements of track appearances in Germany and to have damaged Germany's athletic reputation by publishing erroneous material in a magazine last October.

The chairman of the committee said Hary had been ordered to repay the excess amounts listed on his expense accounts.

Heavy penalties also were handed to Hary's Frankfurt Track Club and its president, Oskar Betz. The club was banned from participating in events, except junior meets, until January of 1966. Betz was banned from organizing athletic events for 10 years.

Wildcats Top Georgia Tech In 89-79 Tilt

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) —Kentucky opened its quest for a 20th Southeastern Conference basketball title by defeating Georgia Tech 89-79 Saturday despite a 38-point effort by Tech's Roger Kaiser.

The Wildcats moved to a 49-41 halftime edge on the shooting of Billy Ray Lickert and 6-9 Ned Jennings, who scored 16 points and 15, respectively. Lickert finished with 25 and Jennings 19 as both fouled out in the closing minutes.

Kaiser, hitting from outside on his jump shots and driving under for lay-ups, was a one-man gang for the Yellow Jackets. It was his best output of the year.

Kentucky took a quick lead and kept it. But while the Wildcats increased the margin to as much as 13 points in the first half, the lead never appeared safe. On the strength of Kaiser's shooting, the Yellow Jackets cut it to three at 42-39 with 2-minutes left in the half. But that was the closest they came.

Snyder Injured

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Larry Snyder, 64, Ohio State track coach who also headed the U.S. Olympic track squad, was injured early Saturday when his car hit a guard rail on the Ohio Turnpike. He was listed in a fair condition at a hospital here.

Snyder, en route to the NCAA coaches meetings in Pittsburgh, suffered facial cuts and a possible chest injury.

West Choice In 15th Hula Classic Today

Coach Jim Owens, whose Huskies smashed national champion Minnesota 17-7 in the Rose Bowl, is counting on the passing of Washington's Bob Schloredt for victory in the All-Star game which is expected to draw between 18,000 and 20,000 fans.

Owens also has All-America center Roy McKasson, halfback George Fleming, tackle Kurt Gegner and guard Chuck Allen from the Rose Bowl team.

Owens has indicated he will start Schloredt, Fleming, Keith Lincoln of Washington State and Bill Kilmer of UCLA in the backfield. Kilmer, a tailback, led the nation in total offense.

Coach Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame, who directed the East to a [illegible] victory in the Shrine game in San Francisco, is set to start Tom Matte, Ohio State quarterback, to offset the passing wizardry of Schloredt. Matte was voted the outstanding back in the East-West Shrine game.

In the starting backfield with Matte will be Tom Mason of Tulane, Tom Wiesner of Wisconsin and Herb Adderley of Michigan State. That's the same quartet Kuharich used in the Shrine game.

Kuharich [illegible] All-America tackle Ken Rice of Auburn to anchor the line which will include two other All-Americans, Tom Brown, Minnesota guard, and Mike Ditka, Pitt end.

The West is not without All-America linemen. Danny LaRose of Missouri will start at end and Bob Lilly of Texas Christian will open at tackle.

RUNNER-UP BOWL

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Dick Lane crashed through and blocked Sam Baker's fourth period extra-point kick to save a 17-16 victory for the Detroit Lions over the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's inaugural Runner-Up Bowl game Saturday.

The rush job by the Lions' defensive halfback barred Cleveland's bid for a tie after scoring on an 39-yard pass from Milt Plum to Bob Mitchell.

A shirtsleeved crowd of 34,981 saw the massive Detroit team continue its domination of Cleveland. The Lions now have beaten Cleveland eight times out of nine.

Trailing 7-0 at the half, Detroit, runnerup in the Western Conference, went ahead 10-7 in the third period on a 5-yard touchdown run by Nick Pietrosante and a field goal and conversion by Jim Martin. The Browns, who finished second in the Eastern race, tied it at 10-10 before Ken Webb scored the decisive touchdown on a plunge in the last quarter.

Cleveland's other touchdown also came on a pass by Plum, a [illegible]-yard toss to Rich Kreitling.

After a scoreless first quarter of hardhitting defense, Jimmy Brown, the NFL's leading rusher, led Cleveland on an 81-yard touchdown drive in which he accounted for [illegible].

Before [illegible] the Browns drove to the Detroit [illegible]. Bill Glass knocked the ball from Plum's hand on a pass and Alex Karras intercepted at the [illegible].

Jim Steffen of the Lions almost got away twice on punt returns. On the first, after picking up a screen of blockers, he stumbled and fell. On the second, he sped 48 yards to the Cleveland 28, then attempted to lateral to Martin as a trap closed in. The toss was wild, but Martin recovered the ball.

Detroit boomed 76 yards with the second half kickoff, tying the score at 7-7. Pietrosante's running sparked the drive, which he capped from the 5.

Then Lowe intercepted a pass and raced 44 yards to the Cleveland 12, setting up Martin's field goal that put the Lions ahead 10-7.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Baker booted a 27-yard field goal, tying it again, after Cleveland had moved from its own 36 to the Detroit 20 on Plum's sharp passing to Mitchell.

Webb's last quarter touchdown capped a 57-yard drive.

AFL To Talk Of Expansion At Meeting

DALLAS (AP) — There will be talk of expansion but whether the American Football League will take in some new members at its annual meeting in Houston next week is quite problematical, Commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday.

Foss said despite the expansion of professional football from 12 to 22 teams within the past year there remains a strong backing of U.S. cities [illegible] for an AFL franchise.

"Expansion will be discussed," said the commissioner, "but its place on the agenda will not be higher than any of a half dozen other items."

Foss said he anticipated a quiet meeting.

Although there have been reports of the Los Angeles Chargers shifting to San Diego, Foss said "as far as I know, there is nothing definite."

The meeting is scheduled to open Thursday morning.

Minor changes in playing rules and playing schedules are among items to be taken up.

Winnepeg After Northwestern QB

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Ara Parseghian of Northwestern said Saturday quarterback Dick Thornton is being tempted to quit school to [illegible] the Winnipeg Blue Bombers and join the Canadian Big Four pro football team next season.

"They have made him a very attractive, concrete offer," Parseghian said.

He added that the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League have encouraged Thornton to take advantage of his final year of eligibility as a collegian before signing a pro contract.

Parseghian said Thornton has told him he will make a decision in another week.

Both the Cardinals and Dallas of the American League picked Thornton in the recent player drafts.

Snyder Injured

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Larry Snyder, 64, Ohio State track coach who also headed the U.S. Olympic track squad, was injured early Saturday when his car hit a guard rail on the Ohio Turnpike. He was listed in a fair condition at a hospital here.

Snyder, en route to the NCAA coaches meetings in Pittsburgh, suffered facial cuts and a possible chest injury.

West Choice In 15th Hula Classic Today

Coach Jim Owens, whose Huskies smashed national champion Minnesota 17-7 in the Rose Bowl, is counting on the passing ot Washington's Bob Schloredt for victory in the All-Star game, which is expected to draw between 18,000 and 20,000 fans.

Owens also has All-America center Roy McKasson, halfback George Fleming, tackle Kurt Gegner and guard Chuck Allen from his Rose Bowl team.

Owens has indicacted he will start Schloredt, Fleming, Keith Lincoln of Washington State and Bill Kilmer of UCLA in the backfield. Kilmer, a tailback, led the nation in total offense.

Coach Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame, who directed the East to a 7-0 victory in the Shrine game in San Francisco, is relying on Tom Matte, Ohio State quarterback, to offset the passing wizardry of Schloredt. Matte was voted the outstanding back in the East-West Shrine game.

In the starting backfield with Matte will be Tom Mason of Tulane, Tom Weisner of Wisconsin and Herb Adderley of Michigan State. That's the same quartet Kuharich used in the Shrine game.

Kuharich has made one shift in his forward wall, moving All-America tackle Ken Rice of Auburn to guard. His line will include two other All-Americas, Tom Brown, Minnesota guard, and Mike Ditka, Pitt end.

The West is not without its All-America linemen. Danny LaRose of Missouri will start at end, and Bob Lilly of Texas Christian will open at tackle.

Minoso Says He Expects No Hitch In Return

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnie Minoso, Cuban outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, expects no hitch in returning to the United States, he told the Chicago American by phone from Havana Saturday.

Minoso said he plans to be in Chicago Jan. 15 to be honored as Chicago's player of the year at the annual baseball writers' banquet.

"I don't think Premier Castro will prevent any Cuban players from going to the United States to play next season," Minoso said. "As far as I know, all we need is a visa from the United States.

"Naturally, I can't really guarantee that we will be able to go. It all depends on what happens between now and March."

There has been speculation that Cuban players might have trouble leaving for the United States since the breakdown in Cuban-U.S. diplomatic relations.

Road House Captures Old Hickory 'Cap

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Road House, a dark brown colt owned by Roger Wilson and Earl Allen, bounced into the lead at the head of the stretch Saturday and withstood two furious late challenges to win the $10,000 Old Hickory handicap at the Fair Grounds.

Road House was three-quarters of a length in front of Mrs. Joe Brown's Tenacious at the finish line with W. Hal Bishop's Pete's Folly taking the showspot.

Road House was the third choice of the 11,025 fans. He ran the mile-and-one-sixteenth in 1:46 and four-fifths, a shade more than three seconds off the track record.

Jockey Sandino Hernandez, winning his third race of the day, held Road House third in the seven-horse field for the first mile. Pete Anderson's First Money and Angpet's Farms' Spy Greeny battled for the lead until the field swung for home.

Hernandez steered Road House down the middle of the track as Jockey Clarence Meaux had Tenacious running in full cry on the outside, and jockey Robert Nonothreaded his way through on the rail aboard Pete's Folly.

The three battled the last 100 yards with Road House holding on to his narrow margin. Tenacious, second choice in the race, paid $5 and $2.40, and Pete's Folly, the 3-2 favorite with running mate Santiago, returned $2.20.

This was the first start of 1961 for Road House who won $20,000 for his owner's last year.

RUNNER-UP BOWL

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Dick Lane crashed through and blocked Sam Baker's fourth period extra-point kick to save a 17-16 victory for the Detroit Lions over the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League's inaugural Runner-Up Bowl game Saturday.

The rush job by the Lions' defensive halfback barred Cleveland's bid for a tie after scoring on an 89-yard pass from Milt Plum to Bob Mitchell.

A shirtsleeved crowd of 34,891 saw the massive Detroit team continue its domination of Cleveland. The Lions now have beaten Cleveland eight times out of nine.

Trailing 7-0 at the half, Detroit, runner-up in the Western Conference, went ahead 10-7 in the third period on a 5-yard touchdown run by Nick Pietrosante and a field goal and conversion by Jim Martin. The Browns, who finished second in the Eastern race, tied it at 10-10 before Ken Webb scored the decisive touchdown on a plunge in the last quarter.

Cleveland's other touchdown also came on a pass by Plum, a 9-yard toss to Rich Kreitling.

After a scoreless first quarter of hard-hitting defense, Jimmy Brown, the NFL's leading rusher, led Cleveland on an 81-yard touchdown drive in which he accounted for 56 yards.

Before halftime, the Browns drove to the Detroit 9, but Bill Glass knocked the ball from Plum's hand on a pass and Alex Karras intercepted at the 12.

Jim Steffen of the Lions almost got away twice on punt returns. On the first, after picking up a screen of blockers, he stumbled and fell. On the second, he sped 48 yards to the Cleveland 28, then attempted to lateral to Martin as a trap closed in. The toss was wild, but Martin recovered the ball.

Detroit boomed 76 yards with the second half kickoff, tying the score at 7-7. Pietrosante's running sparked the drive, which he capped from the 5.

Then Lowe intercepted a pass and raced 44 yards to the Cleveland 12, setting up Martin's field goal that put the Lions ahead 10-7.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Baker booted a 27-yard field goal, tying it again, after Cleveland had moved from its own 36 to the Detroit 20 on Plum's sharp passing to Mitchell.

Webb's last quarter touchdown capped a 57-yard drive.

Winnepeg After Northwestern QB

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Ara Parseghian of Northwestern Saturday said quarterback Dick Thornton is being tempted to quit school by the Winnepeg Blue Bomers and join the Canadian Big Four pro football team next season.

"They have made him a very attractive, concrete offer," Parseghian said.

He added that the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League have encouraged Thornton to take advantage of his final year of eligibility as a collegian before signing a pro contract.

Parseghian said Thornton has told him he will make a decision in another week.

Both the Cardinals and Dallas, of the American League, picked Thornton in the recent player drafts.

AFL To Talk Of Expansion At Meeting

DALLAS (AP)—There will be talk of expansion but whether the American Football League will take in some new members at its annual meeting in Houston next week is quite problematical, Commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday.

Foss said despite the expansion of professional football from 12 to 22 teams within the past year there remains a strong backlog of U.S. cities still bidding for an AFL franchise."

"Expansion will be discussed," said the commissioner, "but its place on the agenda will not be higher than any of a half dozen other items."

Foss said he anticipated a quiet meeting.

Although there have been reports of the Los Angeles Chargers shifting to San Diego, Foss said "as far as I know, there is nothing definite."

The meeting is scheduled to open Thursday morning.

Minor changes in playing rules and playing schedules are among items to be taken up.

A GUESSING GAME

Air Force Won't Give Space Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Don't ask the Air Force where space begins.

Other people can play this space age guessing game if they want to, but the Air Force sees no profit in it.

In a pamphlet recently distributed here, it says:

"Space—the expanse (perhaps limitless) which surrounds the celestial bodies of the universe—cannot be precisely defined . . . no one can say, except arbitrarily, where the air ends and space begins in relation to earth."

MANY KINDS

As the Air Force sees it, there are many different kinds of space. How you define them depends how you intend to use them or what characteristics of space you're interested in.

Space below 20 miles has a lot of molecules in it and is a good medium for airplanes to fly in. Space 120 miles up has relatively few molecules and hence is better for satellites, which can't tolerate much air drag.

Since the Air Force operates in both regimes it considers that "air and space form an indivisible operational medium, a continuum best described as aerospace."

Space satellites can't stay in orbit long at altitudes under 100 miles—the altitude at which the Mercury astronauts will ride—some students have proposed that as an arbitrary limit.

But if space begins only where nothing earthly remains, the 100-mile limit is scientifically invalid. The earth's ionosphere is believed to extend out about 1,000 miles.

The outermost of the Van Allen radiation belts reaches a peak altitude of 40,000 to 50,000 miles.

The Pioneer V sun satellite found evidence that the earth's magnetic field arches out about 52,000 miles.

Swiss Accept U.S.-Cuba Role

HAVANA (AP) — Switzerland took over protection of U.S. interests in Cuba Friday night and the last remaining American Embassy staff people made ready to leave for home.

A short conference between Swiss Ambassador Walter Bossi and U.S. Charge d'Affaires Daniel M. Braddock of Grand Rapids, Mich., preceded the formal transfer of diplomatic powers.

Bossi went to the U.S. Embassy to arrange details after being advised Washington had approved Red Czechoslovakia to represent Cuban interests in the United States. Cuban approval of Switzerland was contingent on U.S. approval of Czechoslovakia.

Kennedy Eyes Soviet Emissary

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy is believed to be considering sending a special emissary to see Soviet Premier Khrushchev. The emissary would sound out whatever ideas Khrushchev may have for improving Soviet-American relations.

The mission to Moscow presumably would be assigned to former New York Gov. W. Averell Harriman, whom Kennedy named a week ago to be his ambassador-at-large.

U.S. Monopoly Action Is Taken

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A federal grand jury reported Friday it had found evidence of an illegal monopoly in the $28 million-a-year newspaper color comic supplement printing industry.

The Justice Department promptly filed a civil anti-trust suit in federal district court to enjoin six defendants from continuing the alleged monopolistic practices.

Named in the action were Greater Buffalo Press, Inc., of Buffalo; Hearst Corp. of New York as operator of King Features Syndicate; Newspaper Enterprise Association of Cleveland, Ohio, a subsidiary of the E. W. Scripps Co. of Cincinnati; International Color Printing Co. of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Southwest Color Printing Corp. of Lufkin, Tex., and Dixie Color Printing Corp. of Sylacauga, Ala.

Here we are, one week into a whole New Year. And how are YOUR resolutions holding up?

For the MIKE PICKETTS, 1961 means new home, new schools, new country. They leave this week for Burlington, Ontario, Canada.

Among the parties given for them prior to their departure was a coffee hour honoring Mary Frances on Wednesday morning. VIRGINIA WARNER and CHARLOTTE DENT were hostesses in the Warner home between ten and twelve. White roses in a silver bonbon box decorated the mantel; on the table were lemons and Jo d'Arc balls arranged with variegated carnations in a footed copper container. VERA HOWELL and JAYNE PEARCE alternated at the copper coffee [illegible] Others who assisted were LILLIE SMITH, FRANCES MC[illegible] and MARIE COOKSTON. About thirty friends called.

Tuesday at noon, [illegible] entertained at [illegible] home. Her table was centered with white chrysanthemums, while cranberry crystal and blue china completed the appointments. There were six guests.

Last night's meeting of the [illegible] club [illegible] supper party [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] Hawaii, cheeses from Wisconsin, and olives from California as appetisers; Texas tamale pie, Virginia ham, Louisiana shrimp salad, Mississippi okra, and Iowa corn relish for supper; Alaska refrigerator cake and Alabama pecan pie for dessert.

Last weekend we enjoyed the interesting phenomenon of one Saturday night followed by two Sundays. After celebrating New Year's Eve Saturday night, we had the first of 1961 on Sunday and again on Monday, when bowl games were played and most business establishments remained closed.

FRANKIE and RUDY CANNON entertained with open house in their new home on Parkwood boulevard Saturday night. Frankie chose for her party an [illegible] of peacock blue [illegible] Governor Mouton camellias were used in the living room, and on the refreshment table, which was set up in the family room. Single camellia blossoms were tied to the silver candlesticks at each side of the silver [illegible] centering the table. About [illegible] couples called between [illegible] and ten.

Several hundred persons attended a New Year's Eve supper dance at the Lotus Club. The Gatlin combo played for dancing in the club's main lounge. Roast beef dinner was served from a buffet table in the library.

[illegible] Stacy and his Dixieland Sextet played for Bayou DeSiard country club's party. Clusters of balloons decorated the ballroom for the occasion, and dozens of balloons, confetti, and serpentine were released at midnight. About two hundred couples attended.

Preceeding this dance, ELLEN and CYRIL YANCEY invited a few friends to an early - evening party. The group went to Bayou DeSiard together from the Yancey's.

Gremlins decorated the playrooms at the E. A. PORTERS, JR., for their watch party Saturday night. Tiny figures of wee leprechauns (for luck, we hope), swung from branches and peeped from behind lamps. Chestnuts were served hot from an open fire. On the buffet were set out barbecued venison, baked ham, and crab and onion dips. After midnight, breakfast was served with sparkling burgundy to eighteen guests.

Sunday afternoon the RALPH RAPHAELS and the MORT RAPHAELS entertained at New Year's open house in the latter's home. For the party, Carol was wearing a black and white silk print, and Anna chose grey organza. The dining table was covered with an exquisite holiday cloth of bronze net appliqued with white, gold, and green bells and sequins. Centerpiece was a large amber champagne glass holding a tall arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and gold foliage. About one hundred eighty guests called between three and seven.

Neighbors and a few intimate friends were invited to the BOB BRIGHTS New Year's afternoon. Gilded fresh foliage and red berries flanked with red candles centered the refreshment table. Charlotte served coffee and "finger food" to those who called late Sunday.

It's a family party on New Year's when MAE and T. H. HARPER entertain at dinner celebrating their own birthdays and those of BAILEY GRANT and C. R. TIDWELL. Roast beef is featured with black - eyed peas (of course), chop suey, asparagus casserole, and a choice of two congealed salads: avocado with shrimp sauce or raspberry and cream cheese. For dessert the choice is jam cake or chocolate cake to accompany boiled custard.

On Monday it was New Year's all over again. Several bowl-game - watching parties were held during the afternoon. At the BENTON WAKEFIELDS, JR., guests came for buffet luncheon before kick - off time. Yellow chrysanthemums and brown magnolia leaves were used on the dining table and on the buffet which was set up in the den. Cindy served prime rib roast with baked beans, a congealed salad, tray with bell peppers and pickle relish, and hot brandied fruit with ice box cookies.

One of the traditional New Year's get togethers is that at the ED SEYMOURS, when friends bring a "covered dish" and settle down to an all - day buffet. Ladies play bridge and men hang over television sets throughout the afternoon. About forty attend this party.

Turkey smoked by the host himself, twenty - six hours over a slow fire, was high point of the menu at the JACK TOM JACKSONS Monday. Sixteen guests were invited to share the festive bird, black eyed peas, and molded grapefruit salad before watching the games.

Guests drifted in and out throughout the afternoon at the MAC BALLARDS. Lodie set up a cold buffet table featuring turkey, ham and shrimp. Centerpiece was a candlestick - epergne filled with artificial fruit.

A complete change from holiday foods was the menu served Monday night at the JACK MADDENS. A few friends gathered to watch the games and then were treated to Mexican supper: hot tamales, chili, and tossed salad. Fresh strawberry shortcake was served for dessert.

For today's poem, Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Sleep":

Of all the thoughts of God that are
Borne inward into souls afar
Along the Psalmist's music deep,
Now tell me if that any is
For gift or grace surpassing this,
"He giveth His beloved sleep"?

What would we give to our beloved?
The hero's heart to be unmoved,
The poet's star - tuned harp to sweep,
The patriot's voice to teach and rouse,
The monarch's crown to light the brows? —
He giveth His beloved sleep.

What do we give to our beloved?
A little faith all undisproved,
A little dust to overweep,
And bitter memories to make
The whole earth blasted for our sake:
He giveth His beloved sleep.

And friends, dear friends, when it shall be
That this low breath is gone from me,
And round my bier ye come to weep,
Let one most loving of you all
He giveth His beloved sleep."

MRS. SIDNEY VERNON WORTHY

Miss McLane Is Bride Of Mr. Worthy

Poinsettias and greenery formed a setting in St. Thomas Catholic church at Ruston, for the wedding of Miss Kathryn Janet McLane and Sidney Vernon Worthy, solemnized Wednesday, December 27. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. McLane of Ruston, and Mr. Worthy is the son of Mrs. Walter Worthy and the late Mr. Worthy of Jackson.

The Reverend Donald Parks officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony at the altar which was entwined with white chrysanthemums, gladioli and fern against a background of candles, poinsettias and greens. Music was provided by Miss Marie Smith, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory pure silk taffeta and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The basque bodice and Sabrina neckline were appliqued with lace and long tapering sleeves came to points over her wrists. Folds of taffeta formed the back of her full skirt which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Jerry Fraser of Shreveport, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, and the bridesmaid was Miss Sandra Woodward of Dallas, Texas. They wore gowns of green silk organza over satin with bell shaped skirts. Green satin roses accented the empire waists and they wore matching slippers. Their headpieces were of green satin leaves with brief veils and they carried talisman roses.

Flower girls were Misses [illegible] and Colleen Fraser, nieces of the bride, who wore green satin princess style dresses, with matching crowns and carried baskets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Best man was Walter [illegible] Worthy of Pearl River, Miss., brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were James Milton Brown of Lake Charles, Pat McLane, brother of the bride, Kenneth G. Carlton, Joe Henry Baughman of Farmerville and Warren Taylor Price of Jackson.

Mrs. Robert L. Watt greeted guests at the door and Miss Ann Dodson and Miss Katy Jenkins alternated at the guest book. A white imported cutwork cloth covered the bride's table, which was centered by a similar [illegible] branched candelabra holding white tapers, with the bride's bouquet placed at the base. The tiered wedding cake and punch bowl at opposite ends of the table were encircled with flowers.

Alternating at the cake service were Mrs. James Zeagler and Mrs. Allen Guthrie and presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. Walter Worthy and Mrs. Pat McLane. Assisting were Mrs. Marvin Steen, Mrs. I. F. Garrett, Mrs. Robert Wynn, Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mrs. Bill Morton, Miss Dorothy Watt, Miss Sara Watt and Mrs. Ken Caldwell. Rice bags were distributed by Misses Pat Fraser, Karen Worthy and Julia Worthy.

For a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the bride changed to a [illegible] blue wool ensemble with blue feather hat and matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They will make their home in New Orleans where Mr. Worthy is attending the L. S. U. School of Medicine. Mrs. Worthy is a teacher in the New Orleans public schools.

Mr. and Mrs. B[illegible] of Monroe were among the out of town guests.

Couple Plans January 29 Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Nelson of Crosby, Miss., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Lea to Robert Lee Blackford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Blackford, Russellville, Ark.

Miss Nelson is a graduate of Crosby high school and Capital City Business college of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Dardanelle high school in Russellville and Arkansas Polytechnic College there. He is employed at present in Little Rock.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, January 29 at 2 p.m. in the Crosby Methodist church. A reception will follow at the Shamrock Inn in Crosby.

Last night's meeting of their couples' card club became a farewell supper party for the Picketts. A red, white, and blue theme was carried out, with American, Confederate, and Canadian flags in evidence. The dining table was covered with a white cloth with a wide blue ribbon runner. Red and white striped camellias were used in the centerpiece, which was flanked by red, white, and blue candles in star - shaped holders.

The All - American menu featured hors d'oeuvres from Hawaii, cheeses from Wisconsin, and olives from California as appetisers; Texas tamale pie, Virginia ham, Louisiana shrimp salad, Mississippi okra, and Iowa corn relish for supper; Alaska refrigerator cake and Alabama pecan pie for dessert.

John Roumain Peters Jr., Bride Take Nassau Trip

Solemnized in Grace Episcopal Church of Monroe, on December 26 was the wedding of Miss Sandra Vaughn and John Roumain Peters Jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Vaughn, Alpine, Michigan, and Mr. Peters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Roumain Peters Sr., Atlanta, Georgia, and the grandson of Mrs. John J. Potts of Monroe, and the late Mr. Potts.

The Rev. A. Donald Davies oficiated at the double ring ceremony, solemnized at 3 p.m. Red poinsettias formed a background for the bridal party.

Jerry McSpadden, church organist, presented a program of nuptial music, including the traditional wedding marches.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Mr. Peters, father of the bridegroom. She wore a waltz-length gown of white taffeta, fashioned with three - quarter sleeves and a panel of tiny tucks, outlined with passementerie accented the basque bodice. Inverted pleats formed the full skirt and her fingertip veil cascaded from a taffeta coronet. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Joseph Merrick Jones Jr., of New Orleans, served as matron of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore an afternoon frock of emerald green taffeta, with matching flower headdress and carried white blossoms.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was his brother, Benjamin Maxwell Peters.

Following the exchange of vows a reception for family members and a few close friends was held at the Lotus Club. Seasonal appointments decorated the reception room.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Nassau, the bride was wearing a plaid walking suit with black accessories.

Mrs. Peters was graduated from the University of Michigan and is presently teaching in California, until end of the current term. Mr. Peters was graduated from Yale and served three years with the U. S. Navy in the Pacific. A member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, he is at present attending Tulane law school in New Orleans, where the couple plans to establish a home.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Merrick Jones Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Peck Haynes, of New Orleans; Mr. Paul Lansing of St. Louis, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Yerger, and Maxwell Yerger Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Rufus T. Yerger and Rufus Yerger Jr., all of Tallulah; Mr. and Mrs. George S. Yerger, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Yerger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yerger, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Yerger, Mr. and Mrs. William Yerger, Miss Eloise Yergr and Miss Dorothy Yerger, all of Mound.

St. Claire Hayden Becomes Bride Of James F. D'Wolf

Miss St. Claire Hayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Eugene Hayden Jr., of Shreveport, exchanged wedding vows with James Francis D'Wolf, Wilmington, Delaware, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Francis D'Wolf, White Plains, New York, on December 31 at 4 p.m. in St. Mark's Episcopal church at Shreveport.

The Rev. J. Lawrence Plumley performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of large white chrysanthemums and cathedral tapers in branched candelabra on the altar.

Bridesmaids, who were dressed in identical fashion as the maid of honor, were Miss Dorothy D'Wolf, Miss Mary Ellen D'Wolf, Mrs. George R. Neck, Mrs. L. E. Hayden III, Mrs. William deGraffenried Hayden and Mrs. Y. K. J. Gronquist. The attendants' headdresses were red velvet rings with cloche veils and they all carried wreaths of holly with flowing green ribbons.

Lawrence J. Munzenmaier served as best man for Mr. D'Wolf and groomsmen were L. E. Hayden III, Dr. William deGraffenried Hayden, George Allen Kimball, James R. Williams, The Rev. James F. D'Wolf and Dr. Y. K. J. Gronquist.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held in the Junior League House, bedecked for the occasion with holiday greens of holly, smilax and emerald trees, against a background of tall candelabra holding white tapers.

The tiered wedding cake, topped with pearl - encrusted satin bells, was served with punch from a table in the dining room, covered with a cutwork cloth over white satin. Miss Elizabeth Cook greeted guests at the door and Mrs. Betty Paul Bigner and Mrs. J. F. D'Wolf alternated at the punch bowl. Serving the cake were Mrs. Ben Short, Mrs. Dan Mahony, Miss Lynn Hancock and Mrs. Sidney Williams.

When the couple left later in the evening for a wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride was wearing an ivory silk suit with hat of floral design in pale green, with matching green accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home at 1246 Riverside, Wilmington, Delaware.

The bride is a graduate of Byrd High School, Sweet Briar College, Virginia and Middlebury College, Vermont. Mr. D'Wolf graduated from White Plains High School, Harvard University, Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., and is a member of Phi L Upsilon fraternity.

Among the out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. John L. Morrison, William C. Morrison, Miss Judy Gremillion from New Roads, La., Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kimball, Lake Charles, Mr. and Gunby, Miss Olive Gunby, Mrs. E. K. Flournoy, Miss Sallie Humble and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fluck, all of Monroe.

MRS. WILLIAM DANIEL O'NEAL

Rev. W. D. O'Neal, Bride Plan Home In Baton Rouge

Vows uniting Dorothy Campbell Ulmer and Reverend William Daniel O'Neal, both of Baton Rouge, were solemnized Sunday, December 25 at 7 p.m. in Alabama Presbyterian Church at Sibley, eight miles north of Choudrant.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell of Biloxi, Miss., and Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Loyd O'Neal of Ruston.

Focal point of the church decorations was an open Bible on the pulpit, marked with a white carnation, tied with satin streamers. Floor baskets of white gladioli, stock and pompons at either side were interspersed with branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. S. E. McFadden at the piano. Selections included "He Shall Feed His Flock" by Handel; "Angels' Serenade" by Braga; "O Perfect Love" by Barnby and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," by Matheson.

For her wedding the bride wore a lace ensemble shaded from beige to toast, over beige satin. The jacket featured a cowl collar and three quarter sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching velvet bandeau and she carried a bouquet of white split carnations, clusters of seed pearls and satin leaves surrounding a yellow-throated white orchid.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gilbert Mills of Zachary, wore an emerald green brocade dress with scoop neckline, elbow sleeves and back fullness in the skirt. She wore a matching satin head bandeau and slippers and carried a bouquet of red carnations, encircled with holly leaves.

John A. O'Neal of Choudrant, served as best man and ushers were Loyd C. Gill Jr. of Fairbanks and Ray Talley of Baton Rouge.

RECEPTION

A reception honoring the couple was held at 8:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Westminster Center in Ruston. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. O'Neal of Fairbanks greeted guests at the door and in the receiving line with the bridal couple, were the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. D. L. O'Neal, his aunt, Miss Bernice O'Neal and the matron of honor.

The bridegroom's mother wore a sheath of ice blue bark crepe with small flower hat, shoes and gloves to match. Her corsage was a purple orchid.

The reception rooms were decorated with poinsettias, red berries, greenery and baskets of white flowers and white candles. At one end of the bride's table was a silver candelabra holding lighted tapers rising from a crescent arrangement of peppermint carnations, glittered white net, white feathers and holly. A swag of red velvet fell to the base where nestled sprays of holly and red berries. The tiered wedding cake placed on a reflector, was encircled with tulle ruffles and decorated with roses, valley lily, wedding bells and net butterflies. Mrs. Joe Stewart of Monroe, served the cake.

Mrs. L. C. Gill Sr. of Fairbanks served punch from another table, where the silver bowl was encircled with peppermint carnations. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Roy Talley, Mrs. C. R. Thompson Jr., and Mrs. W. M. Clark of Tallulah. Others in the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Duchesne, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Denny and the Reverend and Mrs. J. W. Lipscomb. Mrs. John A. O'Neal of Choudrant, had charge of the guest book.

Out - of - town guests from the Monroe area were Mrs. Howard Hunter, Miss Margaret Anne Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Matthewes and Joe Stewart, all of Monroe; Miss Charlotte Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. Frank O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. O'Neal of Delhi; Mr. and Mrs. Vane Brazil and L. C. Gill Sr., of Fairbanks; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rosenzweig and Paul Rosenzweig Jr., Lake Providence; W. M. Clark and Miss Patti Clark of Tallulah.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, Texas, the bride changed to a sky blue suit with cerulean mink collar, navy accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet.

The Reverend William D. O'Neal is pastor of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church of Baton Rouge and upon their return the couple will be at home in the church manse, 9525 Woodbine Avenue in Baton Rouge.

"Dear Eunice,

"Is there some magic stitch that I can use so the end of the facing doesn't show where I have hand sewn it to my dress?"

Mrs. I.G.H.

Dear Mrs. I.G.H.:

The lower end of the facing should NOT be hand stitched to your dress. If you have understiched your facing at the neckline, (this is really very important), the facing will never creep up the neckline. This also means that it will not have to be completely sewed down around the lower edge. Simply tack the lower edge of the facings to any of your seams, such as shoulder seams, etc. This will sufficiently hold the facing in place. Those tiny stitches you refer to will only give your garment a "home-made" look.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I thought perhaps your fans would like to know how I save your columns. I cut each question apart and paste them onto a small file card. These are placed in an old recipe file and I mark the divider cards COLLARS, SLEEVES, HEMS, ETC. In this way, your helpful hints are at my finger tips when I need them and I don't have to go through a stack of columns."

Your Sewing Fan.

SEAMS DEFINED

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"Please tell me the difference between a "slotted seam" and a "welt" seam. I have seen both terms used in describing ready-made clothes.

Mrs. G.J.

Dear Mrs. G.J.:

These are both decorative seam finishes. A slotted seam is a part of the seam left open and either matching or contrasting fabric is placed under this opening.

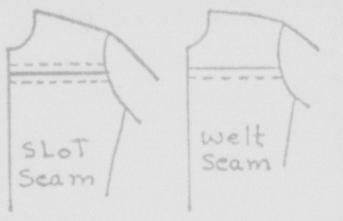
When making either of these decorative seams, allow extra width to your seam when cutting the garment out. Your seams should be about 1" wide in these areas.



SLOT SEAM: The part of the seam that you desire to have this decorative detail should be machine basted with the largest stitch of your machine. Press this seam open and place a 1 ½" strip of the same fabric or contrasting fabric under this area. From the right side of your garment, machine stitch ¼" to ½" on each side of the seam. This could also be hand - picked if desired. Now remove the machine basting and you will have a very attractive detail.

WELT SEAM: Machine stitch on the regular seam line. Press both edges of your seam in one direction. Now machine stitch from the right side of your garment, any distance from the seamline that is desired. This is usually ⅝" to ¾" from the seamline.

Please send all questions to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Indoor Grill

It's hard to beat the outdoor barbecue as a means of serving a lot of friends with a minimum of fuss. But you don't have to give up this convenience merely because winter's on its way. Move your grill indoors. The basement recreation room is a favorite location. Main things you'll need are: a vent hood with fan to carry away the smoke, and a fireproof flooring that's easy to keep clean, such as quarry tile or porcelain pavers.

MRS. EUGENE OUCHLEY

Miss Wilbanks Becomes Bride Of Mr. Ouchley

Peniel Baptist Church of West Monroe was the scene of a double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Sharon Wilbanks of West Monroe and Eugene Ouchley of Farmerville on December 23. Rev. W. R. Dowden performed the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of M. L. Wilbanks of West Monroe, and the late Mrs. Wilbanks. Parents of Mr. Ouchley are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ouchley of Farmerville.

An arch entwined with southern smilax and white carnations formed a background for the exchange of vows. Flanking the altar were two wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers and two fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli.

A program of nuptial music was presented by the pianist, Miss Judy Aulds, who also accompanied Donald Clowers as he sang "O Promise Me," and "Always."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor - length gown of white satin. The fitted bodice of satin was overlaid with embroidered lace and featured long sleeves which tapered to petal points at the wrists, and fastened with tiny covered buttons. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell in tiers from a tiara of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered with a purple - throated white orchid, atop a white Bible.

Miss Barbara Bates, wearing a gown of pink taffeta and chiffon, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kay Wink and Miss Patsy Childress, who wore identical dresses of pink brocade. All attendants wore velvet headbands and carried identical bouquets of pink carnations, nestled in tufts of pink net.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was his brother - in-law, Orville Lewis. Groomsmen were Wayne Roberts and Donnie Mann. Ushers, who also served as candlelighters, were Douglas Wink and Randall Wilbanks.

Mrs. Ouchley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink feathered carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the reception room of the church. The bride's table was covered with pink satin overlaid with a white cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of white carnations, pink statice and fern. At opposite ends were the punch bowl and three - tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Those who served at the reception were Mrs. Cecil Williamson, Mrs. L. M. Spikes, Mrs. Donnie Mann and Miss Carolyn Moore.

Mr. Ouchley gradauted from Farmerville High School and Mrs. Ouchley from West Monroe High School. She is presently attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

THE '61 CHEVY BRINGS JET-SMOOTH TRAVEL DOWN TO EARTH

Better just circle your dealer's block the first time you try a Jet-smooth '61 Chevy. Get anywhere near an open highway and he's liable never to see you again.

What we mean, Chevy's ride whets your yen to travel. Wins you over with its delightful coil-spring smoothness, its hushed comfort and light steering. You find yourself feeling sorry for people who buy higher priced cars, thinking they have to pay premium prices for a luxury ride.

That may have been true at one time, but not any more. Chevrolet's ride, its roadability, just doesn't take second place to anybody's. Drive one soon and see.

Garden Jobs Now At Hand

By MILDRED SWIFT

All the holidays are over. Now we can start to plan for doing those garden jobs that are necessary. January and February are our two important months for planting and transplanting trees and shrubs. They're the months we need to fertilize trees and shubs.

Some seed to plant in January are: Sweet Alyssum, Chinese forget - me - not, African golden daisy, Indian summer hollyhock, Dianthus pinks, arctotis, calendula, coreopsis, cornflower, gaillardia, larkspur, lobelia, blue salvia, scabiosa, verbena, Queen Anne's lace, Shirley poppy. Many of these you may have planted in the fall. You'll still get some bloom if you plant now.

BEDDING PLANTS

OTHERS

Bulbs, tubers, rhizomes that can be planted in January are: ginger lily, amaryllis, anemone, canna, rain lily, montbretia, crinim, pineapple lily, butterfly lily, daylily, Dutch hyacinth, Bulbous iris, Louisiana iris, liriope, oxalis.

GARDEN SUMMARY

Here is that garden summary I promised you. These are the shrubs and trees I've talked about during the past year that can be planted now. Of course, this isn't a complete list of all the plants suited to Ouachita Parish.

First let's talk about large and small trees.

Remember the tulip trees in the J. Q. Graves and V. S. Garnett yards? This grows about 50 feet high and blooms in April. The blooms are tulip shaped, chartreuse color with a speck of red orange in the center. They make beautiful corsages. The purple magnolia, often incorrectly called tulip tree, blooms in February. I called your attention to the one in the Scott Hamilton yard. You can buy the plants from local nurseries in pale lavender, deep purple, pink, white with pink tipped petals and magenta.

The gingko is one of our most beautiful fall trees because of the gold coloring of the leaves. There's one at the Robert Layton's and at Mrs. C. E. Faulk's home. The tallow tree is another pretty fall colored plant. Some people object to it because its a little messy like the pecan, which can also be planted now.

The mimosa with it's rose blooms is a must in every yard.

The eucalyptus is almost a must because of its gray green foliage that lends interest in the garden. Also because it is so lovely in arrangements and the foliage dries so well for later use.

Another small tree you'll want is the American holly. I enjoy my two so much because I always have holly for my friends at Christmas time. Remember when planting, snip every leaf if you want it to live.

The star magnolia is the first of that family to bloom each year. The blooms are small and star shaped, and Mrs. B. B. Evans says it needs lot of moisture. It, also, needs semi - shade. This plant can be bought at the local nurseries, now.

In summer when we have so little bloom the crepe myrtles come to our rescue. There's a new pale pink one that looks like pink ice cream. Mrs. Alan Sholars was the first to plant this new variety in Monroe.

The pearl bush blooms in February, the dogwoods just a little later. The pink and white crabapple are so beautiful and so little trouble. A white mist of blooms is the fringe tree (grandaddy gray beard). Red buds are rewarding for the small amount of care they take. They have a short life, though.

Remember the wisteri can be a vine or tree. Just keep it pruned for tree effect. The black locust is an attractive tree if you have a large area to plant. They rather take over the place though. You remember there were so many in bloom on the Ruston highway last spring.

This is only a partial list. I'll be reminding you of others as the weeks pass.

POISONOUS PLANTS

Every year at this time I have requests to repeat the list of poisonous plants we usually grow in our gardens. Most of these are dangerous only if eaten in large quantities. Any part of the oleander is poisonous, yet people aren't likely to eat them. Just don't use the stems for roasting weiners.

Castor bean seed are poisonous, but I've never heard of a person becoming ill from them. After all, who goes around chewing castor bean seed? Also, all parts of the larkspur are poisonous, especially the seed. Since these seed are quite expensive, we're not likely to eat them and I'm sure there will be no eating of the leaves and stems.

English Ivy leaves also contain a poison that will cause illness, but there's nothing about the leaf to make one want to chew on it, so here again — don't be alarmed.

Diffebachia and elephant's ear, when eaten, will cause swelling of the mouth and throat. We wouldn't advise making a salad of tung - nut, as one housewife did. She survived, but had a nice long sleep as a result.

Amaryllis and narcissus bulbs cause irritation if eaten by mistake, as do leaves and stems of angel's trumpet. Beware of mushrooms. Let the specialists gather these lest we get the wrong kind.

Justice Court Honored On Special Issue

The first commemorative stamp of 1961 to be issued by the United Nations Postal Administration will honor the International Court of Justice. It will be issued Feb. 13, 1961.

The design will feature a close-up of a hand holding the "scales of justice." In the background is the United Nations emblem. Beneath the illustration are the words "International Court of Justice."

The 4 center will be brown, black and yellow. The 8 center will be green, black and yellow. The design was the work of Kurt Plowitz of the U. N. Graphic Presentation and is another in the series of U. N. commemoratives depicting the work of the United Nations Specialized Agencies.

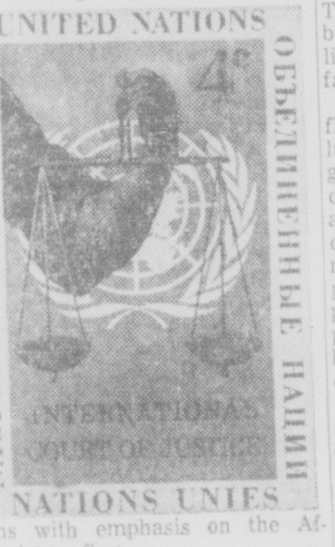
The Society of Philatelic Americans is opening a special department to meet the needs of the growing number of topical collectors. This new department will circulate among SPA members topical stamps entered by other members. This non-profit Society believes that collectors will be able to add to their topical collections at reasonable prices and can also dispose of their duplicates.

Afghanistan has issued two new semi-postals to honor the Red Cross. The 50 p plus 50 and 175 p plus 50 show an ambulance and Red Cross emblem. They come perforate and imperforate. Also issued by Afghanistan are two stamps paying tribute to the 15th anniversary of the United Nations. The design shows the world globe topped by the initials "UN" and the flags of the United Nations with emphasis on the Afghanistan flag.



For those collectors who specialize in Olympic Games stamps, a colorful new album for "1960 Olympic Games Stamps" has been added to the White Ace line. The pages are standard 8½ by 11 size with holes to fit a three-ring binder. It sells for $3.25 and can be purchased at your local stamp dealer.

Belgium has issued a six value set of stamps with surtax added for their anti-tuberculosis fund. This set depicts the arts and crafts of Belgium. The 40 c plus 10 shows tapestry, 1 Fr plus 50 c crystal, 2 r plus 50 c lace, 2.50 Fr plus 1 Fr metal crafts, 3 Fr plus 1 Fr diamonds, 6 Fr plus 2 Fr ceramics.

Curtain Call

By BB STRON

Our director, Richard Clark, and wife, Pat, spent the holidays in New York, and you guessed it — they spent most of their time seeing the broadway shows.

Among those they saw were "Bye Bye Birdie," "The Best Man," "My Fair Lady," "The Sound of Music," "Critic's Choice," "All the Way Home," "The Music Man," "A Taste of Honey," "The Miracle Worker," and "Becket."

They thought Anne Bancroft gave a wonderful performance in "The Miracle Worker," and thoroughly enjoyed Sir Lawrence Olivier in "Becket." They were especially impressed with the pageantry and costumes of this play.

Pat and Richard also took in some off - Broadway shows, too. They saw "The Zoo Story," "Krapp's Last Tape," "In the Jungle of Cities," and "The Mousetrap." They reported that "The Mousetrap," was one of the smoothest running of any of the shows that they saw.

REHEARSAL

Our own production of "The Mousetrap," is now in rehearsal. The cast is composed of five men tery melodrama by Agatha Christie, one of the foremost mystery writers of our time. The opening is planned during the first week and three women, and is a mys- in February.

W. J. Haddad, Curtis Rape, and Joe Wayne Johnson were in Dallas during the holidays to be in attendance at the showing of "The Music Man," presented by the national company. Nat Santora was dancing in this production, and you will remember that W. J. and Curtis were in our local production of "The Pajama Game," when Nat Santora did the choreography.

We extend our sympathy to the family and many friends of Joe Gifford, in his untimely death. Mr. Gifford was the director of the famous Marjorie Lyons Playhouse at Centenary College. He was certainly a friend of the Monroe Little Theatre in that he gave much of his time and consulted with our building committee in the planning stages of our new Strauss Memorial Playhouse.

There is always plenty of backstage work to be done during the rehearsal and run of a new play. So how about turning out and getting lined up with a job. We can always use you and you'll have fun, too.

Soldiers Stage Review For Ike

Recalling that he entered the Army 50 years ago and had been honored at many such ceremonies in the past, Eisenhower said: "This is the last review I shall ever receive in my life."

"In you and your sister services the United States has a shield no enemy dare attack or attempt to tear down," Eisenhower said.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Flowers Have Trade Mark

By MARY M. JARDINE

Happy New Year to you one and all. May we take this opportunity to thank our clubs and exhibitors for their loyal support of the Garden Center. Your splendid cooperation has made it possible for us to maintain our objectives. Keep up the good work.

LIKE BUTTERFLIES

All the flowers in the pea family have a distinctive trade mark. They look like alert butterflies. In fact, some people call it the butterfly family. A large flower group (over 5,000 species) it includes many plant superlatives.

The world's largest blossoming plant is a wisteria vine that grows in Sierra Madre, California. Supported by trellises and arbors, it spreads over an acre of land and weighs an estimated 225 tons. It was planted in 1892 and has been growing ever since. This wondrous plant is a Chinese wisteria, the species most commonly cultivated. American wisterias grow wild in southern and eastern states, climbing over trees and brush.

Among the most popular garden and cut flowers are the fragrant sweet peas. Their wild ancestors envolved in Sicily. An early monk wrote of their fragrance and soon was sending seeds throughout Europe in answer to requests. Since they came into cultivation some 250 years ago, 3,000 varieties have been noted, but only a few hundred are still in favor. The wavy - petaled Spencer type originated in the garden of the Earl of Spencer in 1901. Today there are myriad colors and types of sweet peas, but all are sweet smelling.

OFFICIAL FLOWER

The largest state in the union chose bluebonnets of the lupine tribe as its official flower. Texans claim these true - blue blossoms never cross the border to put a root in any other state. The flowers do resemble bonnets, but they also have the butterfly-like appearance typical of this family.

Some of the best known native flowers in America are the wild lupines. About 150 different kinds grow from coast to coast. Because they thrive in poor soil, ancients believed they robbed the earth in a "wolfish" way and named them for that beast of prey. In reality, members of the pea famiy help rather than deplete the soil. Many lupines have been brought into the garden for cultivation.

Early folk also believed that eating lupine seeds would cure black and blue marks. Some lupines do have value as food for animals, but others poison grazing stock. The name "sundial" is sometimes applied to lupines because their leaflets form a circle and move in response to the sun.

Our first brooms were twigs of the Scotch broom. They took their name from the plant. Brush cut off a plant for sweeping became the scrubbing "brush" of today. Though a native of Europe, Scotch broom has gone wild in parts of America. The garden variety has showier flowers than the smaller yellow blooms of its country kin. However, they both have the five irregular petals with the butterfly shape that characterizes the pea family. Scotch broom is a great favorite with the flower arrangers as a source of line material.

FLOWER SHOW

Mrs. Margaret Tichman intruduced 'Spring' into her arrangement by the use of paper - white narcissus. She used an inverted black tray on a pink tray for the base of her composition. A white rice bowl on a black base held the lovely triangle design of variegated pittosporum, narcissus and pine branches.

The narcissus were placed low in the design surrounded by pittosporum. Graceful curved branches of pine formed the outline of the triangle design. A white porcelain figure completed the composition. Mrs. August G. Danti used gold sprayed evergreens with a white madonna in her composition. The madonna was placeed in a gold sprayed bowl, forming backgorund. A cluster of magnolia leaves cenpaced low to one side of the madtered by a cluster og guballs were onna.

Mrs. Lislie G. Clark made two most interesting, long lasting compositions of dried and treated materials. Mrs. Clark used the Parabola Curve in her first design. The parabolic curve is a curved design attached to a vertical line design. The design was in shades of tan and light brown. In a tan cylinder container the vertical design was made of dried aspidistria leaves, sea oats, barley, branches of Japanese lanterns and grasses. The parabolic curve was made of stalks of grass seed.

Mrs. Clard used a brown wooden tray for her second composition. In this oval design brown glycerinized magnolia leaves formed the background for a cured artichoke which formed the focal area. The oval design was made by the curved branches of sago-palm (cycas revoluta) and dried green popcorn foliage. A pleasing design, rich in coloring, suitable for a paneled room.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

How To Keep Holly Green

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Your holly wreath will last on and on if you can put it into the bath tub and cover it completely with water every three or four days. Cut evergreens can be kept going, too, by skinning the stems a few inches and soaking them the same way.

Holly raised in the commercial holly nurseries will last a lot longer than the holly branches which we buy on the streets because the holly orchards are sprayed with a chemical which helps to prevent both leaves and berries from dropping off.

HOLLY ORCHARDS

Here and there over the southern states, commercial holly orchards are being planted. Special varieties which bear well and keep well are grown, and the Christmas holly industry employs a good number of people for several weeks before The Yuletide.

MANY BERRIES

Keep your own holly trees well fed. If the leaves are yellowish green instead of a good deep color, the trees are in need of fertilizer. Under such conditions, hollies will often produce a hugh crop of berries in some years when they are heavily pollinated by insects.

The leaves will then turn yellowish, and sometimes the trees will actually died. What happens is that the great effort which the trees undergo to make such a bumper crop of seeds robs the trees and even the leaves themselves of nitrogen, producing a "chlorotic" appearance.

FERTILIZE

If your holly trees or bushes are in such shape right now, you can fertilize them with dried chicken manure. Half a bushel scattered around a tree 10 feet high should help it some until spring. In some cases, the follage may even begin to green up a little. Hollies make several inches of root growth during the winter here in the south, and this early feeding may encourage root growth.

Some of the southern holly orchards fertilize in winter right after they have cut big crops of branches off their trees. Most people wait until growth has started and there is no danger of late freezes to kill back the new growth. This is the only danger in feeding in winter.

When spring comes, feed your holly tree by either scattering fertilizer around the tree at least as far as the shadow at noon or by the hole punching method. In heavy clay soils, the hole punching system shows better results. Use about one pound of 5-10 - 10 per diameter inch of the trunk of your tree. In about a month, feed with the same amount. Then, if the tree has not really responded, make a third feeding with chicken manure scattered over the surface. Water once a week. This last feeding should not be made much after the middle of July.

After your holly tree begins to bear well, too much fertilizer will give rise to long growths with berries way down where they can-not be seen well.

EXTENSION NEWS

Take Stock Around Home

By AUDREY DAWSON

January is a good time to take stock of home surroundings and to make needed improvements. Several questions should be considered in evaluating the landscape plan.

Are you getting full use of your home grounds or do large plants cover most of the space, leaving little or none for your family to live in and enjoy. Or on the other hand, do your home grounds seem rather bare. Good landscaping provides more gracious living for all the family. Landscape architects make a business of planning home grounds, and if the job is a big one, it would be wise to obtain the service of such professionals. However, if your budget is such that you fall into the "do it yourself class" you can get excellent ideas of what and where to plant by observing other well landscaped properties and by reading and studying all available information.

Overall unity is most important. Keep in mind the fact that you want to create interesting and useful spaces as sun from inside the house and from beyond the boundaries of the property.

We have bulletins in our office which will help you and you may have them by calling FA 3-2251 or come by our office at 704 Cypress, West Monroe, and look over the bulletins and select the ones which will help you. This is one of the services of your Agricultural Extension Service.

DISHWASHERS

A three-year study by the Department of Microbiology in the University of Louisville's School of Medicine compared dishes washed by hand (according to rules prescribed by the American Public Association) with dishes done in an automatic washer. The hand washed dishes and utensils often had more germs and viruses on them than the ones washed automatically. Some 74 per cent of the dishes and utensils washed automatically gave a bacteria count of zero, while the remaining 26 per cent were cleaner than public health standards.

BLOOD FATS

We have heard and read so much lately on the relation of blood fats to survival after a heart attack. Dr. Rubert Roe of Canada says that high levels of fat in the blood may be associated with heart disease but they are no indication of survival after a heart attack.

Men with high cholesteral levels were compared with men of the same age but low cholesteral levels. The survival rates were identical for the age matched groups. Once a heart attack occurs, Dr. Roe indicated, there is no relationship between survival and the concentration of fats in the blood.

JUST TALKING

What every woman knows has just been confirmed scientifically by Dr. Herman Hellerstein, director of Cleveland Heart Society Work Clinic. He proved that most jobs are a cinch compared to house work and here are figures to back up his statement. Calories used per minute in various activities as: shaving, dressing, driving a car — 2.5; gardening, golfing, walking briskly — 4 to 5; strenuous housework 6.6. Calories used per minute in various jobs as: clerks 1.6; factory workers, 2 and coal miners 4.3.

OVERWEIGHT

Did you or the members of your family gain just too many pounds during the holidays? Here are some suggestions from the American Medical Society if you're above your desired weight. You of course will have to cut down on your calorie intake, but not necessarily on the amount of food you eat. Just eat more low calorie foods and shun the gravies, creamed dishes, rich desserts, fried foods. Eat slowly and load up on fillers as carrot sticks, leafy vegetables, radishes and most fresh fruits.

A THOUGHT

When you talk, you only repeat what you already know — listen, you may learn something.

Winter Skin Care

Now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of their complexions! Icy winds and near-zero temperatues take their toll if not combatted by a sensible program of skin care.

This includes thorough drying after the daily bath or shower, particularly if you are going outdoors soon after. Hands should be protected from chapping by wearing gloves even when just going from one doorway to another. Each time you wash hands and face, finish by applying a bit of lotion, cream, or oil.

YAWL COME VISIT OUR MEMBER-OWNED ELECTRIC CO-OP

'It's good for town folks, too'

A drive down any country road will convince any skeptic of the worth of rural electrification to farmers.

That's just one proof of a pudding that's good for town folks too. Think what rural electrification has meant in terms of increased productivity, sales, business, jobs ... progress for Town and Country.

We want our urban friends to know that NOTHING HAS BEEN GIVEN TO COUNTRY FOLKS FOR RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ... that electric co-ops, indeed, have been good for all Louisianians.

Like millions of FHA and VA financed home-owners do, REA borrowers (and there are 21 private companies as compared to 13 co-ops in Louisiana) repay the loans on strict schedules, plus interest.

We want you to know these and other facts. Drop by the member-owned co-op's modern office for a visit ... or talk to any one of the thousands of satisfied co-op members.

You'll find electric co-ops are down-to-earth, private business enterprises in the finest American tradition.

Vows Unite Bettie Leckie, Robert Smith In Chatham

Vows uniting in marriage Miss Bettie Lula Leckie, Pine Bluff, Ark., and Robert Orr (Bob) Smith, also of Pine Bluff, were solemized December 31 at 2 p.m. in Chatham Baptist church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Leckie of Pine Bluff and Chatham, La., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith of Alligator, Miss.

Rev. S. W. Tulles, pastor of the church, and Rev. D. C. Tippen of Monroe, officiated at the double ring ceremony before the altar which was banked with pedestal baskets of large white chrysanthemums and pompons combined with yew.

Mrs. Albert Leckie, sister-in-law of the bride, from Machias, Maine, was matron of honor. She wore a flower blue dress, styled with fitted bodice of velvet, featuring scoop neckline and three-quarter sleeves, and a full crystalsheen skirt, accented by a matching velvet cummerbund. Her small velvet hat was in matching blue and she carried white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Leckie wore a pink nubby faille dress, featuring shawl collar, with white gloves, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue wool dress with black accessories and white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. Tables were covered with crocheted cloths over blue satin with the bride's bouquet as centerpiece for the table on which the tiered wedding cake and crystal punch bowl were at opposite ends. Miss Peggy Parker of Chatham and Miss Joan Shaw, Ruston, presided at the table and Mrs. Leon Westbrook of Bernice, had charge of the bride's book.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Dallas, Texas, the bride was wearing a green wool ensemble with matching hat and black accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. The couple will establish a home at 700 Laurel St., in Pine Bluff. The bride was graduated from Chatham High School and a business school in Pine Bluff. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Bobo High, Clarksdale, Miss., and Copiah - Lincoln Junior College, Wesson, Miss.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

Following rehearsal of the Smith - Leckie bridal party Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smith were hosts at a supper in a Chatham restaurant, honoring their son and his fiancee. Gifts were presented by the couple to their attendants and to each other.

Olsen-Caudill Vows Slated In Keesler Chapel

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Caudill of Gulfport, Miss., announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Marie to Lt. William Alan Olsen. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Olsen of Little Silver, New Jersey and Natchez, Miss.

The wedding will take place February 4, at Keesler Air Force Base Chapel at Biloxi, Miss.

Miss Caudill is a graduate of Washington High school near Natchez. She completed training in x-ray technology at Mississippi Baptist hospital in Jackson, Miss. and is at present a registered x-ray technician at Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

Lt. Olsen was graduated from Red Bank high school at Red Bank, N. J., and attended Rensslear Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y. and Monmouth college, Long Branch, N. J. He completed aviation training at Harlengen Air Force base, Texas and was commissioned a navigator in the U. S. Army Air Force. Lt. Olsen is now in training in electronic counter - measures for rating as an electronic warfare officer at Keesler Air Force Base.

Mats Underfoot

Heavy - duty vinyl floor mats come in handy for steadier footing all around the house. One manufacturer recommends them for use under baby's bassinette at bathing time, at the kitchen sink, and in front of the automatic washer and dryer. The washable ribbed mats make for firmer footing when any washing job is in progress.

MR. AND MERRIL ALVA PETERSON

Peterson-Gravelle Vows Solemnized In Winnsboro

Miss Marileon Gravelle became the bride of Merril Alva Peterson, in a double ring ceremony performed Tuesday, December 27 in St. Mary's Catholic Church in Winnsboro. The Rev. John Mulkeen, S.S.J., officiated at the 3 p.m. vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Gravelle of Winnsboro and Mr. Peterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Peterson of Hattiesburg, Miss.

Arrangements of white gladioli and white poinsettias were placed in the church vestibule and the altar railing before which the bridal party stood was draped with garlands of evergreen, caught by white satin bows. Forming a setting for the ceremony were four branched candelabra, entwined with greenery and holding white cathedral tapers, and two baskets of white galdioli, pompons and chrysanthemums, against a background of red poinsettias.

Mrs. Nolan C. Moore, wearing a white satin brocade sheath and a corsage of red carnations, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied N. C. (Pete) Moore who sang "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of peau de soie, styled with long tapered sleeves and a round neckline. The front bodice and yoke were appliqued with lace medallions, embroidered in seed pearls. The very full skirt extended into a chapel train and her veil of illusion cascaded from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of feathered white carnations, surrounding a white orchid, showered with satin streamers.

Miss Barbara Gravelle, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Mrs. Gwen Estes, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Drew Hatfield.

Jerry Montgomery served as best man and ushers were Rob Slay, Herbie Slay, Joe Gravelle and Jens Peterson.

Mrs. Gravelle chose for her daughter's wedding a cocoa brown wool jersey dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Peterson, wore a black brocade silk gown with complimentary accessories and both wore corsages of cymbidium orchids with shell pink ribbon.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of scarlet poinsettias, white carnations and white pompons, combined with white tapers in silver candelabra. Decorations throughout the reception rooms were in white and silver, with white pearlized grape clusters and filigreed wedding bells used predominantly.

For a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast and Florida, the bride was wearing a green wool ensemble with brown and beige accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. The couple will make their home in Pensacola, Florida.

The bride was graduated from Winnsboro High School and is a senior at Mississippi Southern College, Hattiesburg; where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Mr. Peterson graduated from Hattiesburg High School and Mississippi Southern College, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha order, Kappa Mu Epsilon, honorary math fraternity and Geology Club.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Peterson, Charlie Stiglets, Roy Slay, of Hattiesburg; Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Slay, Bowling Green, Ky., Mrs. Jerry Estes, Pascagoula, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Ben Weingart, Mrs. Mabel Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Peterson of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gravelle, Rayville; Johnnie Etier, Camile and Catherine Mongham and Mrs. Azilea Flowers, Rayville.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1815 in the battle of New Orleans, the final military engagement of the War of 1812, Gen. Andrew Jackson defeated the British.

In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson specified the 14 points on which he hoped a "peace of justice" could be based.

In 1925, Russian composer Igor Stravinsky made his first public appearance in the U. S., conducting the New York Philharmonic Symphony.

A thought for today: Novelist Joseph Conrad said: "A work that aspires, however humbly, to the conditions of art should carry its justification in every line."

Small Theaters For Experimental Productions Due

NEW YORK (AP) — Two small theaters for exhibit of experimental productions are being built three blocks west of Broadway on 42nd Street.

Irving Maidman, real estate owner who opened one small play-house in the area several months ago, said the new halls — named the Jewel Box and the Showcase — will contain rehearsal space, workshop area and offices in addition to usual theater facilities.

Kennedy Faces Possible Fight Over Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key Democratic congressional leader indicated possible trouble Salur' day for any move by the new Kennedy administration to seek greater White House authority over the troubled regulatory agencies.

Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., of the House Commerce Committee made clear that Congress will take a dim view of any effort to tamper with the independent status of these agencies.

Harris, whose committee handles legislation dealing with the major agencies, is again offering a bill aimed at improving ethical standards in the much criticized boards and commissions which regulate such activities as air and ground transportation, broadcasting and electric and gas utilities.

He made no effort to hide his feeling that the cure to what troubles the regulatory bodies does not rest with augmenting White House authority.

FOR SINGER

Event Changes Course Of Life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I don't believe in fate," said Helen Traubel, "but it is amazing how single events can change the course of your life."

The course of the singer's life has taken a sudden change from the ease of near - retirement to working from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. in a movie. And she's having a ball.

"I had decided to cut my career down to almost nothing," she said. "I had worked hard for many years, and I thought I deserved to slow down. I didn't get restless; I'm very good at doing nothing.

FASCINATED

"Then Jerry Lewis called me up and offered me a part. At first I said no, but then I got interested. I'm glad I did. I'm fascinated watching Jerry create comedy."

Meanwhile her plans for retirement have flown out the window and she contemplates other films and even a TV series. So let's mark another chapter in the multifaceted career of a St. Louis woman who declined to be merely an opera singer.

Traubel, of course, was no mere singer, having starred at the Metropolitan during its great Wagnerian era. But her lusty love of life made her interested in other things as well, including baseball —she is a great Cardinal fan— and comedy.

One of her first ventures away from the operatic stage was on the old Duffy's Tavern radio show. She was clowning with Ed Gardner (Archy) one day when Jimmy Durante's producer, Phil Cohan, happened in from the next studio: Bingo!

SUREFIRE

It was the surefire combination of Durante and Traubel that got her out of the Brunhilde getup and into the public's consciousness as a warm and witty entertainer. That turn of events also led to her break with the Met.

After the singer made a much publicized night club debut, Metropolitan boss Rudolph Bing cautioned her about preserving dignity. She still smarts over the incident.

"Imagine the nerve of him to come over here from Europe and start lecturing about dignity!" she said. "I had the perfect answer for him: I carry my dignity with me.

GLAD

"I am glad I left opera when I did. I had never wanted to continue to the point where people would be saying, 'That Traubel-Why doesn't she quit?' That would have killed me."

The singer's trade mark — her heft — was another chance happening in her life.

"I was always skinny as a girl," she recalled. "My family was worried about me because they were all big people. I was thin until I was 28, and then I ausswnly ar erws f ininf. 'I've never lost it . . .

"And I needed that strength just to sing. When 'Tristan und Isolde' is nearly over for everyone else, I still had one aria of eight minutes, if unstretched, or six minutes if they didn't want to pay the musicians after-midnight overtime."

Holbrook Plans Vacation From Characterization

Recently returned from a European tour sponsored by the State Department, Holbrook is currently on cross-country expedition. By May, he figures he will have done his one-man show 400 times in the past two years.

Not Ambitious

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rita Moreno, now starring in "West Side Story," says she has no ambitious to be a major movie star.

"It means spending hours with people in whom you have no interest. It precludes having a real romance. I'm entirely feminine. I like men. You can't embrace a script."

'MARRIAGE-GO-ROUND'

Fun-Romance Paramount Film

The comedy - romance that rocked Broadway on its heels for half a thousand performances, hits the screen with the same hilarious impact as 20th Century-Fox brings "The Marriage-Go-Round" to the Paramount Theatre in CinemaScope DeLuxe Color, opening today with the year's most sophisticated laugh-makers at the helm: Academy Award winner Susan Hayward, suave James Mason and voluptuous "glamazon" Julie Newmar.

The rollicking film treatment is in the hands of Producer-scenarist Leslie Stevens who staged the play, and has retained the delicious and unconventional humor of the original with a big plus. It's all about a domestic crisis in the household of two college professors, Susan Hayward and James Mason, who deliver lectures on marriage and morals and suddenly find their own in jeopardy at the hands of a beautiful blond Swedish bombshell (Julie Newmar) who wants a "perfect" baby and has selected Mason as the appropriate father!

PROBLEM

How this eugenics problem is solved without benefit of mayhem, matching wit and female wile between a woman who wants to keep her husband and a woman who wants to borrow him . . . is the merry eyebrow - raising theme of this most unusual film offering. Master-of-comedy Walter Lang, who has a long list of directorial triumphs behind him, keeps the laughs coming at a fast clip bordering on satire as he plays the situation to its comic hilt yet stays within the framework of the censor's okay.

Academy Award winning star, Susan Hayward, as the bedeviled wife who must keep her head and her husband under a deluge of Swedish glamour from her unwelcome houseguest, delivers one of the most urbane performances of her career, reviving for her fans a perhaps forgotten enthusiasm for the Hayward who can play comedy like a breeze.

As Professor Paul Delville, selected by Julie Newmar to be papa to her eugenic baby, James Mason too takes an unexpected fork in the road and turns from film "heavy" to suave romantic-lead with lavish injections of humor. Tempted again and again by the Swedish damsel who has a fine distaste for the conventions of marriage, Mason registers superbly as a defender of monogamy while fighting his rising desire and the mixed emotions of shock, embarrassment and just plain male egotism!

FROM BROADWAY

From Broadway and the original cast of "The Marriage-Go-Round" comes Julie Newmar, six-foot brown-eyed blond, to play Katrin Sveg, the role that earned her the Antoinette Perry Award as best supporting actress after a run of two years. Curvaceous, tempestuous and eye-filling, she out-triumphs herself in the larger dimension of the screen version, matching judo wits with a company of muscle-men to the manor-born!

"The Marriage-Go-Round" is also propelled on its sprightly way by the performances of Robert Paige, June Clayworth, Joe Kirkwood Jr. and Mary Patton, all combining talents to make this the year's number one mirthquake.

New Director Much Sought In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

But World War II and naval service interferred. Now he's a favorite director of Sir Laurence Olivier, Tony Curtis and Rock Hudson.

Olivier, in fact, has become an unofficial agent for Mulligan.

"I feel as if I should give him 10 per cent of my salary," says Mulligan. "Every English actor who comes over here asks me to direct him. They all say: 'Larry sent me.'"

EMMY AWARD

Mulligan directed Olivier in TV's "The Moon and Sixpence," for which the English actor got an Emmy award his first time out on U. S. television.

Olivier then came out here to do "Spartacus" and praised Mulligan to co-star Tony Curtis.

Curtis' last two pictures, "The Rat Race" and "The Great Impostor," were directed by Mulligan. Curtis told Rock Hudson. Mulligan then directed Rock and Gina Lollobrigida in "Come September" in Italy.

"And I've got Olivier to thank for all of it," he says.

Mulligan said he earned Olivier's support by overriding producer David Susskind on the TV show.

"Olivier came over here last year and sat in a hotel waiting for a script for the Somerset Maugham story. Two scripts were rejected.

SCRIPTS

"Susskind wanted me to patch up the rejected scripts. I said it would be an insult to the greatest actor in the English - speaking world."

So Mulligan brought in author S. Lee Pogostin and the two worked around the clock on a new script. It was finished in less than a week.

"Olivier loved it. He said he wanted to work with us on anything he did on TV in this country again. That was compliment enough for me—but now he's my unofficial agent."

London Showing Of 'Camelot' Is Set For Autumn

BLACKOUT, BOMB, BOOM

Farewell Salute To Broadway '60

NEW YORK (AP)—A farewell salute to Broadway's 1960, year of blackout, Behan, bomb and boom.

Fifty-five shows reached Glitter Canyon, 9 others tried but didn't, and 21 survived for New Year champagne. Musicals more than ever ran away with the box office.

Two dancing delights, Elizabeth Seal and Tammy Grimes, rocketed to acclaim. Anne Bancroft and Tom Bosley won standout performance awards. "Fiorello!" ran off with most of the play prizes.

ANCIENT CUSTOM

The ancient custom of city firemen patrol against playhouse smokers ended without a single carpet burn reported. One alarm sounded, for a minor backstage blaze (non-tobacco) at a performance of "Take Me Along," during which Jackie Gleason and Walter Pidgeon diverted the audience with dance.

Brendan Behan, Ireland's rambunctious bard, came, saw and conquered Broadway, but other authors also made news.

James Michener and James Thurber turned players briefly in their own works. William Saroyan blasted London critics for blasting his latest play. Elmer Rice declared speech freedom threatened by private pressure groups. William Inge asked more respect for dramatic endeavor. Arthur Miller's complete works were published in the Soviet Union.

Boston legal authority renewed the city censor's right to expurgate the stage, a traveling "Andersonville Trial" company bypassed two Southern dates to controversy, a New York landlord said a dancer could live in his house but a dramatist couldn't.

Trying something new, a brokerage firm dedicated to theatrical investment opened shop, a touring troupe banked savings with management, 17 craft groups united to revive the road. New York producers gave up attempting to get customers for early evening performances each Wednesday.

Two shows invited the public in free in defiance of critical thumbs-down, but "The Princess" in London and "Top Secret" in New York closed quickly anyway.

In the romance department, Vivien Leigh divorced Sir Laurence Olivier, Margaret Leighton shed Laurence Harvey, Marilyn Monroe and Arthur Miller parted, Shelley Winters said goodbye to Anthony Franciosa, Bette Davis and Gary Merrill called it quits.

Lauren Bacall found new love with Jason Robards Jr.; Claude Raines, 70, married his fifth wife; Imogene Coca rewed; and the stage's most famous couple, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, said they planned a long stage sabbatical—together.

The show went on despite assorted acting ailments. Basil Rathbone collapsed of fatigue on tour with "J. B..," a bus bump took Zero Mostel out of "The Good Soup." Veteran Farrell Pelly collapsed on New Haven opening night. Kenneth Nelson played on in off-Broadway's "The Fantasticks" with a fractured right arm.

Fevers interrupted runs for Carol Channing and Hal March, the flu caused Joseph Toner to miss a performance for the first time in 44 years. "Camelot" set a record for assorted ills with lyricist, director and theater manager sidelined during Toronto tryout. Judy Holliday's throat ailment cancelled production of "Laurette" and brought $100,000 insurance payoff.

RETIRED

Broadway's best-known critic, Brooks Atkinson, retired from his aisle seat for the New York Times. Another veteran, Time magazine's Louis Kronenberger, said he would halt at season's end. The Playwrights Company went out of business after 12 seasons of production.

Broadway's foreign missions were mostly bright Muscovites crowded to "My Fair Lady," London applauded "Inherit the Wind," and "Holiday on Ice" played in a Roman amphitheater in Jordan and in Africa's tropical heat. But gloom lowered as Rialto-bound "Free and Easy" flopped in Paris.

The final curtain came down for many others: Margaret Sullivan, Albert Camus, Diana Barrymore, Bobby Clark, Ian Keith, Jimmy Savo, Bretaigne Windust, Maurice Schwartz, A. E. Matthews, Louis Jean Heydt and Gertrude Vanderbilt of "Ziegfeld Follies" fame.

The year's strangest excuse for a closing was given for "Brouhaha" which the critics loudly parned in off-Broadway production. The sponsors solemnly said the show was off because of the illness of one cast member, De Sangpur Wee All-Star, a dachshund. The most popular show tune in discs was "Artificial Flowers" from "Tenderloin."

Northeast To Participate At Meeting

Louisiana Polytechnic Institute will be the host college for the meeting, scheduled March 3-4 in Ruston.

Banquet speaker on March 3 will be Dr. Martin ten Hoor, a former conference president. Dr. Herbert E. Longenecker, president of Tulane University, will address the business session on March 4.

Six Northeast instructors and administrators will take part in sectional meetings.

Serving as a panelist in agriculture will be Dr. J. G. Hammons, who will represent the college in discussions on basic science requirements in the agriculture curricula for the freshman year and agriculture orientation courses.

Miss Frances Kelso, associate professor of home economics, will serve on a panel pertaining to new directions for the first year in college home economics.

Participating in a discussion of how much high school journalism aids the journalism student in college will be Oscar Banks, instructor in journalism and member of the News Bureau staff. Kenneth Hewins, head of Louisiana Tech's Journalism Department, will moderate the panel.

Dr. Anna Helen Gallagher, director of the Department of Nursing at Northeast, will be one of the speakers on a panel emphasizing upgrading of freshman requirements in nursing.

Miss Alma Lufcy, counselor to Northeast women, will participate in a section devoted to personnel and guidance. Panel members will discuss the American College Testing Program.

Dr. Fred J. Vogel, dean of student services, will address the registrars section on "Watering Last Year's Crop." His talk will be followed by a general discussion.

The conference agenda also includes the following sectional meetings: art and music, commerce, deans, education, engineering, English, health and physical education, librarians, mathematics, modern and classical languages, natural science, social sciences, speech and special education.

Small Theaters For Experimental Productions Due

NEW YORK (AP) — Two small theaters for exhibit of experimental productions are being built three blocks west of Broadway on 42nd Street.

Irving Maidman, real estate owner who opened one small play-house in the area several months ago, said the new halls —named the Jewel Box and the Showcase — will contain rehearsal space, workshop area and offices in addition to usual theater facilities.

IN MISSISSIPPI

Segregation Group Target Of Lawsuit

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Four Mississippians, one a Negro, asked federal district court Saturday to stop the state sovereignty commission from donating public funds to a private group advocating racial segregation.

The bill of complaint said the public tax revenue that went to the private Citizens Councils was used to [illegible] and oppose the law of the land and to encourage violence to prevent the elimination of racial discrimination.

The Citizens Councils, some of whose 1954 organizers said violence would be used if necessary to maintain segregation, have contended they are nonviolent and seek only legal means of maintaining segregation.

The public tax funds referred to were a lump sum donation of $20,000 last June and orders to pay $5,000 a month beginning in June and bearing no cut-off date.

W. J. Simmons of Jackson, national administrator of the Citizens Councils, said the money was given to the Citizens Council Forum to help pay for production of television and radio programs advocating states rights and segregation.

The four men filing the bill of complaint were [illegible] of Jackson, official of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Lonnie B. Daniel of [illegible] Jackson, area official for Communications Workers of America; [illegible] Smith Jr. of Jackson, Negro grocer, and William L. Higgs of Jackson, who also acted as attorney for the complainants.

The complaint asked Federal District Judge Sidney Mize of the southern district of Mississippi to ask Judge R. T. Rives, presiding judge of the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, to convene a special three-judge federal court to hear the petition.

The complaint attacks the state law that authorizes the Sovereignty Commission to do [illegible] anything to [illegible] desegregation including donation of public funds to private organizations.

Group Seeks Russell Long As Governor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans States-[illegible] day reported two new [illegible] on the political front.

They were:

1. [illegible] Long [illegible] political [illegible] Russell Long, D-La., [illegible] nor in 1963.

2. Petitions [illegible] for the recall of [illegible] legislators [illegible] tax increase [illegible]

Other leaders [illegible] newspaper [illegible] Voice of Breaux Bridge [illegible] of the House [illegible] Shreveport, J. W. [illegible] Monroe [illegible] Baton Rouge.

Leaders [illegible] Sen. Long [illegible] and son of the late Huey P. Long as their candidate [illegible]

The States-Item identified [illegible] two legislators [illegible] as Peter Marks [illegible] [illegible] Rodney A. [illegible] Ward [illegible]

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis [illegible] ing the increase [illegible] marked for grants [illegible] white public school [illegible] tend private [illegible] grated schools.

White House Conference Charges Fly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House conference [illegible] Monday [illegible] [illegible] become a political [illegible]

The four-day conference [illegible] together about 2,800 delegates from every state is designed to provide some new methods for coping with the financial, health and social problems of retired persons.

One of the key questions will be: How far should the federal government go to help the retired [illegible] their medical bills?

This question [illegible] political overtones which has prompted the charge of rigging the conference.

Prof. Wilbur Cohen of Michigan University, an architect of the present Social Security System, said several days ago the American Medical Association, private insurance interests and business representatives had stacked the conference. He said organized medicine would manipulate the conference as an excuse to block action by Congress on providing medical care for the aged under Social Security.

He said Saturday he feels so strongly about the matter he will not be a delegate to the conference even though his invitation to attend came from President Eisenhower.

The AMA, most of the insurance industry and the Chamber of Commerce have opposed the Social Security health insurance plan pushed by the AFL-CIO and [illegible] organizations.

[illegible] called it "socialized medicine" and said the answer to meeting the medical care problems of older people should come mainly through private and voluntary health insurance.

They have had the support of the Eisenhower administration, while the Democratic platform and President-elect John F. Kennedy have supported the medical care program under Social Security. Kennedy has announced it will be one of his major proposals in Congress.

Two Are Killed In State Crash

State troopers identified the dead as James K. Reasonover, 53, New Orleans, and 1-year-old Cheryl Lynn Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Stewart, Baton Rouge.

The child's mother was injured critically.

State Petroleum Group Reports

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Petroleum Council reports there were 23,205 wells producing an average of 41.9 barrels of oil a day each at the end of fiscal 1959.

The council said the oil industry paid more than half the state tax revenues during the period and in 1960 accounted for more than 93 per cent of all minerals produced.

Bans Three Papers

MEDAN, Indonesia (UPI) — The Indonesian government Friday banned three more newspapers under President Sukarno's press reorganization program.

At the same time, a new daily, "Reconstruction", was allowed to begin publication.

Segregation Group Target Of Lawsuit

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Four Mississippians, one a Negro, asked federal district court Saturday to stop the state sovereignty commission from donating public funds to a private group advocating racial segregation.

The bill of complaint said the public tax revenue that went to the private Citizens Councils was used to subvert and oppose the law of the land and to encourage violence to prevent the elimination of racial discrimination.

The Citizens Councils, some of whose 1954 organizers said violence would be used if necessary to maintain segregation, have contended they are nonviolent and seek only legal means of maintaining segregation.

The public tax funds referred to were a lump sum donation of $20,000 last June and orders to pay $5,000 a month beginning in July and bearing no cut-off date.

W. J. Simmons of Jackson, national administrator of the Citizens Councils, said the money was given to the Citizens Council Forum to help pay for production of television and radio programs advocating states rights and segregation.

The four men filing the bill of complaint were: C. E. Shaffer of Jackson, official of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Lonnie B. Daniel of of Jackson, area official for Communications Workers of America; Robert L. T. Smith Jr. of Jackson, Negro grocer; and William L. Higgs of Jackson, who also acted as attorney for the complainants.

The complaint asked Federal District Judge Sidney Mize of the southern district of Mississippi to ask Judge R. T. Rives, presiding judge of the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, to convene a special three-judge federal court to hear the petition.

The complaint attacks the state law that authorizes the Sovereignty Commission to do just about anything to help prevent racial desegregation including donation of public funds to private organizations.

Group Seeks Russell Long As Governor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans States-Item Saturday reported two new moves on the political front.

They were:

1. Supporters of the late Earl K. Long are forming a statewide political organization to back Sen. Russell Long, D-La., for governor in 1964.

2. Petitions are being circulated for the recall of two New Orleans legislators who voted for the sales tax increase in the state House Thursday.

The newspaper said the new political organization will be known as the State Democratic Association of Louisiana and that Edgar A. Coco of Marksville is acting secretary - treasury. Coco ran on the ticket backed by Earl Long in the 1959 primary.

Other leaders named by the newspaper include Rep. Robert Angelle of Breaux Bridge, speaker of the House in the Long administration, Grover Weaver of Shreveport, J. W. Menefee of Monroe, and Jesse Bankston of Baton Rouge.

Leaders in the new organization deny they are aiming for the 1963 primary, the newspaper said, with Sen. Long, nephew of Earl Long and son of the late Huey P. Long as their candidate, but the report persists in political circles.

The States-Item identified the two legislators marked for recall as Peter Murtes of Ward 13 and Rodney A. Buras of Ward 7.

They were among the 69 House members voting favorable for the tax increase which still has to pass the Senate.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis is backing the increase which is earmarked for grants in aid to allow white public school children to attend private, nonsectarian, segregated schools.

White House Conference Charges Fly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House conference on aging opens Monday amid charges of rigging and with the prospect it may become a political donnybrook.

The four-day conference—bringing together about 2,500 delegates from every state—is designed to provide some new methods for dealing with the financial, health and social problems of retired persons.

One of the key questions will be: How far should the federal government go to help the retired pay their medical bills?

It's this question—liberaly laced with political overtones — which has prompted the charge of rigging the conference.

Prof. Wilbur Cohen of Michigan University, an architect of the present Social Security System, said several days ago the American Medical Association, private insurance interests and business representatives had stacked the conference. He said organized medicine would manipulate the conference as an excuse to block action by Congress on providing medical care for the aged under Social Security.

He said Saturday he feels so strongly about the matter he will not be a delegate to the conference, even though his invitation to attend came from President Eisenhower.

The AMA, most of the insurance industry and the Chamber of Commerce have opposed the Social Security health insurance plan pushed by the AFL-CIO and welfare organizations.

They've called it "socialized medicine" and said the answer to meeting the medical care problems of older people should come mainly through private and voluntary health insurance.

They have had the support of the Eisenhower administration, while the Democratic platform and President-elect John F. Kennedy have supported the medical care program under Social Security. Kennedy has announced it will be one of his major proposals in Congress.

Two Are Killed In State Crash

State troopers identified the dead as James K. Reasonover, 53, New Orleans, and 1 - year - old Cheryl Lynn Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Stewart, Baton Rouge.

The child's mother was injured critically.

State Petroleum Group Reports

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana Petroleum Council reports there were 23,205 wells producing an average of 41.9 barrels of oil a day each at the end of fiscal 1959.

Total production in the state was 354,611,000 barrels of oil during the 1959 fiscal year.

The council said the oil industry paid more than half the state tax revenues during the period and in 1960 accounted for more than 93 per cent of all minerals produced.

Bans Three Papers

MEDAN, Indonesia (UPI)—The Indonesian government Friday banned three more newspapers under President Sukarno's press reorganization program.

At the same time, a new daily, "Reconstruction", was allowed to begin publication.

BUY THAT RAMBLER!

1st. Because you might beat the "Proposed" TAX that might be imposed upon you any day.

2nd. You may be one of the thousands to again receive a U.S. Government Bond through American Motors Customer Progress Sharing Plan. 34,324 December purchasers of RAMBLERS will be mailed one of these Bonds in January. This represents a gross maturity value totalling near a million dollars.

3rd. RAMBLER is AMERICAN born, twelve years old, full grown, tried and tested billions of miles against nine competitors, not one of whom have more than two years experience.

4th. Vote for RAMBLER in January and its possible that you will receive a Bond as many thousands of others have and as those listed below right here at home.

5th. If you "GO RAMBLER" you will save more in a short time in first cost, maintenance, operating cost than the new proposed tax will cost you if it is forced and imposed upon you.

6th. If we reach our goal in January as we did in December, each RAMBLER purchaser will receive a Bond in the form of a refund. We will give you back something instead of taking something away from you.

AS WE JOIN MARY WORTH, SHE HAS JUST ENDED A LONG··· AND ABSORBING·· AFTERNOON OF SHOPPING······· SIX O'CLOCK! IS THAT POSSIBLE?··NO WONDER THE BUSES ARE SO FEW AND FAR-BETWEEN!
N.Y.P.D.
STOP
IS THAT MINE COMING?·· BY THE TIME I FISH OUT MY GLASSES AND PUT THEM ON IT WILL BE GONE!
I'M SURE THIS IS THE RIGHT ONE!
WOULD YOU MIND STEPPING UP?·· SO I MAY GET INSIDE BEFORE THE DOOR CLOSES?

THANK YOU FOR LETTING ME ON! I ALMOST MISSED IT!
REALLY?
ERNST SAUNDERS
PARDON ME··· HOW CLOSE DOES THIS BUS GO TO 88th AND RIVERSIDE?
OFFHAND, LADY··· I'D SAY ABOUT 15 MILES!
MERCIFUL DAYS! HOW STUPID OF ME!
SHE'S PUTTING ON AN ACT! ··A VERY UNCONVINCING ONE!·· I'M POSITIVE SHE FOLLOWED ME ABOARD!

EVEN AFTER FOUR YEARS I KNOW SO VERY LITTLE ABOUT POTEET...
Lieut. Col. Stevenson B. Canyon July 22
Redlands Air Force Base, California
Your cousin, POTEET CANYON, being sent to you today on Great Circle Airlines Flight #414, since we are going out of business and you are only living kin.
DOGIE ORPHANAGE
SHE CAME INTO MY LIFE SO QUICKLY...
REDLANDS AIR FORCE BASE
USAF
AS A CHILD SHE COULD LIVE WITH FRIENDS,
BUT SHE HAS BECOME ALMOST A WOMAN
MATS
BACK TO MAUMEE UNIVERSITY FOR TH' SECOND SEMESTER!..
...IF I'M T'LOOK AFTER YOU, I'VE GOT T'GET A LOT SMARTER IN TH' HEAD!

"... ONE MAN IN HIS TIME PLAYS MANY PARTS." SHAKESPEARE. BUT OUR FRIEND, JOHNNY QUICK, ISN'T ACTING! HE PLAYS FOR KEEPS, ALL THE WAY!
IN TAKING "FAITH" FOR MY TEXT AGAIN THIS MORNING, I HOPE, JOHNNY, YOU DON'T FEEL I'M IN A RUT!
I THINK AN EXPERT SHOULD STICK TO HIS SPECIALTY! YOU SUIT US, PADRE!
CONFIDENTIALLY, MARLENE AND I PLAN TO USE YOU VERY SOON—PROFESSIONALLY!
FOR THAT KIND OF "BUSINESS" I'LL STAY OPEN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS A DAY!
THE PADRE! FOREVER, OVER AND OVER, HARPING ON "FAITH"! AFTER ALL HIS YEARS ON BATTLEFIELDS, CAN HE BELIEVE ALL THAT STUFF?
THE PADRE HAS SEEN, CLOSE UP, MORE OF THE WAYS OF PROVIDENCE THAN MOST AMONG US! PERHAPS THAT'S WHY HIS FAITH SURPASSES MOST! ONLY THE WEAK LOSE FAITH!
ER ... SURE, JOHNNY! SURE!
I NEVER FIGURED HIM, A TOUGH, SUDDEN-DEATH GUY LIKE JOHNNY...
...COULD BE ON THE PADRE'S TEAM? SEEMS I'VE READ THAT SOME OF THE CRUSADERS WHO FOUGHT THE MOORS WEREN'T EXACTLY SISSIES, EITHER!
IT'S SUCH A SMOOTH RIDING CAR ... AND SO POWERFUL! BUT WHY MUST YOU HAVE ONE SO FAST?
150 MILES AN HOUR? I MAY NEVER USE THAT SPEED!
BUT I WANT TO BE ABLE TO CHOOSE WHO COMES UP BEHIND ME ... OR GOES BY!
OH, JOHNNY! THOSE DANGEROUS YEARS ARE PAST! HOME NOW, YOU'RE SAFE!
SURE, MARLENE! SURE! WELL, HERE WE ARE. LOT TO BE DONE YET TO THE OLD HOUSE, BUT IT'S BEGINNING TO SHAPE UP!
HEY! THEY'VE EVEN GOT TH' BARN FIXED UP!
OH, JOHNNY! I CAN FEEL IT ALL AROUND ME! THIS MARVELOUS, MODERN KITCHEN! AND THE WHOLE HOUSE SO WARM AND HOMEY!
ANOTHER WEEK OR SO IT'LL BE ALL DONE!
AND THEN, JOHNNY?
YEP! ONE OTHER LITTLE MATTER, BUT IT SHOULD BE HANDLED VERY SOON, TOO. ER ... I'LL TAKE THAT!
FIGGERED YOU WOULD!
YOU'RE HAVING HIM TURNED LOOSE TOMORROW, EH? GOOD! THEY'LL GET THE IDEA! HE'LL LEAD THEM TO ME! DON'T WORRY! MEET YOU TOMORROW, USUAL SPOT! ... SO ... WHAT'S WITH YOU, BIG EARS?
HEY? I'M DEEF AS A POST, MAJOR! DEEF AND DUMB!
